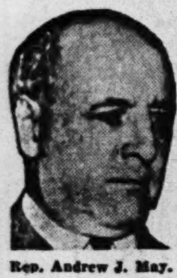
HALT OF DRAFT IN MAN POWER CRISIS URGED

Rep. May Proposes 'Adjustment.'

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]



Rep. Andrew J. May.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—Temporary suspension of all draft inductions was proposed today by Chairman Andrew J. May [D., Ky.] of the house military affairs committee, as members of both houses prepared for a fight to halt the fathers' draft.

Rep. May presented his plan when asked if he had any suggestions to offer while attending a meeting of the senate military affairs subcommittee investigating the man power situation. He said:

"I think that if there were a letup in the induction of men—fathers and nonfathers—until we get the home front adjusted to the fighting front, that would open one gate to the solution of the man power problem."

[Exodus of war workers causes man power crisis on west coast. Details on page 7.]

Wheeler Presses Plan.

Rep. May's proposal came a few hours after Sen. Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] had demanded that plans for drafting fathers be dropped in view of Italy's surrender, on the ground that a huge army now is unnecessary.

At the same meeting, Sen. Sheridan Downey [D., Cal.], the subcommittee chairman, warned that further increasing the army at the present rate might cause a breakdown in the production of war materials.

Sen. Downey said that almost 14 million persons are now in or employed by the military services.

"Our lend-lease commitments," Sen. Downey said, "will preëmpt the labor of another 7 million workers. Because of this, I doubt the ability of the American people to increase the armed forces beyond the present strength without a corresponding breakdown in production.

Draft Official Changes View.

Lt. Col. Francis V. Keesling, chief legislative and liaison officer for selective service, told Sen. Downey's subcommittee yesterday that passage of Sen. Wheeler's bill to defer the drafting of fathers until Jan. 1 might harm the war program.

Col. Keesling qualified his statement today, however, explaining that the program would not be hindered if the high command reduced its call for men.

"Because the jurisdiction of selective service does not extend to the making of strategic plans," he said. "I cannot make an official prediction as to whether the military man power requirements of the armed forces will be increased, decreased, or will remain the same as a result of the Italian situation.

Probe Draft Board Ouster.

"Our estimate that 446,000 fathers will be needed to fill calls for the army and navy thru the end of the year are, of course, based upon variable factors that we have assumed would remain constant."

Rep. May told reporters today that his committee will investigate reports that Draft Director Lewis B. Hershey dismissed a Haverhill, Mass., draft board which had refused to draft fathers while single men were exempted. Rep. May accused Hershey of violating the intent of the selective service law.

Major Quake Recorded; Placed South of Japan

Pasadena, Cal., Sept. 10 (AP).—A major earthquake, described as heavy enough to cause extensive destruction if in a populated area, was recorded early today by the California Institute of Technology seismological laboratory. Scientists said it occurred about 5,700 miles away, probably in the western Pacific south of Japan.

U. S. to Clothe 10 Millions in Foreign Lands

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10 [Special].—A 54 million dollar program designed to fill the clothing needs of 10 million foreigners has been established by the office of foreign relief and rehabilitation, Mrs. Eleanor Fletcher Lynch, acting chief of the textile section of the agency, announced today.

Most of the clothing will be made here according to OFRR specifications, Mrs. Lynch stated, as not enough used and distressed clothing is available or suitable to take care of more than a quarter of the estimated need. Supplemental yard goods also will be shipped abroad. Deliveries are expected to start soon.

The clothing will be sold, bartered, or, where conditions justify it, distributed free.

WPB to Control Purchases.

Control over the purchase of materials for the clothing rests with the war production board, subject to the approval of the office of civilian requirements so that civilian economy will not be disturbed by the program.

Many of the clothes will be made from materials rarely thought of in terms of clothing, notably osnaburg—similar to flour sacking—of which there is a surplus. Fifteen million yards of this material will be dyed in attractive colors and patterns and made up into dresses and blouses suitable for wear in the warmer climates.

The OFRR is using canvas and duck for which the army has no further use to make shoes, trousers, and work clothing.

To Furnish Snow Suits.

Several million yards of aralac, a casein product with many of the properties of wool, will be used for skirts and snow suits for the northern peoples.

Style of the clothes will be essentially "American classics," simple, tailored, "action-free," without ornaments or frills, but designed with an eye on prettiness so that, in the words of Mrs. Lynch, "nobody would mind wearing them."

The clothing represents a rock bottom basic wardrobe, but variety is achieved with a wide range of colors and patterns, some of them being developed exclusively for OFRR.

Feminine needs are being cared for by: one skirt design, a simple, four gored model made up in many fabrics and in sizes that range from the toddler stage right on up; two blouses, one a shirtmaker type, the other full, with a drawstring neck; a half dozen dress designs, all without side openings; a sports type coat with raglan sleeves and slash pockets for any one style young in spirit, which will come in navy, black, brown, and green, and a wrap-around coat with a shawl collar. The coats are yoke lined only.

Supplies for Infants.

The layette consists of diapers, a vest and wrapping blankets, with a sacque, cap, and mitts for the north countries. There is a creeper, jumper dresses or skirt for little girls, shorts for boys, with blouse or crew neck sweater to complete the outfit, and a simple one piece snow suit, without hood, for all who might need it, and a simple coat for older children, completed with cap and mittens. Underwear and stockings are also provided, as are shoes, which have canvas tops and composition soles.

For men, there are trousers, sweaters, and mackinaws, but no suits.

Mrs. Lynch thinks Europe will not only appreciate, but will like, these American clothes.

Time to Strike Back at Nazis, Italians Told

Washington, D. C., Sept. 11 [Saturday] — (AP). — President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill made a joint appeal to the Italian people last night to "strike hard and strike home" at the Germans on Italian soil.

The appeal was addressed in a message to Marshal Pietro Badoglio and "to the people of Italy." There was no mention of Italy's ruling dynasty, the house of Savoy.

The two allied leaders said: "Now is the time for every Italian to strike his blow."

First Decisive Steps Taken.

The text of the message as released by the White House follows:

"It has fallen to you in the hour of your country's agony to take the first decisive steps to win peace and freedom for the Italian people and to win back for Italy an honorable place in the civilization of Europe.

"You have already freed your country from Fascist servitude. There remains the even more important task of clearing the Italian soil of the German invaders. Hitler, thru his accomplice, Mussolini, has brought Italy to the verge of ruin. He has driven the Italians into disastrous campaigns in the sands of Egypt and the snows of Russia. The Germans have always deserted the Italian troops on the battlefield, sacrificing them contemptuously in order to cover their own retreats. Now Hitler threatens to subject you to all the cruelties he is perpetrating in so many lands.

Ask All to Help.

"Now is the time for every Italian to strike his blow. The liberating armies of the western world are coming to your rescue. We have very strong forces and are entering at many points. The German terror in Italy will not last long. They will be extirpated from your land and you, by helping in this great surge of liberation will place yourselves once more among the true and long-proved friends of your country from whom you have been so wrongfully estranged.

"Take every chance you can. Strike hard and strike home. Have faith in your future. All will come well. March forward with your American and British friends in the great world movement towards freedom, justice and peace."

GREEN INDORSED FOR PRESIDENCY BY WARD GROUP

Gov. Dwight H. Green was indorsed as a Republican candidate for President last night in a resolution adopted unanimously by the 39th ward regular Republican organization at a meeting at 3925 Irving Park road. The group was the first in Illinois publicly to indorse the governor.

The resolution, introduced by Ward Committeeman Raymond J. Peacock, praised Gov. Green for "his conviction that American sovereignty and constitutional form of government should be maintained at any cost in whatever post-war program is adopted."

The resolution also asserted that Gov. Green's capacity for leadership was proved last week when his views on domestic and international problems were approved by many at the Mackinac Island, Mich., conference of the Republican post-war advisory council.

ITALIANS STAY ON JOB AS U. S. FLYERS' COOKS

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 10 (AP).—Three Italian prisoners assigned to an American Mustang squadron in Sicily as assistant cooks listened to the announcement of the Italian capitulation with the regular members of the squadron.

"You can go now; you are no longer prisoners of war," one of the pilots said to them.

The prisoners excitedly insisted they had a right to stay until all prisoners were officially released, explaining they liked their jobs and the food which goes with it.

Jap Plight at Lae Desperate, Says M'Arthur

ALLIED HDQ. IN SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sept. 11 [Saturday] (AP).—The Japanese garrison's situation at Lae, New Guinea, now is desperate, Gen. MacArthur's headquarters said today.

Above the air base, Australian forces have crossed the Busu river near the Malahang airdrome and their patrols have encountered enemy resistance. This is the force which landed from the sea Sept. 4 and now has wheeled up 25 pound guns to pour shells into Lae.

Eighteen miles below Lae, other allied troops enveloping the air base of Salamaua tightened their pressure. More than 100 miles above Lae at Madang, Mitchell medium bombers destroyed or damaged 21 of the supply barges on which the Japanese rely so heavily.

Near Main Citadel of Lae.

On the southern coast of Dutch New Guinea, the Papuan peninsula, 16 Japanese bombers attacked allied held Merauke. Three escorting fighters were listed as possibly destroyed.

"Our forces from both sides are rapidly closing in on the main citadel of defenses" at Lae, today's war bulletin said.

"The enemy's position now is desperate.

"Our Salamaua pressure still pins down his forces on the south."

In the Lae-Salamaua area a Japanese army estimated as high as 20,000 is encircled.

The Australians crossed the Busu river, two miles from the Malahang field, in limited numbers. Rising waters hindered a major movement.

Paratroops Reënforced.

To the northwest of Lae, a rapidly growing force has advanced in strength to the vicinity of Narakopor in the Markham valley, 12 miles from Lae. Forward elements, however, have moved near Heath's plantation, an enemy strong point eight miles from the air base. The Markham valley force has moved ahead from positions seized 20 miles from Lae by paratroopers on Sept. 5. Since then, big air transports have moved in reënforcements from Port Moresby in a steady stream.

In the air assault in the Madang area, the Mitchells also hit motor trucks at Alexishafen and exploded ammunition dumps near Saidor.

For the first time since the start of the battle for New Guinea the Japanese defenders of Lae and Salamaua are facing an allied force equal in strength to theirs.

Only at Guadalcanal have the two sides come together in equal force previously, and there the Japanese were routed completely.

PREMIER QUITS CAPITAL; ENEMY SEIZES CONTROL

Claims Capture of Other Cities.

LONDON, Sept. 10 (AP).—German troops shelled and seized Rome, its vital railway system and airfield belt, and also "assumed protection of Vatican City," the Berlin radio announced tonight.

Marshal Pietro Badoglio, the premier who had sought unsuccessfully to get the Germans to shift their troops northward to the Po river, apparently had fled Rome. A report from the capital said he had left on a "military inspection."

A Berlin dispatch to Berne's Die Tat said that "not a single member of the Badoglio government or the royal house is still in Rome," indicating they might have reached an allied haven.

[Another dispatch from London said Badoglio, his cabinet, and military staff had moved their headquarters several days ago and are "safely located inside the country" where they are in contact with the allied authorities. This dispatch added that King Emmanuel and his family are with Badoglio.]

May Be on Way to Sicily.

German broadcasts said the king had abdicated in favor of Crown Prince Humbert. However, the Italian news agency Stefani denied the monarch had abdicated. It said he is "doing his utmost to save Italy from further suffering."

The Italian news agency, in a broadcast heard in London by the ministry of information, said "lively engagements" took place Friday afternoon "on the outskirts of Rome and in several streets of the city between Italian and German troops."

The broadcast reported that "intense" artillery exchanges continued for several hours, and added:

"The artillery exchanges and engagements ceased at the announcement of the agreement concluded between the German and military authorities, according to which the German troops were to stop at the limits of the open town."

"Palermo New Seat."

Stockholm dispatches meanwhile quoted the Swedish newspaper Svenska Dagbladet as reporting that Premier Badoglio "is now in Sicily and that Palermo will be the new seat of the Italian government."

Amid a profusion of reports came these from Berne:

That Badoglio and the chief members of his government were en route to Sicily; that the Nazis might be trying to locate Benito Mussolini to place him at the head of a new fascist regime created by Germany, and that Princess Yolande, daughter of the Italian king, had arrived in Lugano, Switzerland, with her three children.

Vatican Broadcasts Continue.

Stefani broadcasts over the Rome radio ceased at 7:55 p. m., after the Germans had announced Rome's fall. The Vatican radio continued its usual broadcasts, mainly religious talks, without reference to the situa-

Italy 'Tricked Us,' Germans Told by Hitler

TEXT OF SPEECH.

LONDON, Sept. 10 (AP).—Adolf Hitler broke a six month silence tonight in an attempt to rally the German people from the effects of Italy's desertion and, in a 16 minute radio speech, told them that Marshal Badoglio's "treachery" would be avenged by "harsh measures."

He charged that Italy arranged for its capitulation without notifying Germany beforehand and declared that the allies cannot hope to find traitors "like those in Italy" among the Germans.

Castigated along with Premier Badoglio was the Italian king, who, Hitler charged, was a partner in the deception and "treason" against Germany. He said that on the day Italy quit the war, the Italian leaders assured the Germans in Rome that Italy would stay in the war.

Isn't Forgetting Serbs.

"I am not forgetting the treachery of Jugo-Slavia either," Hitler said in taking cognizance of Balkan guerrilla bands waiting to join the allied invaders of Europe. In the spring of 1941 Jugo-Slavs repudiated their government's signature on the tripartite pact, turned against the Germans, and resisted invasion.

Hitler sought to dismiss Italy's act as of slight consequence militarily. The collapse, he said, "could be foreseen for a long time," but he attributed this not to lack of German aid—which he said had been generous—but to "absence of will."

In a recital of what Germany had done for Italy, Hitler recalled going to the aid of Benito Mussolini in the Balkans in 1941 and thus making "sacrifices at a moment when Germany had almost more than enough of her own worries to bear."

Offers of Aid Rejected.

"Many offers of help have been entirely refused by the military rulers of Italy," Hitler said, asserting that at the "appropriate time" evidence will be given of what contributions she has already made to her former ally.

On the home front, Hitler told Germany that the "ring of steel" guarding it "will never break."

Altho German soldiers may be forced to make tactical retreats and "we may have to cede some territory," he declared the army would be able to guard the nation from all assaults except the British-American bombing attacks.

"But here also," he assured his bomb harassed people, "technical and organizational means are growing which will not only break the enemy's air attacks forever but will retaliate with other and more effective means." He called for "heroic resistance."

Speaks Grimly.

Hearers here noted that Hitler spoke in a grim, military manner, devoid of the shouting and ranting that characterized his previous longer harangues. It was presumed he was reading from a manuscript in his headquarters, possibly Berchtesgaden.

For Mussolini, Hitler had praise as "one of the most outstanding men of modern times."

"His [Mussolini's] fall and the disgraceful insults to which he was subjected will be felt with deepest shame by future generations of the Italian people," he said.

Mussolini's last act, he said, was "a demand for increased powers for successful prosecution of the war, for stringent measures against open and concealed saboteurs of the war effort . . . to eliminate the cunning enemies of the Italian people in the life-or-death struggle and thereby secure Italy's future."

BRITAIN'S NAVY SEIZES BASE ON ITALIAN 'HEEL'

Clark's Army Gains in Naples Drive.

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 10 (AP).—The great naval base of Taranto on the Italian heel was in British hands tonight after an oversea thrust by the British navy. Meanwhile the American 5th army was driving inland in a vast envelopment of the Naples area after loosening the German grip by shattering five strong counter-attacks.

Taranto lies on the inside of the Italian heel on the gulf of Taranto, 80 miles from the tip of the Italian heel and 270 miles southeast of Rome. The speed with which the heavily fortified base capitulated indicated scant, if any, opposition. Landings started last night under protective British warships.

"Further extension of the allied offensive against German forces in Italy has taken place at Taranto where British forces started landing yesterday evening," a special announcement said.

Third Allied Landing.

It was the third successful allied landing on the mainland of Europe and roughly 150 airline miles northeast of the Calabrian area where the British 8th army was swiftly subduing the Italian toe. In addition to being a major naval base and port thru which heavy allied reënforcements can funnel, Taranto is a key communications center with primary highways radiating north, east, and west.

It was a long leap-frog move toward the Adriatic sea, which bathes the Italian east coast and separates the peninsula from the turbulent Balkans.

There was heavy fighting in the Naples area, altho Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery's 8th army had won control of much of the Calabrian peninsula—the Italian toe. He advanced up the west coast beyond Pizzo forming a junction with an amphibious force which established itself at Vibo Valentia. His troops captured Monasterace Marina in a parallel drive up the east coast in the direction of Taranto. About 60 miles of the Italian toe was in allied hands.

Land at Bay of Naples.

The Naples area was under violent American and British attack by land, sea, and air. A tremendous allied armada poured troops by the thousands and mountains of material onto the firmly established beachheads. Some landings actually were made on the shores of the Bay of Naples.

Offshore, 25 miles west of the second largest Italian port, the allies seized Ventotene Island, 70 miles south of Rome. The Italian garrison surrendered to the sea forces commanded by Vice Adm. Henry K. Hewitt of the United States navy, who commands the fleets off Naples.

The contest for the Naples area developed into a grim race between the American 5th army, commanded by Gen. Mark W. Clark, and its British units and the Germans, reported moving strong reënforcements down the peninsula to oppose the landing.

Since Naples controls communications in southern Italy, its capture would virtually seal off all the south.

Fight Armored Division.

The focal point of battle appeared to be just outside Salerno, 20 miles south of Naples on the gulf of Salerno. There the American-British force was reported in combat with the German 16th armored division.

Despite the heavy fighting in the Naples area, the Germans were massing their main forces in north Italy in preparation for defense of the Po river line barring access to the Alps.

By crushing five German counter-attacks mounted in vain efforts to throw the allies off balance, Gen. Clark had weathered the first test in the battle for Naples.

The Germans struck before Clark's huge army had been unloaded completely, trying to shatter the beachheads before heavy artillery and other massive material could be established ashore.

The allied radio at Algiers disclosed that the Germans had taken Genoa and said the next seven days would be decisive.

"It is your task, the task of every railway worker, telegraph, and telephone worker and every Italian of every class, to be ready to give his all for his country," the broadcast said. "It is your task to sever lines of communication between the German armies of northern Italy and the German armies in Naples and Calabria.

"The German invader is stunned—but only for the moment. If you give him time, he will recover and strike back with all his barbaric cruelty.

"Already he is in control of Genoa, but there still is time."

Bomb Allies at Naples.

Braving the American and British air supremacy, about 40 German planes bombed the Naples beaches in a desperate effort to slow down landing operations until Nazi reenforcements could be thrown into the battle.

The allied air force bombed military objectives in Italy heavily in support of the army drives to eject the Germans. Roads to the beaches in the Naples area were prime targets. Railway bridges at Capua, Potenza, and Cancello near Naples were pounded. The Grosesetto railway yards north of Rome and Italian air fields were blasted anew.

American Marauders bombed the Scanzano landing ground on the Gulf of Taranto and also cut a railway line.

American bombers from the middle east command attacked German landing fields at Foggia yesterday, starting fires among parked aircraft and buildings. Liberators also battered the adjacent landing fields at Tortorella, starting fires in a dispersal area.

A total of 20 enemy planes were shot down during the 24 hour period.

ROMMEL GUARDS ITALY

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Sept. 10.—Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, swaggering tactician of the Afrika korps, is back and altho the allies drove him out of Africa they are not happy to see him assume command of the German armies in northern Italy.

The entrance of Rommel, idol of the average German soldier, into the Italian theater is, in the words of one sober judge of warfare, worth three divisions to the enemy—with a maximum of three divisions he threatened the Suez canal for two years.

Not Unbeatable, However.

Moreover, both German privates and allied generals know that 26 years ago Rommel distinguished himself as a young lieutenant against the Italians at the storming of Isonzo near the Piave river in Italy on the front he may be asked to hold.

But Rommel is not unbeatable. Gen. Harold Alexander and Gen. Bernard L. Montgomery proved that at El Alamein. One of the most experienced British army commanders, however, has said: "Rommel stands for things I hate, but I would be foolish to underestimate him. I have never been comfortable with him on my front; he is as dangerous in defeat as in victory."

Rommel left Tunisia ostensibly because of malaria on March 17. British sources believe he was withdrawn not because of disease but to form an armored staff corps in Germany, a body sorely needed after the deep inroads that had been cut into the German tank staff officers in Russia.

Expect Resistance to Grow.

There is little doubt that the German defense in Italy until now a halting, sporadic affair, will gain new force under Rommel's command.

The allies are now, once more, fighting the man whom Lt. Gen. George S. Patton Jr. once called "the champ." Yet there is no German general with the possible exception of Marshal Wilhelm Ritter von Leeb, German strategist and leader of the drive on Leningrad, whom the allied generals are more anxious to beat. For defeat of Rommel not only means the defeat of the armies in Italy, but the dealing of a grievous blow to German morale on every fighting front.

Will Hitler, Like Napoleon, Make the Pope a Prisoner?

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The Germans' announcement that they have become "protectors" of the Vatican raises the question of whether Hitler intends to make Pope Pius XII. a virtual prisoner, or whether he will be deterred by the moral reaction such a step would undoubtedly arouse in neutral as well as warring countries.

If he chooses the first course, it will mark another striking parallel between the Nazi fuehrer's career and that of Napoleon. Pope Pius VI. died a prisoner of Napoleon.

In 1791 the French national assembly announced the union of Avignon and Venaissin, papal states, with France. In the treaty of Tolentino, 1797, Pius VI. was forced to recognize their union with France and also to relinquish Ferrara, Bologna, and Romagna, other papal territories, to the Cisalpine republic.

Released by Death.

In 1798, Napoleon sent Gen. Berthier to Rome to organize the remainder of the church states into the Roman republic. The pope, because he would not renounce his claims, was taken away as a captive and confined in Valence, where death brought him release.

During the Italian revolutionist movement of 1848 Pope Pius IX. was besieged in the Quirinal but escaped in disguise to Gaeta and the protection of Neapolitan King Ferdinand II. Louis Napoleon sent troops against the revolutionists and a French garrison reëstablished and maintained the papal sovereignty in Rome.

In 1870, however, Garibaldi brought Rome under the kingdom of Italy, and the papal states were seized. Pius IX, shut himself up in the Vatican, a self-proclaimed prisoner. The popes remained in that status until 1929, when the Vatican treaty with Mussolini was signed. This recognized the pope as a temporal as well as spiritual ruler.

History of the papacy in the middle ages is spotted with incidents of violence. Pope John I. died in 526 from the incarceration to which he was subjected by Theodoric the Ostrogoth. In 754, Stephen II. was besieged by Aristulf the Lombard but was saved by King Pepin of the Franks. The Saracens threatened Leo IV. in 849, but were driven off by troops he blessed.

Pope John VIII. was forced to flee to France because of the plottings of fuedal lords. Stephen VI. was almost the perpetual prisoner of Lambert, duke of Spoleto, who forced him to sit in judgment on and disavow the decisions of Pope Formosus. Formosus' corpse was taken to a hearing and its fingers were amputated.

Benedict V. also was forced into exile in the 10th century and Benedict VI. was imprisoned and murdered by hostile nobles in 974. Leo IX. was captured by the Normans in 1053, and Gregory VII. was imprisoned by Henry IV. in 1084. Clement VII. was held captive for months in 1527 by Charles V.

Washington Shows Concern.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—The German announcement that Hitler's army would "assume protection" of Vatican City caused serious concern in official quarters here.

In the absence of direct advices from the American representative at the Vatican, however, officials were cautious in their estimates of the situation. It was pointed out that, theoretically at least, the Germans could control the Italian capital without interfering with the Vatican and its activities any more than did Mussolini's government or its successor, the Badoglio regime.

The violence of Hitler's language against the "treacherous Italians" in his speech this afternoon was taken to mean the Nazis would not be overgentle in their handling of any situation on Italian soil from now on.

Regarded as Calamity.

New York, Sept. 10 (AP).—German assertions that they had entered Rome and had assumed protection of Vatican City are viewed as calamitous by Catholics in general, the Rev. John La Farge, executive editor of America, national Catholic weekly publication of the Jesuit order, said today.

Father La Farge said the past record of German guarantees proved them to have been worthless.

tion either in Rome or in Vatican City.

[American government monitors overseas reported that radio Palermo, an allied station in Sicily, had appropriated the usual wave length on which the Rome radio broadcasts to Italian audiences and already was giving news broadcasts to the Italian people.]

Before going off the air Stefani said an agreement had been reached with the Germans regarding Rome, Reuters [British news agency] reported.

This stipulated that German troops would occupy the German embassy, Italian broadcasting station, telephone exchange and other strategic points, keeping the majority of its troops outside the city limits.

Gen. Calvi di Bergola was said to have been named commander of the Rome garrison, with an infantry division to maintain order.

One telephone call was put thru from Berne to Rome, where it was said that Germans in control there had opened the jails and freed hundreds of Fascists arrested after Mussolini's fall. A Berlin report to Berne said "quiet and order reigns in the city."

Other Cities Seized by Nazis.

In addition to Rome, the Germans seized several other important Italian cities, air fields, ports, and warships in an effort to plug holes in an axis rampart shattered by the allied invasion of the country.

The Germans began shelling the southern outskirts of Rome at 6 a. m., causing Romans to believe that liberating allied armies were fighting the Nazis. But allied headquarters dispatches said there was no indication of allied moves in the Rome area.

A dispatch from the Swiss frontier to the Zurich newspaper Die Tat said, however, that it had been learned from Rome that British troops had landed at Ostia, port for the City of Rome, and were now fighting German divisions before Rome.

Capital Bombed First.

The Germans apparently first had bombed the capital, which Marshal Badoglio recently declared an open city, during the night. A Rome broadcast said unidentified planes caused damage and casualties in the San Lorenzo area—the same sector which the allies previously had attackd.

The Germans said the Italian commander in Rome capitulated during the afternoon, and Stefani said the Germans had occupied strategic areas in and around Rome.

They said that all the Italian army surrendered, then belied their own assertions with broadcasts in which it was said some Italian units had joined the allies, while "isolated fighting" between Italians and Germans continued in various sectors of the country.

Berlin Cries "Treason."

"Thus a treason greater and more cunning than any which can be found only with difficulty in history has reflected on the traitors themselves," Berlin said in announcing Rome's capitulation.

"The Italian armed forces exist no longer. But what will continue to exist for eternity will be the disdain of the world toward the traitors."

Berlin identified Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, former African corps chieftain who was chased out of Africa, as commander of all German forces in northern Italy. It said Genoa, Trieste, Cremona, La Spezia, sections of the French Riviera, and Alpine passes on the German border formerly manned by Italians now were in German hands.

Air fields and ports on the Adriatic side also were in German hands, Berlin said, while in the Balkans the Italians had laid down their arms and in some cases put themselves under German orders. Field Marshal Maximilian Von Weichs was said to be in charge of the Balkan areas.

Ships Seized, Berlin Says.

"Italian warships and merchantmen in the Aegean sea have been taken over by the German navy, and there are more and more cases of Italian detachments joining the German army everywhere in order to continue fighting," Berlin added.

Late tonight the Associated Press heard a Rome radio wavelength broadcast by Gen. Vittorio Ruggiero, Milan commander, who declared the Nazis "have surrounded Milan" and forcibly occupied Pavia, Piacenza, Parma, Reggio, Cremona, Brescia, Bergamo and numerous other localities in northern Italy.

Ruggiero said he and the Nazi commander had agreed that the troops in his command would not be disarmed, and that they would remain in Milan to "maintain public order." The Italian general added: "Italian and German soldiers will take over the protection of important communication means such as road and rail transport. The rest of the German troops will remain outside the city, but in such close proximity as will enable them to rush to the center of the city at a moment's notice with armored vehicles."

Bars Hostile Acts.

Ruggiero said such an agreement was made because "if the city had fought, the civilian population would have suffered grievious losses."

He said the Germans "clearly stated they would occupy the city and use force against our soldiers if they were not capable of maintaining order. I therefore order all civilians to abstain from committing any hostile act against the German soldiers."

[CBS reported in New York that the London radio had declared Venice, Turin and Florence "were firmly in Italian hands this afternoon following street fighting." CBS said the British broadcast added that transportation and electrical workers had struck in northern Italian cities "to obstruct the German troop movements."]

FLYING FORTS DOWN 38 NAZIS IN FOGGIA RAID

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 10 (AP).—United States air force headquarters announced today that a recapitulation showed American Flying Fortresses shot down at least 38 enemy fighters in their last big raid on the German air base at Foggia Tuesday.

The first report after the raid showed only 11 definite victories. The 27 others were accounted for after intelligence officers spent two days checking and verifying gunners' reports.

The official bag on the Foggia raid thus became the second greatest victory the B-17 gunners have scored over the enemy's air forces in the Mediterranean war. With 28 claimed the following day, the total of 66 was the best two day count since the fighting started in Africa.

GERMANS CHASE ITALIAN FLEET—OVER AIR WAVES

Nazis Broadcast Confused Reports on Navy.

LONDON, Sept. 10 (AP).—Berlin in confusing broadcasts today announced an unspecified number of units of the Italian navy had "joined the German navy to continue the fight" on the German side and that an Italian battleship and a cruiser had been sunk by German bombers between Sardinia and Corsica.

Meanwhile from La Linea, Spain, alongside the big British base of Gibraltar, there came a report that two light cruisers, two destroyers, and two auxiliary aircraft carriers of the Italian navy had entered Gibraltar and surrendered to the allies.

These reports, along with word that the allies had seized the big Italian air base of Taranto turned the spotlight again on the mystery of the whereabouts of the once powerful Italian navy.

Nazis Claim La Spezia Base.

The Germans' confusing picture included a report that Nazi bombers had forced a number of Italian warships to return to the Greek harbor of Patras after they had attempted to escape yesterday. Another report said the Nazis had taken over the important Mediterranean naval base of La Spezia, near Genoa, supposedly with most of the ships in the harbor.

The German claim of sinking an Italian battleship and cruiser said they were part of a formation which escaped from La Spezia and "on Anglo-American orders were attacking German shipping between Sardinia and Corsica."

The Germans added that the Nazi bombers' attack "was so effective that another battleship, cruiser, and destroyer were severely damaged by bomb hits."

"The battle with this naval formation is still in progress," the broadcast concluded.

Hope Fleet May Escape.

London newspapers had said three 35,000 ton Italian battleships were enroute from La Spezia to allied ports with a flotilla of cruisers and destroyers.

All of these events stirred hopes in London that carefully worked out plans were delivering most of the Italian fleet and a million tons of merchant shipping into allied hands.

It was learned that in formulating the armistice, orders were established for all Italian warship captains and scores of merchant ship masters, telling them how to escape and to what ports to go.

These instructions were in addition to those of Adm. Andrew Browne Cunningham, allied naval commander in the Mediterranean and it seemed certain that the peace news was held up five days partly to enable the ships to slip away.

Gain a Negative One.

The German claims tended to confirm hopes for the success of this program.

One high naval authority here said he was inclined to believe the attack on the Spezia formation occurred. He was skeptical of the other reports tho, particularly since the Germans have no fighting ships in the Mediterranean.

Immediate benefits from the removal of the Italian fleet to allied control would be only negative in getting the ships away from the Germans. Later, it might be fitted into the allied naval picture, but this would take some time because of a lack of personnel trained in the Italian vessels.

On the basis of an authoritative statement that Italy was not regarded as an ally but as a conquered nation, it is presumed there was no desire to have the Italians fight in their own ships along with the allies. It is conceivable, however, that some units might be used to convoy Italian merchantmen.

Allied Invasion Fleet Moves Toward Albania, Swiss Say

LONDON, Sept. 10 (AP).—The Germans hurriedly replaced their fallen Italian allies all along the Adriatic coast today and Swiss reports said that a huge allied invasion armada was moving thru the Ionian sea toward Albania.

Swiss reports from Chiasso, on the Italian-Swiss border, said that the armada was escorted by a squadron of warships, under cover of "important" air forces.

There was nothing to confirm or deny the Swiss report that the armada was headed toward the tiny former land of King Zog, and any force plowing thru the Ionian sea might just as well be going to Greece, Jugo-Slavia—or, with the Italian navy knocked out and the German air force hard pressed from the west, could be moving thru the Straits of Otranto for landings on the east coast of the boot.

Such a move would be particularly inviting now that the allies have seized the big base of Taranto, inside the Italian heek

There seems to be no doubt that the Germans are trying desperately to take up the sudden slack in their Balkan defenses, which developed when Italy folded, but there is considerable doubt whether they would be able to do this effectively and quickly.

The German news agency, DNB, claimed that the Nazis had seized the Albania ports of Valona and Durazzo and the town of Elbason and the Jugo-Slav port of Ragusa, and that the Italians had been disarmed up and down the entire Adriatic coast.

Chief fact supporting the speculations is the continuing lack of reports from the American 7th army, which participated in the invasion of Sicily, but may, however, show up farther north on the western side of the peninsula. The chief argument against it is the immense logistical task of keeping three or more offensives going at one time over such wide communication lines.

Albania, itself, is not particularly attractive as a target for an invader, since of its four ports, Durazzo, Valona, San Giovanni and Porto Edda, only the first is well equipped. Communication generally is poor in the country and in many places, where the mountains don't reach down to the shoreline, there are marshy malarial lowlands. Jugo-Slavia is rocky and not very inviting as an invasion point.

TRIB-BUNA TIRE WEAR TESTED AT HIGHER SPEEDS

Faster Driving Easier on Car Occupants.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 10.—The 35 mile an hour national speed limit, invoked by Presidential proclamation is miserable for long distance driving. And it isn't being obeyed in the midwest.

In the Chicago Tribune tire test tour we crawled at the 35 mile rate for a thousand miles, from Indianapolis, thru Vincennes, Ind., thru Springfield, Ill., and thru Chicago to St. Paul, Minn. In this laggard jaunt we were overtaken and passed by hundreds of faster cars. We overtook and passed only two automobiles on rural roads in the entire thousand miles. One was a jallopy, unsafe to drive at any speed, the other was occupied by a romantic couple.

Caused Hazard on Road.

The three cars, including THE TRIBUNE's which were obeying the 35 mile an hour speed limit, were a hazard and a nuisance to the faster traffic. The faster traffic included heavy trucks and big buses, awkward to maneuver around the legal slow pokes.

The 35 mile an hour limit was invoked for the announced purpose of conserving rubber on the tires of America's vehicles. When the proclamation was issued last year, synthetic rubber plants were not in production.

Wear and Consumption Up.

Tire wear and fuel consumption both increase as speed is upped. It might be that in some areas of the United States, the 35 mile an hour limit is warranted solely as a gasoline conservation measure.

In our test of Trib-Buna rubber, we have just completed a thousand miles with a top speed of 50 miles an hour, from St. Paul, Minn., to Marquette, Mich., to Des Moines, Ia. It was a joy to drive. Even the engine seemed to like it better.

At 50, we overtook more automobiles than overtook us. A majority, but not a large majority, of the travel was slower than our pace, the owners conserving their tires and gasoline coupons.

Testing Tire Wear.

We drove the thousand miles at 50 to report on synthetic tire wear at this higher speed. The car is receiving maintenance service today and it will be tomorrow before we can put the micrometer on the treads to determine wear, to reckon the life expectancy, and to compare with the 35 m. p. h. wear. The thousand miles at 35 indicated that with a constant rate of wear the treads would last 27,280 miles on smooth pavements never exceeding 35.

While these tests are being made on Trib-Buna, the results are applicable to the government's standard buna synthetic. The materials are chemically identical.

The only difference is the source of raw material. For Trib-Buna, the main ingredient, butadiene, was made from alcohol from waste sulphite liquor in THE TRIBUNE's pioneering plant at its Canadian wood pulp mills. The government's butadiene is made from petroleum or from alcohol distilled from grains.

British Set Thanksgiving Prayers for Tomorrow

LONDON, Sept. 10.—Prayers of thanksgiving for the surrender of Italy will be said in churches thruout Britain on Sunday. King George, some days before the national day of prayer Sept. 3, asked the clergy, in effect, to stand by ready for another day of thanksgiving not far off. It was a forecast of the fall of Italy.

FALL OF ITALY WON'T AFFECT ASSETS IN U. S.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—Italy's surrender will not alter the status of Italian property seized in this country, the office of alien property custodian Leo T. Crowley said today.

The seizure involved cash and securities valued at $100,500,000, to be frozen until the war's end; business and other real properties valued at $15,000,000, to be offered for sale and 1,600 patents of undetermined value, to be made available to American industry until six months after the end of hostilities.

Officials, meanwhile, said they had no information concerning American assets in Italy, valued by latest commerce department figures at about $150,000,000. Of that amount half represented industrial properties and the remainder securities and cash.

AXIS SATELLITES BIDING TIME FOR QUITTING—LANZA

Allied Progress May Be Factor, He Believes.

BY COL. CONRAD H. LANZA.

[A regular contributor to the Field Artillery Journal and recognized as an authority on military matters.]

The effect of Italy's surrender on the other axis satellites will be profound. All desire to end the war quickly, and will earnestly seek ways and means of doing so. No treaty or promise will be allowed to interfere with a settlement which appears to be advantageous. Each satellite has its own problems, which in some cases are antagonistic to other axis allies.

Finland wishes only her independence, and a guarantee against absorption by Russia. Germany is under a present obligation to furnish troops, food, and supplies to maintain Finland. As long as the German navy, as now, controls the Baltic sea, an occupation of Finland by Russia would not materially affect Germany, and she might be willing to withdraw.

Rumania Fears Russia.

Little is know as to the present situation in Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania. They did want their independence. Whether the people would now accept absorption by Russia is uncertain. A plebiscite under disinterested control would be necessary to determine just what these nations do want.

Rumania greatly fears Russian absorption. Only two Rumanian divisions appear to be fighting against Russia now. They are in Kuban. The remainder of the Rumanian army, about 16 divisions, is at home. Rumania wishes to retain Bessarabia, which Russia seized in 1940; and regain large tracts in Transylvania taken by Hungary. To her these are sacred claims.

Hungary detests communism. She is largely Roman Catholic and wants nothing of Russia. She never liked the Germans, but believes they played ball fairly with her, and enabled her to "recover" sections of Czecho-Slovakia, Rumania, and Jugo-Slavia, practically at no expense. She fears Rumania, which seized large sections of her territory after the first World war. Hungarian troops have been reported in Russia recently only in rear areas. The bulk of her army of some 18 divisions is at home.

Wait for Developments.

Rumania and Hungary, with some 36 divisions between them, are in a position to aid Germany in the defense of the Balkan areas. They seem to be holding off waiting for developments.

Bulgaria joined the German cause in 1941, as the lesser of two evils, preferring the Germans to the Russians. Both countries have adherents in Bulgaria, and without a plebiscite it is impossible to tell which set represents the majority. Bulgaria has seized Greek and Jugo-Slavian territory, asserting they are really Bulgar inhabited, and should belong to her.

Bulgaria has about 25 divisions. They are in their own country, or adjacent thereto. At present they are siding with Germany, but are under strong allied propaganda to induce them to change.

Will Watch Allied Power.

Albania never had ambitions to be independent. Attempts to create a working Albanian state between 1914 and 1939 failed. The people preferred to live under their feudal chiefs, as they had for centuries. They accuse the Greeks and Jugo-Slavians of occupying territory which they claim.

What these nations will do, now that Italy has set an example of unconditional surrender, will depend upon the immediate war events. If the allies make progress in ejecting the Germans out of Italy, and the Russians continue to throw them out of its occupied territories, the satellites will run away from Germany as rats do from a sinking ship.

In, on the contrary, the Germans succeed in holding on in Italy, and establish a new defense line in Russia, her minor partners may stick with her for a time. The crisis will come for most of the satellites if the allies invade the Balkans.

War Bulletins in Italy

ALLIED.

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 10 (AP).—An allied war bulletin covering land, sea, and air operations said today:

The troops of the 5th army successfully established their beachheads in the Naples area in spite of strong German opposition. Mines laid off the beaches had to be cleared by minesweepers. In spite of enemy resistance the landings were carried out according to plan and the work of unloading ships and craft has since continued without intermission.

The allied naval forces immediately engaged in the landing operations are under the command of Vice Adm. Henry K. Hewitt, United States navy.

A diversionary force captured Ventotene Island, some 40 miles west of Naples in the early hours of yesterday morning. The Italian garrison surrendered.

In the toe of Italy the 8th army continued their advance on the eastern and western coastal roads against slight German resistance. The enemy rear guards covered their withdrawal with heavy demolitions. Pizzo, on the western coast of the toe, is in our hands. This town was captured as a result of a successful seaborne assault.

On the eastern coast our advancing columns have reached Monasterace Marina.

Heavy bombers of the northwest African air forces yesterday attacked road and railway bridges at Capua and Cancello. Medium bombers attacked bridges and communications at Potenza and the landing ground at Scanzang. Medium and light bombers attacked roads leading to the beaches in the Naples area and other targets around the area. They also continued to attack enemy positions and communications in the southern battle area. Fighter bombers made numerous attacks, destroying a large number of motor vehicles and continued their sweeps over southern Sardinia while fighters maintained offensive patrols over both battle areas. Last night the railway yards at Grosseto were attacked by night bombers.

In these operations and during patrols and reconnaissances 11 enemy aircraft were destroyed. Seven of our aircraft are missing.

MIDDLE EAST.

CAIRO, Sept. 10 (AP).—A middle east war bulletin said:

Liberator bombers of the 9th U. S. A. A. F. attacked the satellite landing ground of San Nicola at Foggia in daylight yesterday.

The landing ground and dispersal area to the south were well covered with bomb bursts while hits were scored among repair shops, living quarters, and administrative buildings.

Fires were started and several aircraft on the ground were set ablaze. Smoke and dust prevented accurate observation of results.

The adjacent satellite landing ground of Tortotella also was attacked and fires were started in the eastern dispersal area.

Nine of the attacking enemy fighters were destroyed by our bombers.

From these and other operations all allied aircraft returned safely.

GERMAN.

Germany's official statement on the war as broadcast by the Berlin radio and recorded by the Associated Press said:

German measures against treason committed by the Badoglio government almost everywhere on the Balkan and upper Italy and southern France yielded the planned results. The majority of Italian armed forces in these areas already have laid down their arms and handed them over to German troops.

In all those places where Italian commanders previously were informed of the Badoglio treason and ordered to fight against German troops and even started fighting, resistance was energetically and rapidly overcome. At some places struggles with minor formations are still going on. Many Italian formations joined German troops in order to continue the fight against the enemy the same as before.

An Italian naval formation intending to join the enemy side was spotted by a German bomber and torpedo-carrying planes in the western Mediterranean. The German air formations sank one battleship and scored so serious hits upon one cruiser and one destroyer that these ships also can be considered lost.

In the early morning hours of Sept. 9 strong Anglo-North American contingents landed in the Bight of Salerno. They were immediately attacked by German troops. The battle is in full swing.

German battle and bomber squadrons by day and by night inflicted most serious losses in men and material and ships to these landing formations. According to so far available yet incomplete news, many transports having a total tonnage of more than 200,000 tons and numerous men of war as well as a large quantity of landing craft were partly devastatingly hit. One heavy cruiser, one 9,000-ton transport, and six large size landing vessels sank immediately after having received direct bomb hits.

Wife Hears from Major Held Prisoner by Japan

Maj. Eugene H. Nirdlinger, former Chicago lawyer, who was captured on Corregidor, is alive and well, according to postcards recently received by his wife, Beatrice, his aunt, Mrs. H. S. IT'S GREAT DAY IN SICILY WHEN ITALY GIVES UP

Throw Kisses at Yanks; Chicagoan Dances.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LICATA, Sicily, Sept. 8 [Delayed].—A few minutes after broadcasts by Gen. Eisenhower and Premier Pietro Badoglio signaled the end of Italy's participation in the war on the side of the axis, the native population of this town as in many others in Sicily was caught up in a roaring celebration. The Americans had been welcome here since the beginning of the Sicilian campaign, but tonight the tribute to them and their allies reached a crescendo.

The old church bells pealed forth long and harmoniously. Ragged Licata youngsters had not waited for the sacristan to mount to the tower, but had raced up there themselves to ring forth the tidings. The nightly gathering in the fish market in the central square was suddenly augmented by crowds of men, boys, girls, and women carrying their infants. Parades formed everywhere and streamed to all corners of the town.

Wine "On the House."

American soldiers found themselves lifted by the cheering mob and carried in triumph high above the cobble roads. Wine dispensaries were wide open and an American could not buy a drink. It was all on the house.

Dark haired and dark eyed girls leaned from balconies to shower kisses on the young men in khaki from the continent far away. These young men were not slow in returning such salutes from the street and a few were minded to climb those balconies. Stern parents and even sterner military police blocked such moves.

Down the main street raced a group of Sicilians. They were mounted on ordinary farm horses, but tonight they rode them as chargers greeting deliverers. They cried, "Viva, Americanos!"

A grizzled Sicilian approached me and after mooching cigarets in the approved manner he confided that—you guessed it—he had lived in Brooklyn.

"We'll Help You."

"Mussolini and fascism are done," he said. "Now Italy is yours. There are Germans there, but we'll help you get rid of them."

American airmen and ground workers lining up for evening chow broke into a snake dance when they heard an Algiers radio announcement that Italy had surrendered. Among them were Corp. Jack Crane of 3516 Pine Grove avenue, Chicago, and Sgt. Norman Kanar and Pvt. Joseph Sarna, both of Detroit.

"It's the best news I have heard since I enlisted," said Corp. Robert Behn of Woodruff, Wis.

Sgt. Rufus Mitchell of Cleveland, O., who was doing a barbering job on Corp. Robert M. Ivey of North Minneapolis, Minn., snipped off a great patch of Ivey's hair when he heard the news.

"A Surprise to Me."

"It sure was a surprise to me," Mitchell said. "I thought those boys would do a little better on their home field."

"Frankly, I think it's the nuts," smiled Ivey.

Everybody was happy here tonight except a group of American correspondents who, because of a change in military plans, were stranded temporarily far from the scene of action. We were thinking of a story we had cherished for two weeks, of a story that might have been and that we might have written if the fortunes of war had taken us where we had expected to go.

Wife Backs Invasion

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Mrs. Mark Wayne Clark, wife of leader of Naples invasion, selling war bonds in Pittsburgh yesterday.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 10 (AP).—While Lt. Gen. Mark Wayne Clark led the American 5th army toward Naples today his wife was busy at war bond rallies here "doing my best to back up him and his boys." Before one gathering of several thousand workers at the H. J. Heinz plant, the 105 pound woman spoke quietly but with much spirit.

"Any one able to buy bonds now and not doing so is not entitled to American citizenship," she said at one point.

She said she had guessed "something big" was pending several weeks ago when her husband sent her his personal papers and secret files. Also the pair of pants which he had lost in the water during his famous secret trip to North Africa before the invasion began.

"Some one washed them and they had shrunk up so they only reached his knees," she chuckled, in telling about the trousers.

PUT ARGENTINA'S INTERIOR CHIEF IN FOREIGN POST

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Sept. 10 (AP).—Minister of the Interior Alberto Gilbert today was named acting foreign minister to succeed Vice Adm. Segundo Storni who resigned yesterday. Gilbert will hold both positions until a permanent successor to Storni is named.

Storni's resignation followed the refusal of the United States government to lease-lend military equipment to Argentina and a rebuke by Secretary of State Cordell Hull to the Argentine government for its continued relations with the axis.

A police guard has been assigned to the United States embassy to prevent any possible public demonstrations.

$300 STOLEN FROM SAFE.

Police yesterday were investigating the theft of a cash box containing $300 from the safe of a hardware store at 1022 South Western avenue.

SAILOR RELATES DEATH OF BUDDY TO HIS PARENTS

Mrs. Louise Schaiell of 1829 Byron street, whose son, Thomas, 20, a gunner's mate, was killed on the carrier Enterprise in the first Solomons holding battle of Aug. 24, 1942, last night heard the details of his death from his buddy, Ervin J. Luzar, quartermaster 2d class, who is on furlough.

Luzar, wearing two silver stars that denote 10 major engagements and the presidential citation conferred on the Enterprise and all her crew, told Mrs. Schaiell and her daughter, Louise, that her son was killed when a Japanese bomb hit near his gun station.

"I haven't any particular message for you, because Tom and I never talked much about what might happen," he told Mrs. Schaiell. "We went thru a lot of fighting together and we agreed that if anything did happen to one of us the other would try to see the survivor's folks and tell them how things were."

Luzar, whose home is at 223 Sherman place, Waukegan, will return to duty next week.

HOOSIERS FIND WILLKIE HASN'T CHANGED A BIT

Charm and Dinners Get No New Votes.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 10.—Wendell L. Willkie, 1940 Republican nominee for President, was told by Indiana organization leaders during his August front porch and back fence parleys at Rushville, his home town, that he has yet to prove himself a Republican. District and county chairmen who dropped in for chicken dinners told him that the rank and file of the party regards him as too much like President Roosevelt and the New Deal and that Indiana wants a candidate who will run as an exponent of the Republican party and its platform.

G. O. P. leaders report that Willkie is no more a favorite son than he was seven months or a year ago, and that the organization, harmonized as never before in many years, is not going to climb out on a limb for any one. Experienced observers say that of 92 county chairmen, 75 per cent are anti-Willkie. Politically they say, the situation is unchanged from last January or May, when the state committee adopted resolutions against post-war global blueprints without mention of Willkie by name.

Get Dinner and Palaver.

District chairmen dropped in for talks with Willkie from time to time. There are 11 of these, one for each congressional district, and most of them, according to insiders, were among the visitors. In the latter part of August, five went to Rushville by invitation to partake of a chicken dinner garnished with political palaver.

No authentic list of the visitors appears available here. They are shy of publicity and decline to talk for quotation, not liking to stick their necks out at this juncture before the campaign begins to jell.

But some of the participants describe, without being quoted, what happened. They say that the leaders minced no words but talked cold turkey to Willkie. They spoke of the great upheaval of sentiment against President Roosevelt in Indiana, as shown by the elections of the last four years, and said that among Republican voters, especially in the rural regions, and among anti-New Deal Democrats, too, there is a strong feeling that Willkie bears too close a resemblance to the President.

Chairmen Reflect Sentiment.

County chairmen and district chairmen, they said, by tradition follow sentiment in their political units. Otherwise they would not last in the posts.

Willkie, turning on the charm, protested that there is much difference between his views and those of the President. The leaders callously said it would be up to Willkie to sell his bill of goods to the rank and filers. To this Willkie said in substance, "I'll change the sentiment. I'll convince them." He spoke of doing this by magazine articles and letters and in other ways.

"Well, that's your job, to convince them you're not another Roosevelt," retorted the leaders. The party organization in Indiana is composed of 8,210 members. In each of the 4,000 precincts are a committeeman and vice committeeman. There are 92 county chairmen and 92 chairwomen, 22 district chairmen and chairwomen, and four officers of the state committee.

State Committee Neutral.

The state committee, itself, it may be remarked, is neutral, has an open door policy for all candidates, and is making no commitments. As individuals of course, the members follow their own bent but the organization, with factionalism removed, is operating as a unit, and next year the avowed aim of leaders at the statehouse and elsewhere is to have the Indiana delegation to the G. O. P. convention of 29 as solid as possible, instead of being split among several Presidential candidates as it was in 1940.

Some participants in one particular Rushville dinner, under pledge of "no quotes" say that Willkie claimed he has the south, New England, and the mountain states, and that he said he can win in the nominating convention with Indiana and one other big state. Illinois is a headache to Willkie. Some gained the impression that if Gov. Dwight Green enters the Illinois preferential primaries, Willkie may stay out. They declare he took the view that he is not inclined to enter primaries where he would be pitted against favorite son candidates.

Situation Held Awkward.

Politicians here regard the situation as awkward for the reason that other candidates as yet have not taken the field. Nobody seems neutral on Willkie—they are for him or against him. His greatest strength is in Indianapolis, but out in the state, anti-Willkie feeling is reported as strong as ever, with one difference, some of the personal bitterness has been removed by Willkie's conferences with groups of farmers, in which he has turned on the personality. But at the statehouse some leaders say that, politically, the counties in their districts are about as anti-Willkie as before the August rocking chair soirees.

ITALIAN LINER, 2 GUNBOATS SUNK BY CREWS: NAZIS

New York, Sept. 10 (AP).—The British radio broadcast a German report from Shanghai today saying: "The Italian passenger liner, Conte Verde, and two Italian river gunboats have been scuttled by their crews."

The broadcast recorded here added that German reports also said most of the Italian ships "have succeeded in getting away from a number of ports in Italy and the Ionian sea."

The Conte Verde is listed as having a gross tonnage of 18,760.

CAPPER URGES GEN. EISENHOWER FOR PRESIDENCY

Says Conquests Prove His Ability as Leader.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—Gen. Eisenhower, commander in chief of the allied forces that won the surrender of Italy, was proposed today as the 1944 candidate for President by Sen. Arthur Capper [R., Kas.].

Sen. Capper said that Gen. Eisenhower comes from a strong Republican family in Kansas and predicted he would have tremendous strength there as well as in the rest of the nation.

"The recent European campaign has proved that in Gen. Eisenhower the nation has not only an able diplomatist and leader," Sen. Capper said, "but an able administrator."

"West Weary of New Deal."

The Kansas senator praised both Gen. Eisenhower and Gen. MacArthur, allied commander in the Southwest Pacific as possible Republican candidates for President Roosevelt's office. Either, said Sen. Capper, would make an excellent man in the White House.

Sen. Capper, who has returned after a tour of his state during the congressional summer recess, said he is confident that the middle western farm states will vote solidly against the Democratic ticket in the next election.

OPA Out of Favor.

"The people are tired of regimentation and arbitrary burocratic rule," Sen. Capper said. "They have no use for the office of price administration. They are almost bitter with congress for delegating so much of its power to the executive branch of the government."

While he expressed the belief that the people of the middle west and west favor American participation in a plan to preserve peace in the post-war world, he added this warning:

"They are, however, unalterably opposed to the United States' taking over the job of policing the world and footing the bill. They do not want this country to play Santa Claus to all the other nations."

The senator voiced the hope that the war will have developed to such a stage by the time of the Presidential campaign that Gen. Eisenhower's presence will no longer be required in Europe.

PROTESTS USING NAVAL BAND FOR POLITICAL RALLY

A protest against the performance by the Great Lakes Naval Station band at the "Win the Peace" rally of internationalists tonight in Chicago Stadium was sent to the commanding officer yesterday by William J. Grace, secretary of the Republican Nationalist Revival committee.

"On behalf of many taxpayers I protest against the spending of tax money to come to a political meeting in Chicago," Grace telegraphed. "If it is legitimate for a service band to participate in meetings of internationalist - Communists and others who want to surrender our country to a super-global government, then we shall demand the band's presence at our next mass meeting of patriotic Americans who are fighting to retain independence and sovereignty.

LT. GEN. EMMONS TAKES COMMAND ON WEST COAST

De Witt Transferred to Staff College.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 10 (AP).—Lt. Gen. John L. DeWitt, commander of the western theater of operations since Dec. 11, 1941, will be relieved, effective on or about Sept. 15, and will be succeeded by Lt. Gen. Delos Emmons.

Gen. Emmons, until recently, was chief of the army's Hawaiian department.

Goes to Staff College.

DeWitt, the office of the western defense command reported, has been assigned as commandant of the army and navy staff college in Washington, D. C.

Under Gen. DeWitt's direction all persons of Japanese ancestry were removed to the interior from the coastal areas of the western states.

He directed operations in the reconquest of the Aleutians from the Japanese, and last week was awarded the oak leaf cluster in lieu of a second distinguished service medal "for outstanding leadership" in expelling "the invading Japanese from American soil."

Served in World War.

De Witt, 63 years old, the son of an army officer, served in the office of the chief of staff of the American Expeditionary Forces, with the 42d division, and with the 8th French army, in World War I.

Gen. Emmons was assigned to the Hawaiian command 10 days after the attack on Pearl harbor, succeeding Maj. Gen. Walter C. Short.

Last June 1 the war department announced that Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson had been named to replace Gen. Emmons, and that the latter was to be given a command on the mainland.

Chile Foreign Chief Due in U. S. for War Talks

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—Dr. Joaquin Fernandez, the foreign minister of Chile, will make an official visit to this country, arriving in the national capital next Friday, the state department announced today. After conferences here on the war situation he will visit other cities in the United States.

HULL PRAISES IRAN FOR DECLARING WAR AGAINST GERMANY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—Secretary of State Cordell Hull, receiving official word that Iran [Persia] has declared war on Germany, welcomed the country into the ranks of the allied nations tonight.

Acknowledging a notification of Iran's decision and its adherence to the Atlantic Charter, Hull sent a note to Iranian Minister Mohammed Shayesteh saying: "This action of the government of Iran is a new manifestation of the determination of Iran to contribute to the cause of the freedom loving nations in their struggle for victory over Hitlerism."

Iran was occupied by British and Russian troops in 1941, with assurances that the troops would be withdrawn after the termination of hostilities. It has since become a great supply base for the forwarding of aid to Russia.

ONLY 16 OF 10,000 PATIENTS DIE ON HOSPITAL SHIP

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 10 (AP).—Only 16 patients died among 10,000 casualties evacuated by a large navy hospital ship from Pacific combat areas during a 21 month period, Capt. Melville J. Aston, U. S. N., chief surgeon of the ship, said in a navy approved interview today.

Aston, at home on leave, attributed the low loss to early treatment of wounds with blood plasma and sulfa drugs and also to "the last word in modern equipment" and the efficiency of the ship's staff of 16 physicians, 13 nurses and many navy medical corpsmen.

About 7,500 of the 10,000 were wounded men, the others medical cases, the officer said. In one combat area, he added, the ship evacuated 400 casualties in 90 minutes.

Lund Succeeds Williams as NYA Administrator

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—Chester B. Lund, of St. Cloud, Minn., today took over his duties as head of the National Youth administration, succeeding Aubrey Williams as administrator in its closing days. Lund, with the NYA for eight years, has been regional director for Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Iowa, and Nebraska. Williams, who has resigned, sent out orders July 5 for liquidation of the agency.

RUSSIANS SEIZE MARIUPOL; PERIL GERMAN FLIGHT

Smash Beyond Stalino to Narrow Escape Gap.

LONDON, Sept. 11 [Saturday]—(AP).—Soviet columns raced thru the Ukraine in pursuit of Germans retreating so rapidly along a 400 mile front yesterday that they abandoned huge stores of materials, left 6,800 dead, and lost more than 300 towns and villages, Moscow announced today.

The Russians stormed into Mariupol, Sea of Azov metallurgical center and port in an air and sea attack; captured Chaplino, 60 miles east of the Dnieper river bend, and in the northern Ukraine pierced the important Desna river line.

The German pace approached a rout as the Russians captured almost 1,000 freight cars and trucks, many loaded with food, fuel, and munitions.

Retreat to Go On, Says Nazi.

A German military commentator said in a Berlin broadcast that the Nazi withdrawal "was not likely to stop for some time."

In many sectors the Russians cut behind the Nazi lines, trapping the surprised Germans, and allowing them no time to entrench. North of the Ukraine, in the Bryansk area, the Moscow war report, recorded by the soviet radio monitor, said the Germans were retiring so rapidly they did not even take time to lay minefields.

The Desna river breakthru overran three towns on the west bank and the soviet forces were reported fighting only about 100 miles from Gomel, on the middle Dnieper river to which the Germans appeared to be retreating.

Late last night the German high command acknowledged a "limited breach" in the Nazi lines south of Konotop. "Very grim fighting is is progress," it said. This Russian drive in the north Ukraine is aimed at Kiev, 110 miles to the southwest.

Stalin Tells the Big News.

The dramatic Russian victories on the far southern front brought a special order of the day from Marshal Josef Stalin. It was the premier himself who reported the capture of Chaplino by tanks and Cossack cavalry and the fall of Mariupol to Russian naval forces and air borne troops in a spectacular assault on the Sea of Azov shore.

Stalin's announcement also told of the capture of Barvenkova midway between Stalino and Kharkov, and of Volnovakha, an important railway junction on the Stalino-Mariupol railway about 33 miles north of Mariupol.

Capture of Chaplino posed the greatest peril to the retreating Nazis for it put the soviet columns driving far beyond Stalino only 60 miles from Zaporozhe, terminal for the only rail retreat line of the Nazi Crimea garrison.

Stalin called Chaplino "a very important railway junction" and said the day's successes were "achieved by a breakthru into the enemy's rear."

Nazi Army Facing Trap.

This meant all the German southern forces, mauled west of Taganrog and falling back to the Dnieper river, may be trapped for annihilation.

The German high command reported "embittered and fluctuating fighting" in south Russia and a German military correspondent, quoted by the Berlin radio, spoke of "the detaching movement of German troops in this area."

The south Russian advance was only part of the great soviet drive along a 600 mile front from east of Smolensk to the Sea of Azov.

More Russian Gains.

North of Bryansk soviet troops advanced up to six miles and captured more than 80 hamlets. Toward Priluki, on the road to Kiev, the Red army advanced nine miles and captured 80 settlements, Moscow said.

Yesterday's gains on Bryansk from the north and south and toward Priluki brought new waves of soviet optimism. Red Fleet, Russian navy newspaper, said:

"The Germans are now talking about the Dnieper line. But our divisions will reach the Dnieper and prove there, as they proved on the Mius and Donetz rivers, that there are no strongholds which cannot be taken by the soviet people."

U. S.-BRITISH PACT WILL BREED WAR, SAYS PROFESSOR

New York, Sept. 10 [Special].—Declaring that Winston Churchill's proposed post-war alliance of Great Britain and the United States would cause wars rather than prevent them, Prof. Pitirim A. Sorokim, chairman of the department of sociology at Harvard university, said today that a world-wide inculcation of the golden rule was the only hope for permanent peace.

An Anglo-American alliance, Dr. Sorokim said, would lead to other opposing alliances between Asiatic and other groups which eventually would cause conflict. His view was supported by James Marshall, former president of the New York board of education, who said:

"If we have another war it will be on lines of race and color—perhaps Asia and Russia against the other nations." In his opinion neither the people of the United States nor Great Britain were ready to accept the Churchill suggestion.

Report Allied Leaflets Demand Bulgaria Give Up

LONDON, Sept. 10 (AP).—The Swiss radio said today that allied planes had dropped leaflets over Bulgaria, demanding that the Balkan kingdom surrender. Similar demands were broadcast to Italy before the allies began their large scale operations against that country.

BRITAIN'S NAVY NO LONGER RULES SEAS, SAYS M. P.

Europe Supremacy Is Gone Forever

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 10.—Europe has ceased forever to be the political or economic center of the world, Quintin Hogg, a Conservative member of parliament, asserted in an article in the Spectator, a London weekly.

Supreme in 19th Century.

Britain played the dominant role in the 19th century because of her naval and industrial supremacy and the fact that Europe contained all the major world powers in "a relatively stable military equilibrium known as the balance of power," he wrote. In explaining how these factors have now been altered, Hogg said: "The balance between the empires of France, Austria-Hungary, Russia, and Prussia also has disappeared. Industrial centers both inside and outside our empire and both inside and outside Europe compete with and outdistance ours.

"One Navy Can't Rule."

"Naval power has altered in character with the development of air warfare and the rise of great powers outside Europe has placed it beyond the strength of one navy ever to control the seas again."

The theme of Hogg's article was that Britain must form "a national policy" to prevent a repetition of world wars. A beginning must be made, he said, by deciding what part the people want Britain to play in the world and the kind of life the people are to live.

He saw "a burning sense of social injustice" as responsible for the British public's "frustration" in the years before the war and said this must be removed before any sound national policy can be formed.

These Are First American Pilots to Land in Italy

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, Sept. 10 (AP).—The first American pilots to set planes down on the Italian mainland were Capt. L. V. Gossick, Meadville, Mo., and Lt. Bruce L. Morrison, Aspinwall, Pa. They landed at the Reggio air field in their Warhawks, shortly after it was occupied by the British, to inquire about a fellow pilot missing in an operation over that area.

U. S.-RUSSIAN CLASH IS AVERTED AT LABOR CONCLAVE IN LONDON

LONDON, Sept. 10 (AP).—A possible clash of Russian and American delegates to the annual convention of the British trades union congress was averted today by a well-established precedent which prohibits comment or criticism of speeches of fraternal delegates.

Isidore Nagler, fraternal delegate from the American Federation of Labor, told the convention yesterday that while his organization favored coöperation with Russian unions, it felt that organic liaison with them was undesirable since the soviet units were organs of the state.

Nicolai Shvernick, leader of the Russian delegation, rose at the convention today to reply but the convention declined to hear his statement, citing the precedent, and a situation which some delegates felt might have led to serious repercussions was averted.

FORCE HITLER TO QUIT, 'FREE GERMANS' ASK

New York, Sept. 10 (AP).—The Soviet sponsored Free Germany national committee appealed today to the military leaders of the reich to "force the immediate resignation of the Hitler government."

The committee recalled in the Moscow broadcast, which was heard here by the federal communications commission, reports of recent executions by Nazi storm troopers of German officers charged with a "defeatist attitude." "Will you be silent at this new murder of five of your comrades?" a committee member said in the broadcast.

The speaker asked "generals and officers" to force a retreat to Germany's borders and concluded: "Generals, officers, and soldiers united together are a force that Hitler cannot stand up against."

Smash Window of Fascist Italian Paper in Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Sept. 10 (AP).—Two bottles of inflammable liquid were hurled thru the office of the pro-Fascist Italian language newspaper, Il Mattino D'Italia, tonight, but did little damage aside from glass breakage. Police chased two persons sighted in the street at the time, arresting one of them.

GERMAN FLEET IN SPITSBERGEN RAID, NORSE SAY

Believe 3 Battleships Led Attack.

LONDON, Sept. 10 (AP).—The German fleet, which the British and American navies long have been trying to bring to blows, stormed into action in force against the tiny, valiant garrison of Spitsbergen on Wednesday, the Norwegian high command reported tonight.

The official report did not make clear whether any Germans remained after the raid on the island, 600 miles east of Greenland. Neither did it say whether any of the small Norwegian force stationed there escaped.

Both the Norwegian report and a broadcast by the German news agency DNB said the defenders put up stout resistance. The DNB report said the attack was made to destroy the meteorological station which had been aiding Russian convoys and indicated no Germans were left behind as a garrison.

Claims Prisoners Taken.

A German broadcast last night said Nazi naval units aided by marines had caused heavy casualties among the island's holding forces and that prisoners had been taken.

An allied force raided the islands two years ago after the Germans had set up a meterological station there soon after the war started.

Official Norwegian sources here expressed the belief that the German capital ships included Germany's prize battleship, the 35,000 ton Tirpitz, the battle cruiser Scharnhorst and the pocket battleships Luetzow and Adm. Scheer.

A signal from the small Norwegian detachment of about 100 men, received at noon Wednesday, said a German squadron of large warships accompanied by seven destroyers steamed into Isfjorden on the west coast. It was the last that has been heard from the polar island, Norwegian sources here said.

Report Ships Return.

Spitsbergen lies almost due north from Norway and away from, rather than toward, the Atlantic shipping lanes.

DNB said the ships returned to their northern Norway haven after the raid.

The German action may have been diversionary, but it also was regarded by Norwegians here as an effort to garner some victory news for home consumption as well as to give long inactive crews some sort of action.

RED ARMY PAPER SAYS VASSAL STATES NEED WHITE FLAGS

MOSCOW, Sept. 10 (AP).—Ilya Ehrenburg, commenting in the army newspaper Red Star on the Italian surrender, wrote today that "Italy is an attractive example. In all vassal countries the rehearsal of capitulation is being held."

"White flags are needed," the writer added. "Who is going to be the first to follow Italy?"

Other soviet newspapers published prominently reports of the allied landings in the Naples area.

VATICAN ENTRY CALLED STEP IN NAZI DOWNFALL

Catholic leaders of Chicago yesterday greeted the report of the Nazi occupation of Vatican City with predictions that such action, if confirmed, would hasten the downfall of the Nazi state.

"I'm reminded of the old French saying, 'Qui mange le pape, meurte' ['Who eats the pope, dies']," said the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph P. Morrison, pastor of Holy Name cathedral. He said that this phrase once was applied to Napoleon.

[Napoleon attacked the papal states in the 1790s and won great concessions from the papacy in the Truce of Bologna in 1796. Two years later the French troops entered Rome and took Pope Pius VI. prisoner. He was sent to Valence, in France, where he died in 1799.]

"The occupation of Vatican City, if it has really taken place, may be a boomerang for the Nazis," said the Rev. Laurence M. Barry, S. J., principal of St. Ignatius High school. He pointed out the possibility of a sit down strike on the part of German Catholics. He said that they as well as the whole world would resent Nazi action in forcibly occupying still another neutral, independent state.

Report Copenhagen Fined for Death of Nazi Soldier

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Sept. 10 (AP).—German occupation authorities have imposed a fine of a million kroner [about $220,000] upon the city of Copenhagen in reprisal for the slaying of a German corporal the night of Sept. 7, Free Danes here said tonight. Payment was due at 5 p. m. today.

Hostel for Japs Waiting Placement Opened in City

A hostel for Japanese who must wait temporarily in Chicago until they are placed in jobs has been opened at 6128-30 Sheridan road by the Church of the Brethren, Elmer L. Shirrell, regional director of the war relocation authority, said yesterday. The church group formerly operated a hostel for Japanese at 3000 Van Buren street. The new one is in a building that once was a convalescent home, and can accommodate 20 persons, Shirrell said.

CANADA TO GET TWO CRUISERS; NAVY GROWING

Big Home-Built Warship Awaits Launching.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 10.—In a departure from its policy of a small ship navy the Canadian government is negotiating with Britain to obtain two cruisers, Naval Minister Angus L. MacDonald announced today at a press conference. The ships will be manned by Canadians and operated as Canadian cruisers.

Launch Destroyer Soon.

The minister also announced the launching on Sept. 18 at Halifax of the largest fighting ship ever built in Canada, the first of the destroyers to be named for Indian tribes. He said about twenty new fighting ships had been commissioned in Canada this year and that about a hundred are building. Six destroyers have been added to the Canadian navy and four more will be added before the end of the year. A second tribal destroyer is to be launched before Christmas.

The minister announced also the sinking of a German submarine in the Atlantic. A Sunderland flying boat spotted the U-boat and engaged in a gun duel with the surfaced craft while the Canadian corvette Drumheller and the British frigate Lagan closed in to depth bomb. Pieces of wreckage from the smashed sub and a heavy film of oil were seen later.

Aided U. S. Against Japs.

Five ships of the Canadian navy operated with the United States navy when the Japanese began their thrust toward Alaska, the minister said. Canadian ships are still coöperating with American forces in northern waters.

'HUN AGAIN ENTERS ROME,' ANGRY BRAZIL NEWSPAPERS SHOUT

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Sept. 10.—"Attila the Hun Again Enters Rome," said the headlines of afternoon newspapers here today in reporting the German invasion of Rome. The Berlin radio announcement that the Vatican was "under the protection of the German army" angered Brazilians.

If the German army attempts to control the status of the Vatican, it was expected that what are termed "interesting developments" may come in Brazil, which is predominantly a Catholic country. Brazilians were waiting watchfully.

The papal nuncio here declined to comment, explaining he had received no official notification of the German action.

EXODUS OF WAR WORKERS BRINGS CRISIS ON COAST

WMC Official Warns of Production Peril.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—Because of man power shortages on the west coast, assurance no longer can be given that war production schedules can be met, Laurence Appley, executive director of the war man power commission, told a senate military affairs subcommittee today.

Appley said thousands of workers are leaving west coast production centers because of inadequate living conditions.

Declaring at least 500,000 workers are needed in that area to meet war production schedules, Appley said he saw a possibility of obtaining only half that number, provided all those now working in west coast centers stay there.

Activities Correlated.

Terming the new man power program announced last week by James F. Byrnes, war mobilization director, a "man power budget program," Appley said it correlated for the first time activities of government agencies concerned with war production.

Uncertainty as to the future of small business on the west coast as a result of the new man power order was expressed by government officials.

Dr. Gustave Peck, WPB consultant on man power, said the new plan conflicts with efforts of the smaller war plants corporation to assure orders for small businesses.

Fear Wholesale Closings.

Criticising this provision of the west coast plan, which provides for removal of war production from congested areas there, Boyd Stewart, a member of the California agricultural adjustment administration, said small businessmen had the idea the government was going to close down their concerns wholesale.

Charles E. Wilson, war production board executive vice chairman, said the WPB was urging industries on the west coast to use incentive wage plans which it believes would stimulate more production.

Wilson said he planned to leave this week for the west with the idea of "selling" the incentive wage plan and "getting more general acceptance of it than we have to date."

300 Plants Adopt System.

Wilson said 300 plants on the Pacific coast had installed such a system in the last 60 days, but the list did not include any of the big shipyards or aircraft plants. He acknowledged that installation of incentive payments is somewhat difficult in aircraft plants.

To more efficiently use existing labor, Wilson said federal agencies were endeavoring to reduce to a minimum airplane design changes.

Wilson said the area production urgency committees established in San Diego, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Portland, and Seattle were endeavoring to determine priority ratings for all jobs.

Two Choices Left.

If labor already existing on the west coast is not adequate to staff highly essential war projects, Wilson said there were two choices:

1. Persuading more migration of workers to the west, or
2. Drawing from nonessential industries.

Replying to a statement by Sen. Sheridan Downey [D., Cal.] that recent announcements threatening withdrawal of war production contracts from too highly congested west coast centers had created demoralization and confusion, Wilson said he did not believe there would have to be a cancellation of contracts.

Downey said some groups of employers and employes were concerned about "pretty strong regimentation involved."

"It seems that there is an intention to exercise a power under which workers will be compelled to work at certain plants or industries, or else not work at all," Downey declared.

BUILD BIG BASES ON ALEUTIANS, SENATORS URGE

KISKA ISLAND, Sept. 6 [Delayed]—(AP).—The Truman committee came to this distant Aleutian island today, three weeks behind the United States and Canadian reoccupataion forces, and expressed belief Kiska and Attu should be developed into major bases.

The visitors were Senators Homer Ferguson [R., Mich.] and Harvey Kilgore [D., W. Va.] of the senate's war expenditures investigating committee. They said the Aleutians form a natural short route to Japan.

The senators and their party visited the Massacre valley and the Chicagof battle grounds at Attu, but stopped only briefly on Kiska, still littered with the weapons and castoff equipment of the fleeing Japanese. [They returned to the Alaska mainland Sept. 8.]

Witnesses Lacking, Death Plunge Is Held Accidental

Because there were no witnesses to tell whether Ferdinand Keller, 66 years old, 7174 South Peoria street, leaped or fell from the second floor porch of his home last Monday, a coroner's jury under Deputy Jack Przybylinski yesterday decided Keller's death accidental. Keller died Thursday in Little Company of Mary hospital.

NEED FOR MORE SOLDIERS CITED BY PATTERSON

Stimson's Aid Home After Pacific Tour.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 10 [Special].—Back from a month's survey of army bases and fighting fronts in the south and southwest Pacific, Undersecretary of War Robert P. Patterson today declared that despite allied gains the need remained for the United States to raise as large an army as was contemplated by the war department earlier in the conflict.

Moreover, he declared, the necessity for production of military weapons "continues unabated" and the country should settle down to "the raising and equipping of armed forces to the limit of our resources."

American air superiority in the areas he visited was "clear" and of "growing importance," Patterson said, but Japan is no pushover and the demands there, as well as from other combat fronts, is still more air power.

No Shortage of Materials.

"I saw no shortage of materials and heard of none," he added, "but everybody wants more planes."

With Lt., Gen. William S. Knudsen, production chief of the war department, who accompanied him on his tour, Undersecretary Patterson was interviewed at the Fort Mason headquarters of Maj. Gen. Frederick Gilbreath, commanding general of the San Francisco port of embarkation.

In view of his emphasis of the continued need of an army of maximum size and of relentless efforts on the production front Patterson was asked whether he thought a draft of labor would be necessary before the war ended.

Mum on Fathers' Draft.

"I made my view known before a congressional committee on that subject last winter," he replied, "and I have not changed my attitude since then. I favor it. I don't call it a draft of labor, however. I call it universal service."

He refused comment on the proposal to draft pre-Pearl Harbor fathers.

Gen. Knudsen said he had noticed among American flyers a "very strong disdain" for Japanese planes, and he found it "very heartening to see how members of our air missions go out any hour of day or night, come back and turn in their planes and josh and curse a bit."

HEAR NAZIS WON BRENNER PASS IN HEAVY BATTLE

MADRID, Spain, Sept. 10 (AP).—The Germans, it was reported here today, obtained control of the Brenner Pass line thru the northern Julian alps after heavy battle with the Italian garrisons in which there were a number of casualties.

German reports here said the Italian units are now withdrawing to the west in the alps near Caporetto.

[The London radio said last night that "one of the Brenner pass tunnels on the Austrian-Italian frontier has been damaged by an explosion." No details were given.]

SENATORS VIEW U. S. BATTLE GROUNDS AT BUNA, NEW GUINEA

ALLIED HDQ. IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Sept. 10 (AP).—Three members of the United States Senate's five man committee touring American battlefronts flew across the Owen Stanley range today to view last December's battle grounds at Buna.

Senators Ralph C. Brewster [R., Mo.], James M. Mead [D., N. Y.], and Henry Cabot Lodge [R., Mass.] spent the morning driving in jeeps past airdromes and installations at a forward base to view Buna village and government station. Lt. Gen. Edmund Herring, Australian commander of allied ground forces during the Buna campaign, escorted the congressmen.

The party paused at a cemetery near Buna where 400 white crosses mark the graves of American dead.

Sen. Albert B. Chandler [D., Ky.] visited hospitals and military installations in the Port Moresby area. The fifth committee member, Sen. Richard R. Russell [D., Ga.], spent the morning abed due to a slight illness.

EXPECTS ITALY TO HAND OVER DUCE TO ALLIES

LONDON, Sept. 11 [Saturday]—(AP).—The London Daily Express said today that Benito Mussolini would be handed over to the allies for trial as a war criminal, unless something happens to him in the meantime.

"It is now certain he is still in Italy," the newspaper said, "and that the Italian government will have to surrender him to us on demand. No formal court procedure to get him extradited will be necessary."

The newspaper said that "when handed over, Mussolini will be interned as a prisoner of war in an allied country, and will be kept under close guard while the case against him is prepared."

CRATERS TRACE PATTERN OF JAPS DEFEAT AT KISKA

Tribune Man Sees How Shells, Bombs Scored.

BY HAROLD SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

KISKA HARBOR, Aleutian Islands, Sept. 4 [Delayed].—Any lingering doubt that the Americans gave Kiska, last foothold of the Japs in North America, the most intensive sea and air bombardment the western hemisphere ever has seen, should be dispelled by an examination of the results.

A tour on foot today around the Japs' main camp area on Kiska harbor and the flight strip they leveled by hand on a high ridge northeast of the camp, showed our army and navy flyers and naval gunners knew just what they were doing when they hurled nearly 1,600 tons of bombs and shells into the enemy installations from May 23 until the unopposed landing Aug. 15.

Shell holes and bomb craters freckle the Japs' base area and it is difficult to find even a small area without long, jagged shell or bomb splinters.

Gun Positions Hard Hit.

These marks of war tell a grim story—of the hell the invaders must have endured before they fled.

Craters are especially numerous on the ridge, about a mile from the air strip, where much anti-aircraft artillery was maintained. This high point commanded the air field and valleys to the right and left, thru which direct attacks might come.

Many direct hits on gun positions and bivouac areas were observed here. An armored observation post on the crest, consisting of six reinforced steel sections bolted together to form a dome, apparently had received a direct hit. It had blossomed out like a water lily. One section lay about 75 feet away. Telephone and personal equipment was widely scattered.

A Pattern of Destruction.

Most of the troops of the main camp presumably lived in dugouts along deep gullies in the heart of the camp area. Fresh bomb craters in these valleys show that no part of them was proof against the rain of steel our airmen showered down whenever the persistent fog lifted.

The headquarters and administrative dugouts suffered concentrated attention by our straight shooting sea and air attackers. In several cases the thick, earthen roofs of these dugouts and the heavy revetments in front of them were penetrated by our missiles.

The shellfire pattern laid down by the destroyers that ran up close in the harbor and the heavier ships that delivered their punches from the Bering sea provided an interesting study.

From the top of the ridge it is easy to trace the shell craters' deadly progress toward the enemy concentrations.

Planes Drop 1,019 Tons.

From May 23, when our reconquest of Attu Island touched off the blitz on Kiska, until the uncontested landing of our force last month, the air forces dropped 1,019 tons of bombs while surface craft hurled in 576 tons of high explosives.

Today's observations have convinced this correspondent that a surprisingly large proportion of this tonnage landed with telling effect. The Jap sneak surrender of Kiska, can be added to the Italian capitulation at Pantelleria as evidence that modern battle can be decided by long range attack.

YANK GENEROSITY PERTURBS BRITAIN; MANY CHILDREN BEG

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 10.—The generosity of American soldiers to British children is reported to have created a problem for the police in various parts of Britain, particularly in East Anglia.

Squads of children are said to be roaming the streets and parks sometimes at the instigation and with the encouragement of their parents on systematic begging sorties. The chief victims of what is described as "this racket of child beggars" are American service men.

In some units the American officers at the request of the police have cautioned their men against giving money to youngsters and the United States military police are also discouraging this form of charity.

The parents of two children were fined in an Ipswich court yesterday and two other youngsters were put on probation for begging.

1,000 U. S. PLANES ATTACK GERMAN TARGETS IN DAY

LONDON, Sept. 10 (AP).—The allies' eight day, nonstop aerial assault against the continent apparently is over, but the momentary lull is believed to be the prelude to the beginning of a new phase of the war.

The final day of the drive yesterday brought the American 8th air force to the peak of its activity. More than 1,000 sorties—individual plane flights—were flown by Flying Fortresses, Liberators, Marauders, and Tunderbolts in the joint nonstop bombing of Nazi air fields in France and channel emplacements and in collaboration with the unprecedented dress rehearsal of a cross-channel invasion.

The R. A. F. fighter command alone flew more than 1,500 sorties yesterday.

DOUGLAS RAPS IDEA U. S. SHOULD MANAGE WORLD

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 10 [Special].—Associate Justice William O. Douglas of the United States Supreme court warned today against any post-war attempt by the United States to manage the affairs of other nations, "no matter how high our ideals or motives." He said, "If America continues to be a country worth following she will be followed."

In the post-war world, Douglas declared, every nation "must work out its own destiny."

"We should let others have the same free choice which we reserve for ourselves," he went on. "Even if we wanted to, we could not assume sole responsibility for solving international problems.

"Moreover, we must not disparage other peoples' ability to help themselves. We cannot force other countries to act as we wish or to emulate our way of life."

BOND DRIVE TOPS 51 MILLIONS FOR FIRST FULL DAY

Expect Big Return from Hollywood Show.

The third war loan drive in Cook county took off for a whirlwind start when $51,472,000 worth of bonds were subscribed Thursday, the first full day of the campaign, Irvin L. Porter, chairman of the Cook county war finance committee, announced yesterday. Porter, nevertheless, warned volunteer workers and bond buyers not to relax their coöperation since an average of 35 million dollars' worth of bonds must be sold in Cook county every business day of the three weeks' drive in order to reach the local quota of $746,348,400.

Committee members predicted the biggest chunk of bond money would be forthcoming at the Hollywood cavalcade rally to be staged in Soldiers' field Thursday evening. The show will feature James Cagney, Judy Garland, Mickey Rooney, Greer Garson, Fred Astaire, and Harpo Marx; a score of screen starlets, orchestra entertainers, and the Great Lakes Naval Training station band and choir.

100,000 Tickets for Show.

One hundred thousand tickets are available for the show. Some will be distributed thru pay roll deduction plans in Chicago industrial plants and the others will be given to purchasers of $100 bonds in loop stores.

Porter said indications are that ticket sale proceeds may exceed one hundred million dollars, since plans are being made to sell 100 boxes at $1,000 worth of bonds each.

The committee said a large volume of bond buying has taken place via telephone service set up by the Chicago Bond Traders' club in the Field building. A battery of 10 telephone trunk lines has been installed and experienced bond salesmen are on call day or night to take orders. The number is State 2424.

Edward S. Solomon post of the Jewish War Veterans of the United States reported $259,350 in cash subscriptions, far in excess of its original goal of $150,000 worth of bonds. Louis Feldstein, chairman of the J. W. V. drive, announced that the new goal is $500,000 worth of bonds.

Squadron Leader Robert G. K. Thompson, royal air force pilot decorated by the United States for his work against the Japs, will be featured on the regular treasury department program at 2:30 p. m. today over WBBM.

Drive in Engine Plant.

The largest single subscription of bonds so far was by the Bunte Brothers, Chicago candy manufacturers, who bought $600,000 worth.

The Buick aviation engine plant in Melrose Park has organized a five day drive which began yesterday with a parade thru the factory during each of the three shifts. Fifty bond salesmen have been selected from among girl employes of the plant. At the end of the drive the girls with the best sales records will receive awards.

"We already have sold more than $100,000 worth of bonds," said Carl Wooliever, personnel manager, yesterday. "The response of the average worker here really has been splendid."

DOLLAR'S VALUE OFF ONLY 20.3C, SAYS M'KEOUGH

The present American dollar has declined in purchasing power only 20.3 cents in the last four years, compared with a drop of 40.2 cents in the four years prior to 1918, Raymond S. McKeough, regional administrator of the office of price administration, said at an economic stabilization conference of the National Lawyers guild in the La Salle hotel last night.

The OPA, he said, has been "relatively successful" in its war against inflation. He cited the dangers inherent in inflation "if we lose our fight against it now," pointing out that the dollar's purchasing value fell to 48.4 cents after the last war.

Robert K. Burns, chairman of the regional war labor board, and Robert Travis, assistant to Fullerton Fulton, regional director of the congress of industrial organizations, also spoke. The guild, according to Elmer Gertz, head of the Chicago chapter, favors "more rigid enforcement and implementation of the President's program for economic stability."

PERIOD FOR SHOE STAMPS WILL BE SET BY STOCKS

OPA Reveals Policy on Footwear.

The length of the next shoe ration period will be decided by the office of price administration on the basis of inventories to be reported by shoe retailers, distributors, jobbers, and manufacturers at the close of business on Sept. 30, the Chicago regional OPA office announced yesterday.

Ration coupon No. 18 in book one, which has been valid for a pair of shoes since June 16, expires Oct. 31, and the next shoe stamps will come out of ration books No. 3.

Shoe inventories will be prepared in duplicate, and the dealers will be instructed to mail one copy to the OPA inventory unit, Empire State building, New York, by Oct. 10. Dealers who do not receive the inventory forms by Sept. 27 may obtain them from local rationing boards or district OPA offices after that date.

Brown A stamps in the No. 3 ration books, the first coupons in these new books to become effective, will be valid from tomorrow thru Oct. 2 in the purchase of rationed meats and edible fats and oils. Books for which late applications were made in the period of Aug. 2 to 10 will be mailed this morning, and should be delivered Monday, the Chicago OPA office announced.

The red X, Y, and Z stamps in the No. 2 books will remain valid thru Oct. 2. Brown B stamps, becoming effective Sept. 19, also will be good thru Oct. 2. Brown stamps C, starting Sept. 26; D, starting Oct. 3; E, starting Oct. 10, and F, starting Oct. 17, will all be good thru Oct. 30.

Second hand railroad watches of some standard types were ordered frozen in dealers' stocks yesterday by the war production board, to be sold only to the army, navy, maritime commission, war shipping administration, and time service employes of railways.

The A gasoline ration book of Guy Retherford of 1942 Wilson avenue, was revoked "until further notice," and the A book of Paul Feges, 1315 Sherman street, in Hammond, Ind., was suspended for 60 days, in the most drastic actions of local rationing boards in dealing this week with motorists who have been convicted of speeding, Michael F. Mulcahy, Chicago rationing director, reported yesterday. Gasoline ration books of 25 other motorists who were convicted in Speeders' court were revoked for lesser periods.

Draft Boards Close to Allow Inventory

Draft boards in Cook county and thruout Illinois remained closed yesterday afternoon for the first day under an order from Col. Paul G. Armstrong, state director of selective service. Draft board offices will remain closed to the public until 1 p. m. daily the rest of the month to allow clerks to inventory draft lists.

MYSTERY WOMAN SUES ESTATE OF GEN. VANDERBILT

New York, Sept. 10 [Special].—A mysterious woman in the life of Brig. Gen. Cornelius Vanderbilt was disclosed today with filing of an accounting in his $1,261,000 estate in Surrogate's court.

Identified only as Muriel Lodge Patterson, Watermill, Long Island, she demanded $231,750 "for services rendered" under what she claimed was a life time guarantee of $750 a month. The Central Hanover Bank and Trust company, the executors, refused her claim and she sued for $200,000, with interest from March 1, 1942, when Vanderbilt died on his yacht off Miami. Lawyers and bankers said they were unacquainted with any services she might have performed for Vanderbilt.

Vanderbilt, great-grandson of the original Commodore Vanderbilt, left his estate to his family. A hearing on the accounting will be held Oct. 1.

BARGAIN SHOES PUT SALESMAN IN A TIGHT SPOT

The $15 pair of shoes he sold for $7.50 to Otto H. Willard, 3421 Congress street, put Lewis Shain, who has a shop at 741 Maxwell street, into a tight spot yesterday.

Willard, an employe of the Board of Education engineering department, told Judge John McSweeney in Desplaines street court, that Shain led him into the store recently and sold him a pair of "lifetime" shoes. When the shoes began falling apart two weeks later, Willard returned to complain.

"I continued to demand justice until he showed me a gun and told me to get out or he'd call the gang to take me for a ride, he said.

Judge McSweeney finally decided that the ends of justice required only replacement of the shoes.

"I have just the pair for him," said Shain, "and at half price, too."

Willard agreed to go bargain hunting just once more.

3 OFFICERS SAVE $15,000 A MONTH FOR CAMP M'COY

Find Way to Wash Mask Carriers.

Camp McCoy, Wis. Sept. 10 [Special]. — Development at Camp McCoy of a process for washing and waterproofing canvas gas mask carriers is resulting in savings to the army of $15,000 a month at Camp McCoy alone, Col. George M. MacMullin, post commander, announced today.

Adoption of the laundering process throughout the entire 6th service command has been recommended by the chemical warfare service, 6th service command headquarters, army service forces. It will probably be adopted thruout the army.

Developed by Three Officers.

The new process, one of a series of salvage schemes undertaken under Col. MacMullin's direction at Camp McCoy, was developed by Lt. Louis Malenky, post salvage officer, Lt. Frank D. Ray, post chemical warfare officer, and Lt. L. T. Day, post laundry officer, in an effort to salvage thousands of gas mask carriers formerly discarded when they became too dirty from constant use to protect gas masks.

"Better than new" protection is given gas masks by the process that includes washing the canvas carrier in a cold water soap to remove perspiration and body grease, washing in a hot water soap to remove other dirt, rinsing twice in hot water to remove the soaps, and soaking in a waterproofing liquid.

Put on Floor to dry.

To retain the waterproofing, the canvas carriers are drained in the washer and spread out on floors to dry, with the dry-tumbling process eliminated.

Tests have indicated that the waterproofing is better than new, and that the cannister of the gas mask is completely protected and kept from rusting.

Changes in the process to remove mineral greases in addition are now under way under the direction of Lt. Day.

Denies Arsonist's Plea for Habeas Corpus Writ

Judge Ralph J. Dady of the Lake county Circuit court at Waukegan yesterday denied a petition for a writ of habeas corpus filed by Sibrand Bloom of Zion who is serving a one to 20 year sentence for arson in the state prison at Joliet. Bloom contended that an agreement to drop a charge of burglary pending against him was not kept by the prosecutor when he pleaded guilty to the arson charge and that therefore he is held illegally.

RETIRES TO BED IN WRONG HOUSE; ENDS IN JAIL COT

James B. Waller Jr., 17 years old, insisted on sleeping in the wrong Lake Forest bed yesterday, so last night he was sleeping in even a less acceptable one—a police cell cot in the Lake Forest station.

Young Waller, son of the 43d ward alderman in Chicago, entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Metzger, 726 North Western avenue, Lake Forest, a few blocks from his own home at 895 North Oakwood avenue, and announced he was going to bed. The Metzger family who knew him casually ordered him out, but he went to bed anyway.

A police squad headed by Sgt. Earl Dunn finally removed him from the bed, locked him up, and charged him with drunkenness and disorderly conduct. Three months ago Waller shot his stepfather, George E. Larson, former Lake Forest police chief, during a fight between his mother and Larson. Larson recovered. Mrs. Larson, the former Mrs. Sarah Given Waller, later sued Larson for a divorce. She and Ald. Waller were divorced in 1935.

ONLY BUTTERFLY COMMUTER PUTS COLOR IN THE SKY

Monarchs by Thousands Flitting Southward.

Chicagoland is witnessing the annual southern flight of Monarch butterflies, which are migrating in such numbers this year that they are more conspicuous than the departing songbirds.

Thousands of Monarchs have been seen thruout the city and suburbs, along Lake Michigan and even in the loop. They are en route to the warmer climes of the gulf states where they will spend the winter. Their flights north in June and July take them as far as the Arctic circle.

Hailed by Yanks in Pacific.

The Monarch is one of the milkweed butterflies and is the only species that has systemized its migration. None has been known to hibernate and their ability to travel hundreds of miles like birds have made them noted for their courage and stamina.

The Monarch has stowed away aboard ships and has been found all over the world, altho it is a new world butterfly. In recent years it has crossed the Pacific to Australia and the Philippines. It has been a welcome sight to American soldiers in the Southwest Pacific.

The Monarch has no fear of even the most predatory birds. Altho a fragile, defenseless creature, it migrates during the day with boldness, for its strong taste and disagreeable odor makes it unfit for food.

Enthrall Commuters.

Passengers on a Chicago and North Western railway suburban train watched with interest yesterday as scores of Monarch butterflies flew about 30 feet above the tracks just north of the Madison street station.

The Monarch may be identified by its bright, reddish brown wings tinged with black. Two rows of white spots are on the outer borders and similar markings are to be found across the apex of the forewings.

F.D.R. STATEMENT ON NEGRO CALLED EMPTY GESTURE

Dr. Mordecai Johnson, president of Howard university, Washington, D. C., the nation's largest Negro school, told 15,000 delegates to the 63d session of the National Baptist Convention, Inc., in the 8th regiment armory last night that "the kind words" spoken by President and Mrs. Roosevelt and some southern senators about Negro problems were an "empty gesture."

Assailing the New Dealers for discriminatory practices against Negro soldiers and sailors, he asserted this was "the most grievous hurt suffered by the race since the signing of the Emancipation proclamation." He also lashed at Secretary of Navy Frank Knox for denying Negroes the opportunity to advance themselves to officers of the fleet.

Edgar G. Brown, director of the National Negro council at Washington, urged delegates to support and elect a Republican as President. He said Negroes can look only to Republicans to espouse sincerely equal rights and freedom from discrimination, segregation, and disfranchisement.

15 SECONDS AND 30 FEWER JAPS IN BURMA JUNGLE

Briton Tells How Raiding Party Fought.

Get the Japanese off balance and their vaunted courage will lead them to destruction, Squadron Leader Robert G. K. Thompson of the royal air force said yesterday on the basis of his experience on the ground with the Wingate expedition behind enemy lines in the jungles of Burma.

He described a "nice ambush party" typical of the three months of guerrilla warfare stretched over 1,200 miles. The expedition was led by Brig. Charles O. Wingate.

"Thirty-six Japs came along the trail," said Thompson, who is 27 years old. "One of our men let go with a rifle too soon, but they were all in sight so we opened up with rifles and automatics. We got 30 of them in 15 seconds.

"That's when Japanese combat psychology was displayed. Instead of fading into the jungle and living to fight another day, the remaining six Japs fixed bayonets and charged us. Of course, they were all killed.

80 Per Cent of Them Married.

"It shows that when you spring the surprise and get the Jap off balance he does not have the imagination and initiative that our troops have. Our white troops had six months' training for the jungle, and they were draftees about 30 years old, 80 per cent of whom were married."

The eight columns known as "Wingate's Mob" were supplied daily by American planes. This independence of the towns made it possible for them to avoid trails and to keep moving—their main defense against annihilation.

By one daring landing of an unarmed transport plane, 17 sick and wounded men were brought out during the expedition. Finally, in groups of 30 to 40, most of the brigade made its way back to India or on to China.

Pilot Thompson said that an aviator was assigned to each column in order that the supply flyers could have confidence in the radioed instructions as to where and how to fly in to lessen Jap chances of locating the parties. The supply transports dropped materials from altitudes of 200 feet by day and 400 feet by night.

Rice a Staple of Diet.

Paratrooper style rations were the basis of the fare. Rice was a staple. Refinements were worked out in the supply system to bring the men curry powder, newspapers, mail, canned goods, cigarets, and even snuff for one man.

"Once, unfortunately, the snuff got mixed with the curry powder," Thompson said.

The expedition was a success in smashing enemy communications, killing Japanese, and drawing them off from three other fronts, he said. One railroad line was cut in 85 places.

Thompson's talk before the Executives' club in the Hotel Sherman was his first in Chicago.

Among other speakers was Sen. Guy M. Gillette [D., Ia.], who said that this country is in the greatest domestic battle of its history to enforce a time limit on powers granted New Deal agencies. "We placed time limits on those powers," he said, "but not one has been relaxed." In urging voters to join in the fight on burocrats, he said:

"We can win a military victory with bullets, but we must win this other victory with ballots."

STEVENS HOTEL WILL LAUNDER ARMY UNIFORMS

Arnold S. Kirkeby, president of the group of Kirkeby hotels, announced yesterday that the Stevens hotel will launder uniforms for thousands of army men in this area for the duration. According to a contract just signed by Kirkeby, the uniforms will be shipped to the hotel daily from Fort Sheridan; the army station hospital in the old Chicago Beach hotel; the Skokie Valley military police station; Mitchell field, Wis., and small units in Chicago. Executive offices of the hotel, which was occupied by the army for a year, will be opened Monday. During the army's occupancy the hotel's three floors of laundry facilities cared for the clothing of 15,000 soldiers. The facilities are capable of laundering 3,400 dry pounds of clothing an hour.

HELD BY JAPS, WIFE RECEIVES HIS 2 AWARDS

The Purple Heart and the silver star for "gallantry in action" have been awarded Lt. Col. Lester J. Tacy of the field artillery, who was taken prisoner by the Japanese on Bataan. In his absence the awards were accepted by his wife, of 1209 North State street, from Adjt. Gen. J. A. Ulio.

A postcard received yesterday by Mrs. Tacy from her husband read: "My health is perfect; trim and hard; weight, 163. Send no packages." Col. Tacy, a graduate of West Point, class of 1924, was in Japan on vacation with his wife in October, 1940, when the Rome, Berlin, Tokio pact was signed.

Mrs. Tacy resided in the Philippines until wives were evacuated in May of 1941 on the U.S.S. Republic. A native of Philadelphia, she recently moved to Chicago.

Judge Files to Become Party to Ouster Action

Judge Henry L. Cowlin of McHenry County court, whose right to hold office has been challenged thru a mandamus action filed in Circuit court at Woodstock, yesterday filed a petition to be allowed to become a party to the action. A hearing on his request, made thru his attorney, David R. Joslyn, will be held Sept. 18. The mandamus action, which will be argued before Judge Ralph J. Dady of Waukegan, seeks to force Raymond D. Woods, the county clerk, to notify the governor that a vacancy exists on the County court bench.

FORD TRANSFER DEALINGS TOLD AT ARMY TRIAL

Bennett Describes Talks with Col. Colman.

BY CARL WIEGMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Selfridge Field, Mich., Sept. 10.—Harry H. Bennett, personnel director of the Ford Motor company, told an army court martial today how he interceded with army officers in behalf of the military career of Benson Ford, son of the late Edsel and grandson of Henry Ford.

Harry H. Bennett.

Bennett testified at the trial of Col. William T. Colman, former commanding officer of Selfridge field, who is charged with procuring the "fraudulent and unlawful" transfer of Ford from Camp Custer to Selfridge. Colman also is accused of procuring other fraudulent transfers, of shooting and wounding Pvt. Willie McRae, 24 years old, a Negro chauffeur, of drunkenness, of accepting a gift from a government contractor, and of misappropriating government property.

Bennett, a dapper little man wearing a powder blue suit and a large bow tie, said everything done in behalf of Benson was accomplished without the young man's knowledge. Ford is now a second lieutenant stationed at the Detroit induction center.

Known All His Life.

Capt. Phillip D. O'Connell, the trial judge advocate [prosecutor], opened the examination of Bennett by asking the witness how long he had known Benson Ford.

"All his life," was the quick reply.

Q.—[By Capt. O'Connell]—About how long before Benson Ford went into the armed services did you talk with Col. Colman about him? A.—It was very near the same time. I talked with Col. Brandt about Ben going to officers' training school and he [Brandt] suggested I get in touch with Colman and get Ben out to Selfridge and see if he could get the training here. Well, we were informed it couldn't be done.

[The testimony did not bring out the identification of Col. Brandt.]

Q.—In the meantime was there any change in Ben's draft classification? A.—Well, I didn't know. I figured there would be.

Bennett then repeated he did not know whether he had talked to Col. Colman before or after Benson went into the army.

"Pulled a Fast One," Says Bennett.

"Ben pulled a fast one on us by going up and enlisting at Custer, which wasn't according to—" Bennett's voice trailed off.

Q.—Tell the extent of your conversation with Colman. A.—I asked him if he would write a letter to Custer. I was told by Gen. Arnold's office [Gen. H. H. Arnold, commanding general of the army air forces] that he [Colman] would give us the information for getting Ben into officers' training school and would get him over here.

At this point Bennett mentioned that earlier, during visits of generals to the Ford plant, he had talked to them of the serious illness of Edsel Ford, and had told the generals what he had been doing to get Ben into officers' school.

"I told them of Ben's eyes—he has one-half vision in one eye," Bennett remarked.

Asked again to tell about his conversation with Colman, the witness said: "I told him if he'd send a letter to Custer, Ben would be transferred over here until he was ready for training school. Colman said, 'All right, if the general's office will tell me to write a letter, I'll write it.'"

Bennett said he then called up Col. Thomas Lanphier, a former commander of Selfridge field who now is stationed in Washington, D. C.

"Lanphier said to tell Ben to put in his application in the usual way and you don't need to see Colman or any one," Bennett continued. "Lanphier said 'You tell Colman to send for Ben and we'll get him on over there.' Lanphier said he would write, and whether he did or not I don't know, but Col. Colman did write a letter."

Quizzed on Shoe Shine Outfit.

Bennett also was questioned about a shoe shining outfit.

Q. [By O'Connell]—Did you ever send Colman a gift? A.—No.

Q.—When was the shoe box sent? A.—My assistant, Stanley Fay, said he [Colman] had spoken about a shoe shining outfit and Fay sent it over.

Q.—Did Colman write you a letter about it? A.—Fay tells me there was a letter. I never have seen it.

Bennett said the gift of the shoe shining outfit had no connection with what Colman did for Benson.

Efforts to Enlist Told.

On cross-examination by Maj. Thomas A. Ballantine, chief of defense counsel, Bennett brought out that young Ford tried to enlist in the army several times and was rejected for medical reasons.

Earlier in the day, testimony was presented concerning several other transfers of men to Selfridge field, all of them procured unlawfully, according to the government's charges.

This phase of the case was brought under the 95th article of war, which carries a penalty of dismissal from the service if a verdict of guilty is returned.

Feminine Note Enters Trial.

During the morning session a feminine note entered the trial, which heretofore had been strictly a masculine affair, with much testimony unsuitable to feminine ears. The prosecutor called to the stand Miss Ruth Hausner, who was Col. Colman's secretary when he was commanding officer of Selfridge field.

She recalled that one day the colonel asked her whether she had any friends who wanted to be transferred to Selfridge field.

"I told him no, I had no such friends, but I had a cousin who was about to be inducted," Miss Hausner said. "He was a musician, a saxophone, and oboe player. The colonel said we'd try to enlist him in the band. When that request was denied by the adjutant general's office, Col. Colman said we'd try again later."

Listed as Chute Rigger.

The prosecutor then brought out, thru several witnesses, that Miss Hausner's cousin, Arthur J. Lyons, eventually was listed as a qualified parachute rigger. Lt. Col. Charles G. White, former executive officer of Selfridge field, testified Colman directed him to place Lyons in the 4th air base squadron "for a few days, then transfer him to the band."

Lyons, now a member of the band, testified he did not represent himself to be a parachute rigger, altho he had some experience packing parachutes for his brother-in-law, a parachute jumper.

Another soldier brought to Selfridge field was Corp. John W. Goldsmith of Dunkirk, N. Y., the home town of Col. Colman. Witnesses and messages established he was transferred here from Plattsburg barracks, New York, as a qualified airplane mechanic.

"Dear John" Letter Identified.

The prosecutor introduced a letter from Col. Colman to the commanding officer of Plattsburg barracks saying "I have known this boy [Goldsmith] since birth, and would appreciate anything you can do for me."

Corp. Goldsmith, the next witness, identified a letter he received from Col. Colman addressed "Dear John" and signed "Bill," telling him to be ready for a possible transfer.

Goldsmith admitted he never was an airplane mechanic.

Col. Hamner Huston, president of the court, announced the court would hold a session Sunday. Counsel for both sides said they hoped to complete all testimony and arguments by the middle of next week.

NIGHT HEARINGS SLATED TO HELP GET BACK PAY

Evening hearings will be granted to workers who apply to the Illinois department of labor for assistance in collecting unpaid wages due them from former employers, it was announced yesterday by Francis B. Murphy, director of the department. The hearings will be held Thursdays, starting next week, and also will be granted to employers against whom the claims are filed, Murphy said.

Murphy said any worker who has past wages totaling $100 or less due to him from an employer may secure the help of the department in collecting the money. The night hearings were scheduled when it was found by Louis J. Meyes, chief state factory inspector, that present industrial activities leave many workers with valid claims unable to attend daytime hearings without loss of time from their jobs.

Applications for filing claims are available at the wage claims unit of the division of factory inspection, room 900, 205 West Wacker drive. If the claim appears to be valid, the employer is notified and given five days in which to make payment.

Lake County Courthouse Without Oil for Heating

Goose pimples became the vogue in the Lake county courthouse at Waukegan yesterday when the temperature hovered between 59 and 65 degrees and employes were dependent on the sun for heat. Ralph Cundiff, county purchasing agent, blamed the lack of steam heat on the Chicago office of the OPA, which, he said, had not acted on his request for an allowance of 38,600 gallons of fuel oil. He said he had arranged with the Waukegan OPA office, however, to obtain a temporary fuel supply today.

MORE SUBS THAN MERCHANT SHIPS SUNK IN AUGUST

Conquest of Sea Detailed by Allied Bureaus.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—More axis submarines were sunk in the North Atlantic during August than allied merchant ships, the office of war information announced today in a joint statement with the British ministry of information.

The statement, which gave no figures, termed August "another successful month in U-boat warfare," and added that surface and air forces have combined to protect shipping.

The statement was prepared after consultation with the British admiralty, United States navy department, and Canadian department of national defense for naval services. Text of the statement follows:

"1. August has been another successful month in U-boat warfare. Owing perhaps to rearmament and other causes, there appear to have been fewer U-boats at sea than in recent months, and shipping losses have continued to decrease.

"2. It is significant that the enemy made virtually no attempt to attack North Atlantic shipping, and opportunities for attacking the U-boats have been relatively few. Nevertheless, U-boats have been hunted relentlessly on all stations wherever they have appeared and a heavy toll has been taken of the enemy. In fact, more U-boats have been sunk than merchant ships.

"3. Surface and air forces both have contributed to this satisfactory month's work by the efficiency of their escorts, patrols, and offensive operations. Shore-based aircraft often have had to face powerful enemy air opposition, and carrier-borne aircraft have played a most important part.

"4. We are ready to attack the enemy with utmost vigor should he provide the opportunity by resuming a general attack on our shipping with the very large number of U-boats at his disposal."

WOUNDED HERO HOME AFTER 5 MAJOR BATTLES

Sgt. Stanley Kolbrick, 29 years old, who was awarded the silver star for participating in five major battles in North Africa and the purple heart for wounds suffered in the landing at Algiers and the storming of hill No. 609, near Mateur, came home yesterday to visit his mother, Mrs. Anna Kolbrick of 1025 Lincoln street, North Chicago.

Kolbrick, who has been hospitalized since April, is convalescing and will return to an eastern hospital when his furlough expires. Two of his brothers, George, 24, and William, 26, are in service, George in the South Pacific, and a fourth brother, Charles, recently received a medical discharge from the army.

Kolbrick was employed by the American Steel and Wire company.

$29,790 Saved by City on War Garden Water

Altho the city made $30,000 available to pipe water to war gardens when supplies were not available from private homes, only $272 of the fund was expended, Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, said yesterday. And that figure was reduced to $210 thru payments made to the city by gardeners who used city pipe and water.

ITALY FOOLED US, HITLER SAYS; TEXT OF SPEECH

Tells Nazis Territory May Be Ceded.

LONDON, Sept. 10 (AP).—The text of Adolf Hitler's radio speech, as broadcast over the Berlin radio by the German news agency DNB and recorded here by the Associated Press follows:

"My German volksgenossen and genossinen [men and women compatriots].

"Freed from the heavy burden of expectation pressing us for a long time, I now see that the moment has arrived to speak again to the German people without taking refuge in lies either to myself or to the public.

"The collapse of Italy could be foreseen for a long time, not thru lack of means on the Italian side for more efficient defense or by lack of German help, but by the failure or rather by the unwillingness of those elements who caused the capitulation as a result of their planful sabotage.

"What has been accomplished now is the outcome of what these men have been striving at for years—the surrender of the Italian state leadership from the German reich, allied with Italy, to their common enemies.

Italy Not Pressed Into War.

"When England and France declared war on the German reich in September, 1939, Italy would have been obliged by our treaties to declare her solidarity with Germany immediately. This solidarity was not only created by treaties but also by fate assigned to both Germany and Italy by their enemies. It is known that Mussolini had the firm intention of ordering immediate mobilization in Italy in accordance with the treaties.

"The same forces which now have brought about the capitulation succeeded in August, 1939, in preventing Italy from entering the war. As fuehrer of the German reich I had to have an understanding for the extraordinary difficulties of Il Duce.

"Therefore, I neither then nor later pressed Italy to observe her obligations.

"On the contrary, I completely left it to the Italian government either not to enter the war at all, or, if so, at a moment most convenient to themselves, a moment which they should choose perfectly freely.

Shed Their Blood in Common.

"Mussolini, in June, 1940, had succeeded in achieving the prerequisite at home to join Germany, altho at that time the fight had already been decided in Poland, as well as in Norway, and against France and her allied British armies on the continent.

"Nevertheless, I had to thank Il Duce for his attitude which, as it was known to me, could be achieved only with extreme difficulties within—not against the Italian people, but against certain circles.

"Since that time the reich and Italy have fought together on many battlefields, have shed their blood in common.

"Not for one second have Il Duce and I doubted that the issue of this war will decide the 'being or not being' of our peoples.

"Accordingly, Germany, herself stricken in the heaviest battles, has helped her ally to the utmost possible limit.

"Many offers of help have been entirely refused by the military rulers of Italy from the beginning, or were only accepted under chimerical conditions.

Prepared to Aid Ally.

"Evidence will be submitted to the public at the appropriate time proving what contributions Germany has made to her ally in their common fateful struggle, and was still prepared to make.

"The German soldier himself has taken an attitude on these common battlefronts which distinguishes him everywhere, for without his intervention North Africa would have been lost for Italy as far back as in the winter of 1940-1941.

"The name of Marshal Rommel will be connected eternally with this German performance.

"The reich in the spring of 1941 decided to help Italy in the Balkans so as not to accomplish their own intentions, but only to assist her ally and to push aside the danger which had arisen by the allies' action and which naturally also menaced Germany.

Calls Benito Great Man.

"Germany made all these sacrifices at the same moment a large scale bolshevist offensive was expected hourly. She had more than enough to do with her own problems. The blood of numerous German soldiers sealed our brotherhood in arms. The German nation and I as its fuehrer could take this attitude, knowing that at the head of the Italian nation there was one of the greatest men which this century had produced—the greatest son of Italy since collapse of the Roman empire.

"His unconditional faith gave our alliance the basis for success. His fall and the offenses done to him will be felt with deepest shame by future Italian generations. The last little push for a coup d'etat which had been decided upon long ago, came upon the demand of the Duce for increased powers necessitated in the interest of conduct of the war. The strictest measures against open and hidden saboteurs of the Italian war effort, against the reactionary enemies of social justice and against the powers of resistance of Italian national were to serve their aim.

Pained by Duce's Downfall.

"At the last minute Mussolini wanted to eliminate the sinister enemies of the Italian people in the battle of "to be or not to be" in order to guarantee the future of Italy. Great pain overcame me personally when I witnessed this injustice done to this man which is unique in history; when I saw the undignified treatment meted out to him. For 20 years he had only lived in permanent sorrow and preoccupation for the well-being of his people and they pushed him down to the level of an ordinary criminal. I was and I am happy to have been allowed to call this great and faithful man my friend.

"I have not learned to change my opinions according to current needs or to deny them. Tho there are other opinions on this subject I believe that in the life of nations, just as well as in the life of individuals, faithfulness is of indispensable value. Without it human society would not be stabilized and its organizations would crash sooner or later.

"Even after this shameful event German troops in Sicily, German pilots, U-boat crews and other units on land, sea and air have done their duty to the fullest extent.

[Here a portion was omitted.]

Italy Now a Battleground.

"Many things cannot be told today for reasons of tactical expedience, but posterity will know that with the exception of a few courageous Italian troops there were mainly German troops from this time who defended with their life not only the German reich but also Italian soil.

"Now that the Italian government has decided to break off its alliance and pull out of the war and thus make Italy a battlefield more than before, it may justify it with whatever reasons it can muster. It can justify it as necessity, but it will find no excuse for the fact that Italy's ally was not notified beforehand.

"Not only did Badoglio ask the German charge d'affairs in Rome to come to his office on the day of the signature of the armistice but he assured him that he, Marshal Badoglio, would never betray Germany; that we should have confidence in him and that he would prove it by his deeds; that he was worthy of this confidence and that above all Italy would never capitulate. On the day of Italian capitulation the king called the German charge d'affairs and also assured him especially that Italy would never capitulate, but would continue on Germany's side in good and bad luck.

Termed Wretched Lie.

"Indeed, only one hour after the announcement of the treason the chief of the Italian general staff, Roatta, declared to our military plenipotentiary that this was nothing else but a wretched lie and British propaganda.

"At the same moment a representative of the Italian foreign ministry gave the assurance that this information was a typical British swindle which he denied. Fifteen minutes later he admitted that the whole matter was true and that Italy had really gotten out of war.

"In the eyes of democratic warmongers and in those of the present Italian government this behavior may account for the brilliant example of tactical diplomacy.

"History will judge differently and future generations of Italy will feel ashamed that these tactics had been employed toward an allied friend who had more than fulfilled his duties according to the letter of treaties with blood and sacrifices of all kinds.

"After I had a chance of observing the increasing influence of these reactionaries—also negative towards the social tasks of Italy—and the hostile circles towards Germany there was hardly any doubt left, since the fall of Mussolini, about the true intentions of this change of regime.

Takes Counter Measures.

"Therefore, I have ordered all measures in accordance with my duty which could be taken for this occasion in order to preserve the German reich from the fate which Marshal Badoglio and his men have not only inflicted on the duce and on the Italian people but into which they also want to draw Germany.

"We all know that in this merciless struggle the defeated will be annihilated according to the wishes of our enemies. We are therefore willing always to take those measures with cold determination, mindful of details and of major issues which are liable to blot out the hopes of our adversaries. But also many honor-loving Italians have declared themselves to be firm allies fighting for both our peoples.

"From the military point of view the loss of Italy means but little. The battle in this country for many months was supported and borne mainly by German troops. Now we can continue this fight free of all liabilities.

No Traitors in Germany.

"The attempt of international plutocracy to break the Germans' resistance like it did Italy's is childish. They confuse the German people with others. The hope of finding traitors like in Italy among Germans is based on complete ignorance of national socialism.

"Their hope of bringing about a 25th of July in Germany is based on the deep error they have with regard to my personal position as well as to the attitude of my political collaborators, field marshals, admirals, and generals. More than ever, German leadership will meet this intention. Every trial will only fortify our unity. Every personal life has long ceased to exist for myself personally. I work conscious of the fact that thru my work I can secure the life of my people for many generations hence.

Foresees Terror Raids.

"That I possess the right to believe in success unconditionally is not only based on my own life work but on the successes of our people in 1939. We had to accept the declarations of war of our enemies alone and abandoned. We have acted according to the principles that heroic resistance under all circumstances is preferable to cowardly submission. Therefore I declared on Sept. 1, 1939, that neither time nor the power of arms would ever force the German people to its knees. Since then, the enemy has been pushed from the German frontiers more than 1,000 miles thru our own force alone. Only by air can the enemy terrorize the German hinterland. But here also technical and organizational means are growing which will not only break his terror attacks forever, but will retaliate with other and more effective means.

"Tactical necessities may force us during this tremendous fateful struggle sometimes to give up a position on one front or to evade special menaces. But the ring of steel forged by the German homefront will never break. This ring protects the reich held by the heroism of our soldiers.

Hails German Army.

"At this moment I expect that the nation with dogged pride will fulfill its duty in all spheres of this tremendous fight. There is every reason to have confidence in it. The party must be a model in every respect.

"The homeland can proudly look upon its soldiers who have engaged in heavy bloody fighting again and again and are fulfilling their task under most difficult circumstances.

"On the other hand the front, in its painful hours during which frequent superhuman demands are imposed on it thruout many weeks and many months, may remember the homeland which today has also become a fighting front. The heroism of old people and of children, of mothers, women and girls is not surpassed. Therefore, every soldier has the sacred duty to preserve still higher the steadfastness he has had so far and to do that which the fight demands from him.

"The German people have never been so proud of themselves thruout the whole of their history as in this most gigantic struggle of all times.

Calls for Sacrifice.

"All attempts to force the fate of an enslaved nation upon the German people will fail in the face of this will and this achievement. May every single German, regardless of his position or assignment, be conscious that the fate of our nation and the future of many generations depends on his effort, on his willingness to sacrifice. Therefore, I cannot thank with words the German people, men and women of the home front and soldiers, for all they are doing, for what they are suffering patiently and bearing readily. This fortitude will be expressed by future generations who will know that their fate and socially secure life is the fruit of the sacrifices of our time. I, for myself, am unspeakably proud to be fuehrer of this people, and I thank God for every hour He gives me which enables me to turn the greatest struggle of our times into a successful one.

"The measures taken in Italy for the safeguarding of German interests are very hard. As far as they concern Italy, they are already being carried out according to plan, and are successful. The example of the treachery of Jugo-Slavia has given us a healthy knowledge beforehand. The fate of Italy may be a lesson for all of us never to forsake our national honor, not even in an hour of most bitter trial or utter darkness.

"It will teach us to be faithful always to our allies and to fulfill our duty with faithful hearts.

"To the people who have passed these trials of destiny the Lord in the end will present the laurels of victory and the price of life. This must and will be Germany."

WAY BELIEVED PAVED FOR TALK BY STALIN, F. D. R.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Sept. 10. — The first phase of conversations designed to arrange a Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin meeting ended today after Vice Foreign Commissar Ivan Maisky met a representative of Secretary of State Cordell Hull. Maisky will leave soon for Moscow.

The preliminary talks evidently have succeeded, for there is every indication that Secretary Hull, Russian Foreign Commissar Vyacheslov Molotov, and British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden will meet in London in October for the second phase of the conversations.

Agreement on a meeting of the foreign secretaries does not mean Marshal Josef Stalin has agreed to meet President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, however. That depends on how Hull, Eden, and Molotov get along and how they, in turn, get along depends greatly on the allies' policy about opening a second front in western Europe and incorporating the Baltic states into Russia.

NAVY REPORTS CHICAGO SAILOR AMONG MISSING

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—Ensign John Joseph Payton Jr. of 7835 East End avenue, Chicago, was reported missing in a casualty list made public today by the navy. His parents were listed as Mr. and Mrs. John J. Payton of the East End avenue address.

Two others from Chicagoland were reported missing. They were 1st Lt. Charles C. Lanphier, a marine, son of Mrs. Janet Lanphier, Detroit, Mich., and Ensign Jerome Joseph Sabota, son of Mrs. Emma Sabota, Independence, Wis.

The list brought to 29,300 the total navy, marine corps, and coast guard casualties reported to next of kin since Pearl Harbor. It includes 10,117 dead, 5,166 wounded, 9,856 missing, and 4,161 prisoners.

KETTERING PLAN FOR AFTER WAR: LET BUYER RULE

Calls Competition Key to Better Living.

Competitive industry—not free enterprise—will lift the nation in the post-war years to a higher level of prosperity and an enlarged sphere of human living, C. F. Kettering, vice president in charge of research of General Motors corporation, told more than 200 managing editors of the nation last night in the Drake hotel.

C. F. Kettering.

"So many people talk today about free enterprise," Kettering said. "I don't know if there is any free enterprise, but what this country needs, as it has had in the past, is competitive industry that is customer controled. When we get back to the days when a customer can say, 'I don't like that, I won't buy it' or 'I like that, I will buy it,' America will go ahead to greater prosperity and finer living."

Stresses Press' Responsibility.

Addressing the annual dinner of the Associated Press managing editors wartime conference, Kettering told the newspaper executives that "your responsibility is greater than any other business in America, for so many depend on you for their thinking."

Guessing that there were at least 350 post-war plans in Washington, Kettering declared that the real test of a post-war plan is this: "If you think human nature is going to be different after the war, then that is just post-war wishing."

"History," he said, "is largely a catalog of war. Twenty-five years of peace will merit but a paragraph. History is written around wars. We look into history and back into the future. I want a word that is opposite to history so that we can look ahead and determine how we will be living 20 or 25 years from now."

Cites Aviation Development.

The research head pointed out that the airplane was only 15 years old in the first World war and only 40 years old in this war. Yet in the time between the two wars airplane engines had been increased from 450 horsepower to 1,600 horsepower and octane gasoline, almost unknown in the first war, has been increased from 50 to 120 octanes in 25 years.

"The greatest difficulty," he said, "is that in war we turn to outside sources. The government does this. The government does that. Yet the government is merely a reflection of what we were before the war began."

Contrasting the newspaper business, in which a product is completed, marketed, and becomes obsolete in a single day, with the research laboratory, where the scientist works for many years on a single problem, Kettering declared that the human race "can do anything any creature can do if we are willing to spend the time and energy necessary."

Praises War Reporters.

The newspaper executives, representing newspapers in all parts of the nation, were guests of Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and published of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, at a luncheon yesterday noon in the Gold Coast room of the Drake hotel.

In the afternoon they heard Kent Cooper, general manager of the Associated Press, pay tribute to the war correspondents who, unarmed, went along with the front line troops and some sacrificed their lives that the nation might get the news.

The meeting will close with the session of this morning.

Youth Freed of Charges in Shooting of Brother

Norbert Kubic, 17 years old, 8437 Paxton avenue, charged with assault with a deadly weapon after he shot and wounded his brother, Aurelius, 14, on Sept. 1, was discharged yesterday by Judge N. J. Bonelli in Boys' court. Police told the judge they were convinced the shooting was accidental.

KAY WILLIAMS.

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 10 (AP).—In the eyes of her husband, Screen Actress Kay Williams was "too beautiful and attractive" to other men, she testified today in obtaining a divorce from Martin de Alzaga Unzue, wealthy Argentinian sportsman. "Every time we went to a party he would fly into a jealous rage when other men paid me any attention," asserted the actress, 25. Unzue, 41, originally entered a cross-complaint to the divorce, but withdrew it after a property agreement was reached.

PARENTS OF TWO GIVEN DIPLOMAS IN WAR TRAINING

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Casey, 3838 North Lockwood avenue, were graduated together last night from De Paul university night school in war industry training. They were among 900 who finished a 12 week course.

The Caseys have two children, 2 and 5 years old, and both parents are employed. Mrs. Casey took a job after finishing a day time course at De Paul. Casey is an electrician with the Commonwealth Edison company. Mrs. Casey last night finished courses in cost accounting and job analysis. Mr. Casey studied job analysis.

Dr. Howard Egan, director of war training courses, presented certificates after a brief program in De Paul's little theater at 64 East Lake street. W. B. Castenholz, an instructor, spoke on values of war training in speeding production. Registration will be held next week for the seventh war training course, to open Sept. 23 at De Paul.

Samba Dancer a Favorite for 'Miss America' Title

Atlantic, City, N. J., Sept. 10.—"Miss America of 1943" will be selected here tomorrow as the climax of a contest in which 34 beauties from all parts of the nation are competing. One of the most promising candidates is Helen Frances Mack, 19 years old, "Miss Boston," whose interpretation of the Samba dance won the talent contest in the preliminaries. The green-eyed contestant also tied for first place in the bathing beauty contest.

Banker Witness Against Two in Land Fraud Trial

Frank J. Lewis, 4929 Woodlawn avenue, former chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, testified before a jury in Federal Judge John P. Barnes' court yesterday to the effect that he was defrauded of $65,000 on land purchases in Florida. Josef Dickoff, 51 years old, and E. B. Donnell, 56, accused of mail fraud, are alleged to have overcharged Lewis on certain purchases and to have failed to purchase land contrary to their representations.

ELEVEN ROBBED IN TAVERN.

Two well dressed robbers, armed with revolvers, held up Edward Miller, 34 years old, and 10 customers in Miller's tavern at 315 South Halsted street, yesterday, and took $600 from a cash drawer and $90 from the customers.

CROWNING THE CONSORT.

In the rounds of public functions prepared for the reception of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt in Australia was a state luncheon in Canberra, last Saturday, at which William Morris Hughes, who was prime minister of the dominion in the last war and its delegate to Versailles, was a speaker. Mr. Hughes is quoted by the United Press as saying that Mrs. Roosevelt's visit to the antipodes has "political significance." He then added his hope that "the people of America will place Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt again where they are now so they can continue their efforts to assure the peace of the world."

Hitherto we have had wives in the White House, but not consorts. It has always been the understanding of the American people that when they elected a President to execute their laws they conferred on his wife no more than the social distinction of her husband's position. The hot dog picnics at Hyde Park now appear as an incitement to a more exalted status.

Mr. Hughes, a British subject, offers advice to American citizens on their internal political affairs. He picks a candidate in the forthcoming election and places his stamp of approval on him, urging that we vote for him. Mr. Churchill at Harvard kept within the proprieties. He proposed a military alliance and suggested the possibility of common citizenship, but he did so as a spokesman of the British people making an offer for our acceptance or rejection. Mr. Hughes did not trouble himself with the niceties of diplomatic correctness. He made a stump speech for an American candidate in an American election.

Mr. Hughes is one of Australia's elder statesmen. He quit public office in the dominion only two years ago. He is a mischievous old man, but his conduct can hardly be put down to the falterings of senility, because he has only repeated what he threatened to do once before when he was in his prime.

By insisting at Versailles on Australia's demands for New Guinea and the other former German possessions in the Southwest Pacific, he did more than any other man to put the Japanese in the position from which they launched the present war. The other half of the secret treaty that granted Australia the possessions south of the equator granted Japan the former German islands north of it. Both of the promises violated Mr. Wilson's principles as set forth in the 14 points, but the Japanese could not be denied their claim unless Hughes renounced his. This he refused to do, and when Wilson sought to soothe the Japanese by including in the peace treaty a declaration on racial equality, Hughes frustrated him by the threat that if that were included he would launch such an attack upon it as to rouse California against the President.

Perhaps we should temper indignation with gratitude. Mr. Hughes has, after all, done the American people an unwitting service. Mr. Roosevelt's activities as an instrument of British policy in this country have been long apparent, but hitherto unacknowledged. Mr. Hughes has placed the British imprimatur on Franklin and Eleanor as the empire's candidates to rule the reconstituted North American colonies. What the character of that rule would be we can view only with apprehension.

UNIFICATION IN FACT.

The Illinois commerce commission has instructed the surface, L, and bus lines to place in operation by Oct. 1 a transfer system at every point where any of their lines meet. This is the best break the local transportation riders of Chicago have been given in 20 years. So far as the customers are concerned, the city now has traction unification in fact. They have been waiting for it ever since 1927, while various plans for financial union of the companies have been set up and knocked down.

The pity is that it wasn't done 16 years ago. It could have been if so much time had not been wasted on the subject of corporate reorganization. The riders are not interested in corporate details. They are interested in service. The transfer order gives them half of what they need.

The other half lies in the field of improved equipment. So far as the surface lines are concerned, they can provide that in time if they are granted a franchise, with or without corporate unification. They have money available and whenever they achieve the stability of a franchise can borrow whatever else is necessary on equipment trust certificates. The motor coach company is in a similar position in respect to equipment. The war, of course, makes it impossible for either company to buy much until the priority system is abolished and industry is allowed to return to civilian manufacture.

The only benefit that can flow from corporate unification is the use of that process to compel some one to pick up the financially impoverished elevated system and set it back on its feet. That would be an important contribution to local transportation, but it is doubtful whether it is important enough to justify freezing the present poor equipment of the solvent companies.

The order is entered for a trial period of one year. It will probably require some operating adjustments. It will be interesting to see, for example, what happens in the loop on the first rainy day after the transfer plan goes into effect. If all of the elevated riders jump on street cars to ride two blocks to the L, there isn't going to be room for the regular street car riders. No transportation system on earth could provide equipment for such short haul business. This, however, is a specialized situation and one that will be easily cured as soon as the difficulty is made manifest.

MR. KNOX'S TEAPOT DOME.

Last November Secretary Knox signed a contract with the Standard Oil Company of California giving the company the right to exploit the 43,000 acre Elk Hills naval oil fields, second richest oil reserve in the world. The property has been valued at as high as 600 million dollars. Standard Oil owned only 8,300 acres of this land, about one-fifth, yet Mr. Knox gave the company a one-third interest.

Standard Oil was to pump the field and keep 15,000 barrels of oil a day for five years, after which production was to be reduced to 750 barrels a day, from which the navy was to get its share of oil. Congressmen saw the juice dripping from this contract. They pointed out that Standard Oil would receive 27 million barrels of oil in the first five years of operation. If there was any oil left in Elk Hills after that, the navy would be several centuries getting its share, they said.

The congressional critics forced cancellation of the Elk Hills contract and the President has announced formal approval of that cancellation. During a senate hearing Mr. Knox, trying to explain his unrestrained generosity toward Standard Oil, said that he had "muffed it."

Mere stupidity is neither an excuse nor a very plausible explanation. If Mr. Knox expects that this quiet little deal, giving away the petroleum of the United States navy to the Standard Oil company, is going to be forgotten as so much ancient history because the President abrogated it, congress should set him right.

The Elk Hills deal is almost a prima facie case. The suspicion of great corruption is so strong that it must not be hushed up and forgotten. It has the old Teapot Dome smell. The oil belongs to the people. Congress has halted the spoliation, but the case against the spoilers is still on the docket.

RUSSIA AS AN ALLY.

There are intimations that Josef Stalin is about to be drawn into the conference Mr. Roosevelt so greatly desires. Mr. Churchill has had the privilege and did not appear to care much for it. Our chief executive has the determination, zeal, and rapture of an autograph hunter.

Russia has announced no war aim which has any resemblance to anything Mr. Roosevelt has proclaimed or agrees in any particular with anything proposed by our post-war planners. Both in its intentions toward small neighboring nations and its announced purposes as regards Germany it is poles away. We have said that the destruction of German militarism is something without which the war is lost even when won. Russia has advised the German people to keep and cherish their army.

Russia as an ally is a congeries of contradictions. It is not fighting in the common cause because of conviction or sympathy. Its alliance was with the enemy. This alliance was one of choice. Its present position is one of necessity. Mr. Churchill and Mr. Roosevelt did not win Mr. Stalin to their side. Hitler threw him there. Mr. Stalin did not enter the war to drag Germany off Great Britain. He came in against his will because Hitler, turning away from Great Britain, attacked him.

Help that Russia has given Great Britain and the United States is wholly incidental and in no part intentional. Help that Great Britain and the United States have given Russia is intentional and sensible. There is no bond of union between Russia and its accidental allies. In ideas they have been enemies and still are enemies. Great Britain and the United States are, to the Russians capitalistic exploiters. Russia to its allies is the enemy of private enterprise. Particularly in the United States there may be people in official place who would like to transplant Russian ideas here, but the mass of the American people regard these ideas as unsuitable and in many respects detestable.

Russia has done nothing for the United States other than fight hard to save itself. The United States, professing a great affection where none is returned, has sent Russia supplies, largely tanks and planes, amounting to over 2 billion dollars in value. Russia's response to this and to the aid received from Britain is to complain that more has not been done.

We may be sentimental, unreasonable, or even hypocritical, but Americans and Russians could not sit down at a peace table as comrades in thought or intentions. If Russia should have its way we are humiliated. If we should have our way Russia is thwarted. The conflict of interest and principle is as great as could be.

Japan is Russia's enemy. Russia has a treaty of peace with Japan and will not abandon it. We are in a deadly war with Japan and get no aid from Russia, which asks more from us against Hitler while doing nothing to help us against Hirohito. We have no assurance that Russia will not make a separate peace with Germany whenever the Germans show a willingness to come to terms. We have no assurance that Russia will ever lend a hand in the Pacific conflict.

This is our ally. More power to his elbow so long as he fights, but never drop the eyelids on the possibilities of his actions. One careless nod and we may be rudely awakened to some disagreeable and disconcerting facts.

A HIGH COURT SPEAKS.

[Kansas City Star.]

At least a section of Kentucky is agitating itself over the question of whether the Tennessee Valley development is a "purely socialistic" project. Some say it is and others say 'tain't so. We have no chips in the game and from a purely neutral standpoint merely cite the authority of Norman Thomas, Socialist party spokesman, who remarked some little while back that the TVA was the outstanding example of socialism under the New Deal. And if Mr. Thomas doesn't know his socialism, who does?

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 21.

1. Which one of these is the most brittle?
   Cast iron Brass Steel Wrought iron.
2. If during a thunderstorm, you saw a brilliant flash of lightning but heard no thunder for exactly 10 seconds, how far away did the lightning strike?
   ½ mile 1 mile 2 miles 5 miles.
3. A railroad train called the Pocahontas should be expected to operate in the East West North South.
4. A mosaic is usually found in which of these positions? On the Ceiling Floor Wall Roof.
5. The steam shovel employed to load ships is called a Scoop Oyster Clam Shrimp.
6. The cultivated areas of land in different regions of the U. S. A. are called by various names. You deserve one point for each correct matching of those listed in the left hand column below with the cities associated therewith.
   [a] Farm [v] New York City
   [b] Garden [w] Denver
   [c] Ranch [x] St. Louis
   [d] Plantation [y] Pittsburgh

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

MR. PEPYS FEELS COOL.

11th Sept.—Came the Labor day week-end, hot and stifling, and I refrained from unnecessary travel like a patriot or a bump on a log, and when I read in the papers what happened to some of the nation's biggest and best trains on those holidays, was glad I had stayed at home. Then came a great chilly wind from the northwest, and it was time to feed the straw hat to a cow and to put on warmer clothes. The year had turned and the season for outdoor dining, with a fork in one hand and a fly swatter in the other, is about ended.

"This is it," I said, shaking the moths out of a topcoat. The last hatch of robins is still looking spotty and half grown, and the flowers are still blooming brightly along the borders of the war gardens, but it has felt like fall so it must be fall, altho the almanac gives summer ten more days to run. There will be a full moon next Wednesday, and the next after it will be the famous old harvest moon of the folk songs. In two more weeks will be going up to Dyche stadium, wearing either a palm beach suit or an ulster, to watch the Wildcats start the football season. Have told Walter Paulison to save my old seat, war or no war.

Now comes Line Book time, when I work an extra hour a day, skimming the cream off a year's columns. Now John McCutcheon begins to think about brushing the dust off his "Injun Summer" cartoon. Now kids go back to school, and I can sleep late in the mornings without their hollering under my window. Now the sturdy war gardener makes his last raids upon the vegetable patch, where he has pointed with pride and viewed with alarm since last May.

Now, too, the dikes of war-bound Europe begin to crack, and the oppressor remembers the old saying, "After me, the deluge."

BEACH IN SEPTEMBER.

Now comes September, trailing gauzy veils
Of blue and amethyst across the hills,
Transforming them to folds of chiffon pale
And lending mystery to woodland trails.

The lake is quiet, yet it softly croons
The song that coming Autumn always sings,
Farewell to Summer and its languid days,
And greeting to the brilliant harvest moons.

The lake is deepest sapphire blue save where Soft, floating clouds cast violet shadows deep,
And as it rolls up to the beach a line
Of snowy white proclaims the surf is there.

September's smiles are warm, yet there are hints
Of chill that warn of changes soon to come,
When in the harvest garnering are found
The Autumn fruits and glowing foliage tints.

September beautiful! We wish that we Could keep you with us many times as long
As now you stay, and yet when you must go
Remember that we love your memory!

Carolyn D. Tyler.

History of the Gold Coast—XLIII.

Centered about the water tower and between the Illinois street and Geary alley gangs was a small bunch of youngsters—Tom, Des, Henny, Babe, Sonny, Muzzy, Cackiack, and a few casuals. Not strong enough to contend with the larger gangs, it maintained a state of benevolent neutrality. Now Cack, alleged to be a distant connection of Queen Victoria, was a real good fellow but not inclined to take anything from anybody. He was also called Beaneo, but not when he was around. One of the tricks of the bunch was to yell Beaneo when he was about two blocks away; he would come charging down, ready to pulverize the offender, whom he seldom caught.

One day he had a run-in at St. Clair and Huron with a pack from Illinois street, on the loose in search of adventure. Probably one of them called him Beaneo. Anyway he was pushed around, and he appealed to his friends in the Geary alley crowd to help him square the issue. The affair developed into a trial at arms.

The preliminaries were arranged, and on the evening set, a mild, warm night, the Geary alley gang assembled in its stamping ground and advanced to Chicago avenue and Cass, filling the latter street from curb to curb and screaming defiance. After a short wait the enemy was seen far down Cass street in the dim gas light, under the trees, and slowly advancing to the north, brandishing sticks and baseball bats. The steady advance was too much; the morale of the Geary alleyites broke and they turned and ran in streams back to their bailiwick, much to the surprise of the spectators. The Illinois street boys swept by jubilantly and chased them into their streets and alleys.

There was no balm in Geary alley that night or for some time afterward. The mighty had fallen. The gang never recovered its prestige, and thereafter it confined its activities to mussing up "chaunceys." Captain John.

For a rousing send-off and charming lunch,
I'd like to thank the whole Line bunch.
For a charming lunch and rousing send-off,
I offer this pome which I've just penned off:

This I say, and I'll not backtrack,
I'm proud to know folks like Duke Bakrak;
It makes me feel quite high and chesty
To know C. O. R. and Warren Estey;
And gosh! you know it's really fine
To count a friend in Eugenia Stein.
W. L. Hudson, "Dean" Clark, and M'Tavish
Inspire praises approaching the lavish;
I could add Tabarin, Shandy Gaff,
And R. E. C., yet not name half
The gay and witty Line o' Type bunch
I'd like to thank for that swell lunch,
And for topping that acme of luncheon brawlin's,
I'd like to thank you, too, Mr. Collins!

DIGESTIVE UPSETS MAY MEAN HEART WEAKNESS.

THE body is supplied with a number of important warning signals. When the skin puts on a colorful display it usually tells us that something has gone wrong within. The appearance of eczema, more often than not, means that the circulation has picked up a toxin from the intestinal tract which the epidermis resents forcefully.

In like fashion, symptoms arising in the stomach may be accepted as telegrams that spoiled food has been eaten, mastication has not been sufficiently thoro, or that the material which has been swallowed is actually indigestible.

Now and then the gastric pouch will become congested as an early sign of heart failure. In fact, there are many manifestations of dyspepsia that may be traced to the fact that the liver is swollen and the blood vessels of the stomach are overfilled. Because the vital fluid cannot find its way back to the pumping organ, neither of these structures will be able to function at par.

What does this signify? Merely that the circulatory system is failing. Characteristic signs may appear weeks or months before the feet and lower legs become waterlogged. Thus, with any digestive upset, it is the job of the physician to interpret its true origin. If the episode passes away after a brief rest, which gives the cardiac muscle a chance to recover, the explanation is clear.

It behooves every one to be on the alert against the accumulation of water anywhere in the body. Too much salt retains puddles within the tissues. As a precautionary measure, then, the table variety may be omitted except for the minimal amount used in the preparation of food.

The quantity that can be borne may be determined by the presence or absence of swelling. If the ankles are of normal size, it follows that the percentage taken during the day has not been excessive. On the whole, the average ration is about 15 grains a day. Those who employ 30 to 50 grains may well curtail the allowance except in torrid weather or when perspiration is excessive.

The intake of liquids may be reduced and a régime which provides five small meals instead of the regulation three may be adhered to. On one or two days each week, nothing is ingested but milk, and all the patient wishes may be allowed. In addition, rest in bed for 12 out of each 24 hours must be insisted upon. Within a few weeks, most sufferers will experience decidedly improved digestion because the heart has regained its ability to carry a full load. Shortness of breath, if complained of, will disappear and the victim is transformed from one who is lackadaisical and always tired, to normal alertness.

If the extremities continue to be puffy, bed rest for a week or two may be necessary. Thereafter, activity is resumed gradually. Many who are carrying a higher blood pressure level than good health allows, find these periods of value. Not infrequently, lying down for an hour after lunch will be sufficient. Others will require an entire 24 hour period once each week. The respite that must be allotted the body's pump can be decided upon by its performance in ridding the tissues of water.

WRINKLES.

Mrs. B. T. writes: As a result of a recent illness, deep lines have formed around my mouth. I am only 28 years old and these creases make me look much older. Have you any suggestions?

REPLY.

The chances are that they will disappear as normal health is restored. Hot packs, with gentle massage, will speed their departure. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on wrinkles.

SIGHING HUSBAND.

Mrs. R. T. writes: My husband has developed a heavy sigh and he can hardly catch his breath. What is wrong?

REPLY.

While this may be a nervous reaction, the circulation should be investigated. Perhaps the heart muscle is a wee bit tired.

ADD TO STARCHES.

F. W. R. writes: Please explain the cause and cure of a low blood sugar.

REPLY.

Not enough carbohydrates in the diet. Take more starches and sugars with your meals. A tablespoonful of corn sirup between repasts may help.

MAY BE ENDOCRINE.

Mrs. L. B. writes: Is there any way of controling the weight during the menopause? I seem to be gaining rapidly.

REPLY.

At this time the thyroid may become decidedly lazy. If your metabolic rate is low, you may require small doses of the dried gland.

Sidelights on the War.

New York, Sept. 10—The entire waterfront is ominous and busy now with all ships painted the gray of war and merging with the gray of morning, the dusk of nightfall, and the mist of distance as they slip in and out, so much a part of the general landscape that all, even that slowly righting mastodon, the Normandie, are ignored by the thousands of pilgrims who pass them daily. In the midst of these one stood out bold and incongruous and somehow heartening, for the two weeks just past. It was a brilliant white with yellow stacks, blue and yellow stripes amidships, and the yellow and blue flag of Sweden flying at its prow. Stenciled on its side, in enormous black letters, were the words, "Gripsholm, diplomat." And one realized, suddenly and warmly, that here was a ship from a world almost forgotten, a ship to which all waters are open, toward which no bombsights are directed, that here, in smoother guise, was Noah's ark, again seeking the regeneration of the earth. Somehow the water front now that it is gone is gray and desolate again.

About three weeks ago we met George Tucker, a wounded A. P. war correspondent recuperating at the home of Milton Caniff, the Terry and the Pirates man, and a little tale that Caniff forced Tucker to tell sticks in our mind. "Tell her about Clark Gable," Caniff had urged, and Tucker had blushed.

"No," he apologized. "That's silly. You know how it is, if you have a dark mustache and dark eyes, natives always think you must be Warner Baxter or some one they've seen in a movie. . . . Well, this was the day the British 8th army took Tunis. Three of us [correspondents] went into the old city walled area where they had penned up 18,000 Jews. It was not just a ghetto. It was a rabbit warren. Men, women, and children walled up together, the children with faces blanched from never seeing the sun. The Italians had been there not long before. They had looted and robbed and for no reason at all had shot eight Jewish merchants and piled up their bodies before the gates. So we went in. . . . They raced toward us, and fell down and kissed our feet. Then they picked us up and carried us on their shoulders. They brought little pieces of food out of hiding and tried to press them on us, and any treasures they had, and even money. It was . . . it was very touching.

"How could you keep from crying?" we asked. "It was hard," he said. "It was terribly hard."

"Come on, now," Caniff coaxed, "tell what they said."

"Well," he said, a little ashamed, "They welcomed us as liberators and heroes, and we kept trying to say we were just correspondents who didn't do anything but write and let the others fight. Then some girl who spoke English pointed at me and my mustache and cried, 'He's Clark Gable!' . . . and we all laughed so hard everything was all right."

Every once in a while you see some one do something so nice you momentarily forget the brutality of the Nazis and the Japanese and all the unmentionables of this earth with their great and petty weaknesses. It was that way the other evening in the Grand Central station. Maybe you have been on some of those trains lately where men in uniform have to stand in the aisles, or sit on their baggage, or, as on a night train we took to Washington, sleep on the sooty floor of the corridors between cars. If you have traveled at all, you have seen it, for it occurs almost everywhere. Well, this train was due to leave at 6:30, and by 6 o'clock enormous crowds stood before two gates leading to its track. Suddenly a trainman opened one gate and cried: "Servicemen only! Servicemen, come this way and I'll promise you a seat." Soldiers, sailors, marines, all visibly startled, moved toward the gate. But the trainman wasn't thru. He kept an eye out, and whenever a man in uniform joined the throng he would cry "Come on, buddy. Got a seat for you." Not until the last serviceman had found a seat were the gates officially opened.

EXPATRIATE AMERICANS.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—Several editorials in THE TRIBUNE have referred to expatriate Americans as being less patriotic than those who have always lived in the United States. I think in many cases they are much more appreciative of what this country stands for than are those who never have had opportunity to compare it with other lands. I speak as one of those, and I have known many others, who, living abroad for reasons other than social advantage, still must be called expatriates.

We are the ones to whom the sight of the Stars and Stripes, waving in the breeze, brings a thrill at any time, and never more so than when seen at the stern of some ship at sea. And we are the ones who can see clearest what is happening here and now, as we realized its beginning in 1933 when short sighted people here thought NIRA was the beginning of the millennium. We were at home on leave that summer from India, where we lived for 17 years, and saw the revolution starting here. "Can't they see," we said, "that this country can't raise itself by its boot-straps?" The spending orgy had begun.

In British India, as members of the European community in an industrial city, where my husband held an executive position, we enjoyed the ease and comfort with which Britons know so well how to surround themselves, and the protection of British authority, as well as the friendship of charming Indians of all schools of thought—many of them educated in England or America and some, who, without claim to such distinction, gave us an insight into the worthiness of beliefs and customs different from our own. But we appreciate, as no casual visitor can do, the difficulties encountered by the British in governing the people, protecting the weak from the strong and at the same time according them a degree of freedom which the Indians might understand if they ever had a taste of German or Japanese rule.

Cecil Brown marvelled at the fact that in Singapore the natives attending picture shows were not forced to stand at attention during the playing of the British national anthem. It only shows how sincerely the British believe in personal freedom, consistent with order. Even when the Nationalists in India declared a certain day Independence day, and raised a flag of India, the only answer was a counter-demonstration a few days later when the British flag was raised, and loyal British and Indian officials, troops, and police engaged in the ceremony. It was only later, when violence became dangerous to the welfare of the country, that the leaders were imprisoned and military groups disbanded.

These facts are seldom presented to Americans, many of whom are becoming increasingly vocal about a question they can know very little about. It is not one to be solved at random nor from afar. Let us not make India a political issue in the United States. It is a problem for the British, who have struggled with it for over a century.

But let us keep our own country free. We need to take care that we do not lose our national life and be returned once more to colonial status in the British empire. No matter by what name such an alliance might be called, it would be the same in effect. We would be welcomed back as a returning prodigal, a rich and successful one, but still a child. FRANCES FOLSOM HIRSTH.

STAMP ISSUES.

Muscatine, Ia., Sept. 7.—People still seem upset over the issuing of so many new stamps. With the government in Washington throwing away our money with both hands faster than they can get hold of it, I am not surprised at the concern. However, I believe they can transfer their concern to a more real worry, for I have read, and I believe it to be true, that stamp collectors make the issuing of new stamps a profitable thing for the government.

In other words, the sale of new stamps more than offsets the cost of printing and engraving. For instance, there are to be 14 stamps in this new issue, and my husband, who has a small but choice collection, will spend in the neighborhood of $185 for stamps in this issue. EDITH MITCHELL.

"GOV. DEWEY GOES ANTI-AMERICAN."

Chicago, Sept. 8.—Congratulations on the editorial, "Gov. Dewey Goes Anti-American." It is high time, and long overdue for some one to put the above governor in the right company he has served so well! He is not a Presidential piece of timber and he never will be. Your leadership and influence at Mackinac was wonderful.

DONALD J. MCDANIEL.

BARNYARD LOGIC.

Delphi, Ind., Sept. 8.—In this time of being called upon to raise all we can, I feel sorry for the city fellow who raises roosters and also for the roosters. If he will arrange a fine wire net over the roosters, just barely enough over them so they cannot stretch their heads or necks, they cannot crow. SUBSCRIBER.

PERENNIAL MYSTERY.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—When one observes the inane, asinine and affected facial expressions, and the languid, slinking, slithering, swaying gait of many of our young girls, one can't help but wonder what in the world is going on inside their lovely empty heads, and just who they think they are. MOM.

MARRIAGE OF COUSINS.

Chicago, Sept. 4.—[Legal Friend of the People].—What is the legal status in Illinois of a marriage between first cousins? The ceremony took place in another state. S. F.

Under section 1 of the Illinois marriage act "marriages . . . between cousins of the first degree [and closer relatives] are declared to be incestuous and void." Our Supreme court has held [281 Ill. 123] that such a marriage [presumably celebrated here] is not merely voidable, but void.

As to marriages celebrated elsewhere, the general rule [38 C. J. 1276] is that "the validity of a marriage is determined by the law of the place where it is contracted. . . . An exception to the general rule, however, is ordinarily made in the case of marriage repugnant to the public policy of domicile of the parties, in respect of . . . incest." Cousin marriages being incestuous by statute would seem to come within the exceptions and be void.

While the issue of such marriages may be legitimate under section 18 of the marriage act, we advise that the parties make such provision by will, adoption, etc., as they would make if the marriage were invalid and the children illegitimate.

ADMITS SLAYING WIFE LAST JULY; REVEALS GRAVE

Mutilated Body Found in Concrete Crypt.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 10 [Special].—The dismembered body of 41 year old Mary Brincat, mother of two children, was found today in a concrete lined crypt in the basement of the Brincat home after her husband, David, 59, confessed beating her to death last July 19.

The confession came a few minutes before Brincat, in custody for the second time in six weeks for questioning in regard to his wife's disappearance, was scheduled to receive a hearing on his petition for release on a writ of habeas corpus.

Digs Grave in Advance.

Police said Brincat suspected his wife of intimacy with a neighbor and that he dug her basement grave while she was spending a two week vacation at a lake this summer. He carried the dirt from the basement in a shovel and spread it on his garden, according to his confession, then provided himself with cement so he could seal the tomb after his victim had been placed in it.

Brincat sent the two children, Joseph, 12, and Manuel, 11, to a theater on the afternoon of July 19, following the wife's return from the vacation trip, he said. He then took her to a bedroom where he bludgeoned and choked her.

Grave Not Large Enough.

He told police he carried the lifeless body to the basement and there discovered the prepared grave was not large enough to receive it, altho Mrs. Brincat was a slight woman and only 4 feet 10 inches tall. He solved this problem with an ax, he said, chopping the body into small pieces. Skilled as a mason, he covered the excavation with concrete, blending it with the basement floor, and then built a coal bin around the spot.

Altho police had previously found bloodstains in the Brincat bedroom and on Brincat's clothes, he had parried all previous attempts at questioning, insisting his wife had run away with "a man named Pete." He had successfully passed a lie detector test and was walking down a police station corridor with an officer when he was seized with an impulse to confess.

"Listen, Mister Joe," he shouted, "I tell you the truth."

Police said the Brincats were natives of the island of Malta.

TUGWELL INDICATES PUERTO RICO MAY LOSE RUM INDUSTRY

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Sept. 10 (AP).—Extinction of the Puerto Rican rum industry for the duration of the war with "grave results" to the insular government's budget was indicated today by Gov. Rexford Tugwell when he said the purchase of the entire molasses supply of the island was imminent.

Tugwell announced the appointment of Teodor Moscoso, head of the Puerto Rican Development company, as a special representative of the insular government and said Moscoso would go to Washington, D. C., in an effort to keep enough molasses in the island to continue the rum industry.

Tugwell said the purchase of the molasses was being negotiated by a "certain governmental agency" and said he had asked that the negotiations be delayed. The government has received $18,000,000, one-third of the general fund revenues, from rum taxes.

BELMONT, Ont., Sept. 10 (AP).—Fire caused damage estimated at $100,000 in the main building of the Borden Milk company in Belmont late today.

PROBE TAMMANY MAN'S FINANCES IN AURELIO QUIZ

New York, Sept. 10 [Special].—The New York county grand jury investigating circumstances surrounding the Democratic nomination of Magistrate Thomas A. Aurelio for justice of the Supreme court has issued a subpena requiring the Public National Bank and Trust company to produce the banking records of Bert Stand, secretary of Tammany. The subpena, which was signed by District Atty. Frank S. Hogan, also called for examination of the contents of any safe deposit box that Stand might have.

Hogan would make no comment when asked about this development in his investigation of the Aurelio nomination, which he has charged was brought about by Frank Costello, racketeer and gangster, except to say that he was continuing his investigation.

In his original statement, disclosing that Aurelio, an appointee of Mayor Fiorello La Guardia, had pledged "undying loyalty" to Costello, Hogan charged that Stand, unknown to Michael J. Kennedy, leader of Tammany, had kept Costello informed of Kennedy's plan for the judicial nominations and had "plotted" with certain Tammany district leaders to put pressure on Kennedy to bring about Aurelio's nomination.

SOLDIER RAPIST ESCAPES; GUARD ACTRESS VICTIM

Police Watch Home of Lina Basquette.

Los Angeles, Sept. 10 (AP).—Civil authorities guarded the home of Lina Basquette, former screen star, today after the escape from the March Field, Cal., guardhouse of Pvt. George P. Rimke, under sentence to life imprisonment on his court-martial conviction last month of raping her.

After his conviction at the Muroc, Cal., air base, Rimke defiantly shouted, "I'll get you if it's the last thing I do," referring, army officers said, to Miss Basquette and Capt. George H. Rawlins, assistant judge advocate who prosecuted him.

Notified of Threat.

Police said Capt. Elbert R. Lewis, March field provost marshal, had notified them:

"This is to call your attention to the threats made by Rimke on the lives of the victim and the trial judge advocate. The trial judge has been warned, and it might be advisable to warn the victim."

March field authorities would not disclose how Rimke escaped.

Sheriff Carl Rayburn of Riverside county said Rimke was last reported seen at 6 p. m. yesterday.

Rimke was found guilty after a one-day trial by military court martial. Miss Basquette testified that she gave the soldier a lift in her automobile in Burbank, that he halted the car, forced her into the rear seat and raped her. Rimke denied he resorted to force.

When Lt. Col. William M. Smith, president of the trial board, passed sentence, Rimke rose to his feet and, pointing to Capt. George H. Rawlins, assistant judge advocate, who prosecuted him, shouted:

"I'll get you if it's the last thing I do!"

Speeding Train Rips Tire and Bumper off Truck

Matthew F. Ryan, 49 years old, a blacksmith, 1531 South Telegraph road, Lake Forest, skidded his truck to a stop at the Old Mill road crossing of the Milwaukee railroad yesterday and sat frozen at the wheel as the southbound Pioneer Limited ripped away the bumper and one tire as it roared past at 60 miles an hour. He was not injured and the truck was damaged only slightly.

HOWITT NAMED AS DIRECTOR OF DEFENSE BOARD

Is Former Chairman of Badger Council.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 10 [Special].—Lt. Col. George R. Howitt, who has been chairman of the state council of defense, was elected here today to the post of director to succeed the late John Cudahy. Col. Howitt had been closely associated with Cudahy and his selection was unanimous.

Col. Howitt was commander of the American Legion of Wisconsin in 1932-'33. He commanded the 60th Infantry, A. E. F. in the first World war and was decorated with the silver star for outstanding bravery.

Known as Civic Leader.

A civic and state leader, who is a member of many committees, he was graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1903. He is a member of the committee of Vilas H. Whaley of Racine, who is a candidate for national commander of the American Legion.

Howitt's place as state chairman of the defense council was taken by Harold J. Fitzgerald, president of Fox Wisconsin Theaters. He is a native of Milwaukee and attended West Division High school.

Council in Tribute.

The council passed a resolution in praise of John Cudahy which said, in part:

"Mr. Cudahy was a great and good American. Those of us who worked and counseled with him in his duties as director of the council came in contact with a rare and genuine, honest and courageous personality, the memory of which shall remain with us always.

"Here was a man not only giving the full measure of patriotic service to his state and nation in the present crisis but a man who could have served nobly and intelligently in helping to solve the problems of our post-war world."

SLASHES SELF; RECOVERING.

Arthur Lundgren, 42 years old, an electrician, was released yesterday from County hospital, where he was treated for lacerations of the arms, which he inflicted with a razor blade, police said.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Ben Markland

September 10, 1943.

THE crows have provided one of the puzzlers of the season for the farm residents. All spring and summer these birds have been in the farm woods in great number, but about two weeks ago mostly disappeared. When we hiked around the farm ponds the other day only two or three birds could be seen or heard, and the condition is about the same in the center and east woods.

The only apparent answer is that the cooler weather is making the crows restless. Their nesting duties have been completed, birds of the spring hatch are well developed and need some flying exercise, and the adult birds perhaps are a bit bored.

Like Restless Sailors.

They're like sailors who have been in port too long, so they're gadding about. There's no food shortage to cause the birds' movements, because grasshoppers still are available.

There's one other point which may explain the crows' exodus. Most of us consider that this bird, like the bluejay and the chickadee, is a permanent resident in northern Illinois. They are seen the year 'round, but banding records prove that those we observe in the summer do not always remain all winter. It is probable that most of summer's bluejays and crows migrate from 50 to 300 miles southward in the fall, and birds which have been in Wisconsin and Michigan come to Illinois.

Banding Gives Examples.

Crows are not commonly trapped and banded, but banding operations on the Wheaton farm provided several examples of the bluejay's migratory tendency. One jay was banded on the farm on May 5, 1939, and was not trapped again until May 9, 1940, leading to the conclusion that it must have been south in the interim. Another bluejay was trapped on the farm on June 4, 1940, and was not retrapped until April 25, 1941.

This same sort of semi-migration is probably practiced by crows, altho there is not enough evidence to prove the point. We do know that there are more crows in northern Illinois in the warm months, proving that they move to the central and southern parts of the state for cold weather.

★ The GARDEN ★

THE largest cabbage grown in the sample plots this season was harvested the other day, and soon will be used by one of the farm wives for making sauerkraut. The cabbage was of the Wisconsin all-season variety, and weighed 16 pounds and measured 13 inches across the head.

One of the experiments tried in the sample gardens this year was that of planting peas in early August for autumn consumption, and the farm gardener has termed the trial a complete failure. A short row was planted to Dwarf Defiance peas during the first week of August, and altho many of the seedlings germinated, they were hit by hot August weather and failed to mature properly.

In northern Illinois peas must be planted early in the spring, preferably around March 15 and not later than April 15. The peas planted in the farm gardens during that period included Dwarf Defiance, and all produced excellently. A number of gardeners inquired about the possibility of replanting in August, so the farm experiment was undertaken with the results related.

SUSPECT IN MAIL THEFTS SEIZED ON WOMAN'S TIP

Town Hall police yesterday credited Mrs. Kathryn Bargelt of 4409 Beacon street with an assist in the arrest of Ralph Psychowski, 21 years old, of 1363 Sunnyside avenue, whom they charged with robbing apartment house mailboxes in the vicinity of Sunnyside and Ashland avenues and cashing checks taken from the boxes. He will be turned over to postal authorities.

Mrs. Bargelt told a roving police squad she had seen a man loitering in apartment lobbies and when they failed to locate him she got in the car with them, drove about the neighborhood, and pointed him out. Detective Michael Fay said six letters already opened, but not addressed to Psychowski, were found in his pockets. Fay also said Psychowski admitted he had cashed checks for $80 and $60 he obtained from stolen letters.

Fay, who said records showed Psychowski was on probation from federal court for rifling mailboxes, would be questioned in connection with several recent holdups of north side hotels by a blond man and a woman. Psychowski's wife and daughter are visiting in Valparaiso, Ind., he said.

Transfer Firm Reports $223 Lobbying Expense

Madison, Wis., Sept. 10 [Special]. —The Gateway Transfer company of La Crosse, reported to Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman today that it paid Philip Porter, of Madison, $223 for lobbying erpenses during the 1943 Wisconsin legislative session.

W-G-N TO CARRY NEW OPERETTA, 'ABOUT THE GIRL'

Kent Cooper Music to Be Given Premiere.

Barbara Luddy, star of "First Nighter," will join Marion Claire, soprano, and Thomas L. Thomas, baritone, in the Chicago theater of the air broadcast of the new operetta, "About the Girl," written by Kent Cooper, executive director of the Associated Press, from 8 to 9 p. m. today on W-G-N, W59C, and the Mutual network.

Miss Luddy will take the dramatic part of Evalane, heroine of the operetta, whose singing part will be taken by Miss Claire. Charles Irving will play the dramatic part of the operetta hero, Bob Cruise. Thomas will sing the role.

Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, will speak.

Story of Alaska Highway.

"About the Girl," which is having its premiere here, is a story of the Alaska highway, where a construction gang, directed by a handsome young engineer, acquires a sudden interest in the Club Canterbury, a Chicago night spot.

Bob Cruise, the young engineer, has become infatuated with the voice of a girl singer at the club whom he hears on the radio in his highway shelter. Reception is difficult and Bob has trouble ascertaining her name. At the moment he learns it is Evalene and that she sings in the Club Canterbury, men in his construction crew discover two saboteurs about to blow up a section of the highway. They are identified as former bouncers at the club.

All's Well At the End.

Tense and danger-packed scenes follow until Bob succeeds in rounding up the saboteurs and their leader, clearing Evalane of complicity in the anti-American activities, and winning the club singer for his wife.

Mr. Cooper's music for the operetta includes the following selections:

"Song of the Alaska Highway," Thomas and chorus; "WAC Song," girls' chorus; "Dixie Girl," Miss Slater; "About the Girl," Thomas and chorus; "Sunset and You," Miss Claire and chorus; "Don't You Want My Heart?" Miss Claire; "My Heart Is Free to Choose," Miss Claire and chorus; "Love Is," Miss Claire, Thomas and chorus; "I'll Not Forget," Miss Claire; "June Time," Miss Claire and chorus, and "Don't You Want My Heart"—Miss Claire, Thomas and chorus.

WALLACE VISITS CITY TO MAKE OUTDOOR SPEECH

Vice President Henry A. Wallace yesterday recommended President Roosevelt for permanent chairman at the peace table.

"With peace approaching, there is one man exceedingly important to that peace," he said in his suite in the Blackstone hotel, shortly after his arrival from Washington. "It is unthinkable to my notion, that Roosevelt should not be at the peace table. The Roosevelt name is the magic name all over the world."

Wallace spoke before a gathering of about 3,000 persons last night in Soldiers' field.

He visited the Glenview naval air station and the Buick aircraft plant in Melrose Park yesterday afternoon.

Register of Deeds Again Asks a Boost in Salary

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 10 [Special].—The county board today received a request from Col. Phillip C. Westfahl, register of deeds, asking that his salary be raised from $5,000 to $6,000 a year. Westfahl said "discrimination" is reflected by the fact that other elected officials receive $6,000 a year. The county board has refused Col. Westfahl's repeated requests for more money in past years.

Wisconsin Buys $5,900,000 Worth of U. S. War Bonds

Madison, Wis., Sept. 10 [Special]. —The sum of $5,900,000 in state funds was invested today by State Treasurer John M. Smith in war bonds to help support the current drive. Smith said the state government holds approximately 20 million dollars in war bonds purchased during previous drives.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Winifred Dell, 927 5th street, Columbus, Ind.]

THE QUESTION.

In caring for the children in the nursery have you solved problems that the parents considered quite hopeless? [Asked of nursery teachers.]

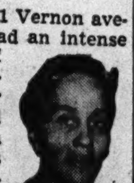
WHERE ASKED.

Abraham Lincoln War Nursery, 700 East Oakwood boulevard.

THE ANSWERS.

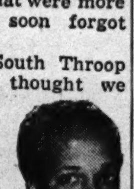
Mrs. Kathleen Ball, director, 5548 Ellis avenue—Sometimes children supposed to be completely unmanageable are brought to us by desperate mothers. Instead of dwelling on what the children did, we analyze why they did it. In most cases it is simply attention-getting behavior and the solution is simple.

Dorothy Binn, 5934 Indiana avenue—We had one shy little girl who wouldn't talk. She was not willing to mingle with children but spent her time quietly with adults. With a little encouragement from examples set by the other children, she became quite sociable. In fact, she took up with the roughest little boys in the class.

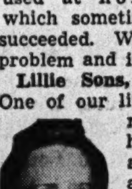


Genevieve Royal, 6231 Vernon avenue—One small boy had an intense fear of every kind of noise—thunder, for example. His mother would try to shield him. We taught him to understand noises and to become interested in them. He no longer covers his ears when he sees the waves splash against the rocks.

Mrs. Ralph G. Victor, 5401 Ellis avenue — Because the child had reached the age of 4 years and still sucked her thumb her mother had given up trying to break her of the habit. She did it as a pleasurable diversion, so we kept her busy with activities that were more pleasurable and she soon forgot about the thumb.



Ethel Payne, 6210 South Throop street—Many parents thought we were going to have trouble in getting their children to drink an extra glass of milk a day. They suggested that we adopt techniques that they had used at home and which sometimes had succeeded. We didn't treat it as a problem and it never was one.



Lillie Sons, 4556 Ellis avenue—One of our little pupils had spent most of her life in a hospital. She was afraid of everything and was content to curl up in a corner. Mingling with healthy active children under proper guidance, she made more progress in the school than she ever could have at home.

Son of Zimmerman Gets Army Medical Discharge

Madison, Wis., Sept. 10 [Special]. —Sgt. Robert Zimmerman, son of Secretary of State Fred R. Zimmerman, who has been in the army three years, has received a disability discharge. He will resume his position here within a few weeks as assistant secretary of state. Zimmerman had been engaged in army publicity work.

WPB O. K.'s Completion of Lone Rock Bridge

Madison, Wis., Sept. 10 [Special]. —Completion of a $209,000 bridge at Lone Rock over the Wisconsin river has been authorized by the war production board, Acting Gov. Walter S. Goodland reported today. The board halted work on the bridge several weeks ago, altho most of the steel was on the ground and one span had been installed.

$20,000 STAMP COLLECTION IN VAULT STOLEN

Owner Reveals His Loss in July Robbery.

Into the long-dormant Portage Park Safety Deposit Vault company robbery a new teaser was tossed yesterday as Elmer Stuart, 5007 Belle Plaine avenue, well known Chicago stamp collector, revealed that his $20,000 collection of United States stamps was stolen from his deposit box by thieves who may have had a working knowledge of stamp values. The robbery occurred during the week-end of July 10-11 when 441 boxes were rifled of approximately $400,000 and jewelery and valuable papers. Stuart's lawyer is W. P. Churchill.

Stuart's collection of American stamps dates back to 1847 and features, among the first stamps printed in the United States, several five and ten cent issues carrying pictures of Franklin and Washington.

One of the rarest stamps in the collection is an 1851 one cent blue issue bearing a portrait of Franklin, and printed from the original plates before the printers found it necessary to shave off some of the scroll. Stuart purchased the stamp from another dealer for $350, he revealed.

Old 2 Colored Set Gone.

Among his favorite stamps was a complete set of the pictorial series of 1869, printed in two colors. He especially liked the vivid carmine and black Lincoln head stamp, altho this two toned series, now so highly prized by collectors, proved so unpopular with the citizens of its day that it was discontinued after a year.

Stuart, who is president of Chapter 1 of the American Philatelic society, past president of the Central Federation of Stamp clubs, and regional representative of the National Federation of Stamp clubs, began his collection at the age of 9.

Some of the stamps in the stolen collection recall to Stuart his thrill of discovery in unearthing them. From a collection of 200 envelopes dated 1851 which he purchased in one lot he discovered one which had been carried by the Central Overland California and Pike's Peak Express company, the concern operating the pony express.

Five Cent Errors Included.

Stuart's collection also included several blocks of 1917 five cent errors, when five cent insignia were inadvertently printed over two cent insignia. Stuart likes to recount the time he discovered, on a 10 cent book table in front of a book stall in Detroit, a stamp bearing the red cancellation of 1851, and valued at $25.

There is one silver lining in Stuart's dark cloud, however. He happily recalls how he decided against putting into his deposit box an 1849 French stamp—believed to be the only one of its kind in existance and valued at approximately $1,000.

CHEESE MAKERS TO MEET SEPT. 15 IN FOND DU LAC

Madison, Wis., Sept. 10 [Special]. —A committee of Wisconsin cheese producer representatives will meet in Fond du Lac Sept. 15, it was announced here today by Harvey Thew of the Madison Milk Producers' association, to prepare resolutions outlining the cheese industry's war time problems and recommendations for improvements.

The Fond du Lac conference is the outgrowth of a meeting in Madison this week of cheese producers and a delegation of Badger state congressional leaders. The group held here that the general level of dairy prices was too low to encourage all-out war production.

Thew was named chairman of the committee to meet at Fond du Lac. Other members include George Mooney, Plymouth, secretary of the state cheese makers' association, and Al Stoltz, Monroe, president of the Swiss-Limburger Cheese Producers' association.

YANK EDITORIAL ASSAILS LEGION; EDITOR REMOVED

Vets Protest Blast at Organization.

New York, Sept. 10 [Special].—An editorial blast at the American Legion in Yank, the army magazine, published under today's date line has resulted in a protest by the New York department of the American Legion to national headquarters and is reportedly the cause for the removal of Yank's editor, Maj. Hartzell Spence.

Yank describes itself as "published weekly by the enlisted men of the United States army." However, being an army unit, it is directed by officers, with Lt. Col. Franklin S. Forsberg as officer in charge. Spence had the title of editor and Capt. Sam Humphfus is detachment commander.

Reported "On Furlough."

Spence, minister's son and author of the best seller "One Foot in Heaven," was said to be "on furlough" when an inquiry was made at the Yank office in midtown Manhattan. However, the war department bureau of public relations in Washington admitted that Spence had been "transferred," but insisted the transfer was "routine."

The editorial was entitled "The Army and the Legion" and dealt with the subject of soldiers joining the American Legion or forming an organization of their own after the war.

Urging, "Let's not kid ourselves," it asserted that such veterans' organizations were primarily "to apply pressure to get things done politically." It referred to such organizations as giving "the American people a political hotfoot" to gain their objectives.

Charges Selfish Motives.

"Any one who served in congress during the 1920s and 1930s," the editorial said, "and who had his country's best interests at heart, can testify that in some instances the hotfoot was applied by our veterans' organizations for selfish reasons at the expense of our country's well-being."

William N. Lewis, New York state commander of the Legion, said he had protested to national headquarters in Indianapolis, considering the matter "of sufficient importance to warrant the attention of the Legion's national officers."

Friends of Maj. Spence, who lives in Riverside, Conn., said his removal from the editorship resulted from the editorial and Spence's insistence that the enlisted men who are on the staff of Yank should determine its policy.

SLAYER OF WIFE FOUND GUILTY; GETS 14 YEARS

Chris Chamis, young steel mill worker who shot his wife, Grace, to death during a quarrel over her alleged philanderings, was found guilty of murder by a jury before Judge Rudolph Desort in the Criminal court last night.

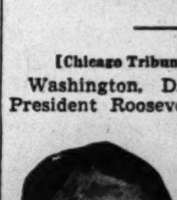
His punishment was fixed at 14 years' imprisonment—the minimum for murder. The jury, made up of nine women and three men, reached its verdict in four hours. Chamis, 25 years old, accepted the finding without emotion, and his son, Harry, 2½, slept soundly on a courtroom bench as the verdict was read. Motion for a new trial will be heard Sept. 24.

Chamis testifying in his own defense, told a sordid story of how his wife, 21 years old, taunted him with stories of her alleged faithlessness with other men. They quarreled for the last time May 17 in their Eggleston avenue home. She was fatally shot, but he had no recollection of the actual shooting, he pleaded.

LANDIS LEAVES OCD FOR SUPPLY POST IN CAIRO

Will Function for U. S. as Minister.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]



James M. Landis.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—President Roosevelt announced today that James M. Landis, former dean of the Harvard university law school, has resigned as director of the office of civilian defense to become American director of economic operations in the middle east.

Landis, the announcement said, will also be the principal American civilian representative at the middle east supply center with the personal rank of minister. He will be assigned to United States legations in the middle east as special assistant and will make his headquarters in Cairo.

Succeeded La Guardia.

Landis has been director of the OCD since February, 1942, when he was appointed to succeed Mayor Fiorello La Guardia of New York City after La Guardia had been widely criticized for his administration of that agency and for trying to hold down two jobs at once—those of mayor and OCD head.

Under Landis' OCD regime the well known "block system" was installed in virtually every community in the United States, placing in the hands of the New Deal the huge organization.

Winant Coming Home.

No successor to Landis as OCD head was named by the White House. It was announced that Fred Winant, whom Landis succeeds as chief American civilian representative in the middle east, will return to Washington to take over middle east supply activities here.

Landis has been in and out of New Deal posts since 1933, when he left a Harvard law school professorship to become a member of the federal trade commission.

REPORT YANKS ON ALEUTIANS IN GOOD HEALTH

ADAK ISLAND, the Aleutians, Sept. 10 (AP).—Despite cold winds and penetrating fogs, the health of American soldiers and sailors at Aleutian bases, including the recovered islands of Attu and Kiska, was reported today to be good.

Rear Adm. W. L. Mann Jr., navy senior medical officer, made the report after an inspection trip along the Aleutian chain. Hospital facilities and the rate of illness among navy personnel, as shown by sick bay records, has been one-third of 1 per cent, the admiral reported. The most common ailments listed were infections of the upper respiratory tract in winter.

Adm. Mann said the fungus infection known as athlete's foot was the only ailment he found apparently more prevalent than in other areas. He expressed the opinion it probably was due to heavy leather and rubber boots in which the fungus flourished.

"There's practically no venereal disease in the area," he said.

Expect Crowds at Harvest Fair in Lake Forest

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE stunning Lake Forest residence of Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. Brewster will be en fete today and tomorrow for a harvest fair the Lake Forest Garden club is holding there. A large attendance is expected, for the house is only a short walk from the railroad and electric stations, so city visitors may reach it easily. Since garden shows and garden tours have been few and far between this year, the occasion will provide the last opportunity for garden lovers to visit private homes this summer.

In addition to the exhibits at the Brewsters' and the entertainments there for children, the gardens of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, Thomas E. Donnelley, and Mrs. William E. Clow also will be opened to the public. They all adjoin the Brewsters'. A buffet luncheon will be served at the Cudahys.

One of the outstanding exhibits will be nine tables set by as many discriminating hostesses and judged by an architect, Ralph Millman, an interior decorator, Miss Elizabeth Burton, and Dr. Oswald Goetz of the Art institute of Chicago. Arranging the tables are Mrs. John Andrews King, Mrs. Cecile Coverley, Mrs. Cudahy, Mrs. Stanley Field, who is assigned by her daughter, Mrs. T. Clifford Rodman; Hubert Ropp, Mrs. James M. Hopkins, Mrs. Howard W. Fenton, Mrs. T. Philip Swift, and Mrs. Ernest A. Hamill II.

Also attracting attention will be the fruit and flower booth designed by Knight C. Cowles and presided over by his wife and Mrs. Gilbert E. Porter III., from which jams, jellies, eggs, fruits, and vegetables will be sold. Mrs. Albert D. Farwell, president of the club, has set up another of her famed herb garden booths, and Mrs. Fenton and Mrs. William Burry will sell flower containers and bouquets. Mrs. Frederick A. Preston is general chairman of the fair. Admission at $1 for adults and 25 cents for children may be obtained at the gate.

News of Births.

There is much rejoicing in the Robert Hixon and Milton Wilson families over the birth of a son yesterday at St. Luke's hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Milton Wilson Jr. [Barbara Hixon]. The baby will be named for his father and grandfather. The senior Mr. and Mrs. Wilson learned of their grandson's arrival at their home in Santa Barbara, Cal. Mr. and Mrs. Hixon live in Lake Forest.

From New York City comes word from Mr. and Mrs. Delos A. Blodgett II. of the birth of their second daughter, Kendra Delos Blodgett, on Sept. 6 in the New York hospital. The baby has a young sister, Carlisle, named for her mother, the former Carlisle Sullivan. Mrs. Blodgett is the daughter of the late Judge Denis E. Sullivan, presiding justice of the appellate court, and of the late Mrs. Sullivan, and the sister of Denis E. Sullivan Jr., and of Lt. Edmond M. Sullivan of the naval air corps.

Today's Debutante.

The bouquet of white gladiolas which Miss Barbara Holley Ives will carry today with her rose colored debut gown is the gift of her brother, Kenneth G. Ives Jr., who is unable to attend the party as he has been at the University of Mexico and Stanford university preparing for a career in the diplomatic service. Receiving with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ives, in their Highland Park home, the debutante will hold her bouquet against a delicate ivory and lace fan which belonged to her grandmother.

Assisting at the tea will be Miss Dorenda Penfield, Miss Priscilla Pirie, Miss Ann Marie Williamson, Miss Judith Gilfillan, Miss Marcia Kuhnen, and the bud's Ogontz roommates, Miss Margaret Bowen of Memphis, Tenn., and Miss Mary Jane Rush of Louisville, Ky.

After the party the debutante's assistants and their escorts will go to the Pump room for dinner and dancing. Miss Corinne Veale gave a luncheon yesterday at the Westmoreland Country club for Miss Ives, and the day before Miss Joan Harris entertained at luncheon in Evanston.

Romantic News.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Werner Lawson of Scott street are announcing the engagement of their younger daughter, Kerr, to Midshipman John Clark Leggitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Leggitt of Wilmette. Miss Lawson, a graduate of the Girls' Latin school, declined to make a formal debut. She and her fiance both attended the University of Chicago, and he now is studying for his commission at the naval reserve training school at Northwestern university. Neither Miss Lawson's sister nor brother is here at present. Mrs. John H. Burrowes [Sally Lawson] is in the south at her husband's post, while A. Werner Lawson Jr. is engaged in war work in the east.

British Relief Society Wares Will Be Shown

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

The British War Relief society will have two meetings at the end of next week to show the work that has been done this summer in making toys and clothing for the society's Christmas ship to England.

Adults are invited to see the exhibit at 11 a. m. on Friday, when Wilfred H. Gallienne, the British consul general, will introduce A. B. Grant, head of war relief production in this country. Children have been invited for the same hour the next morning, when Mr. Grant will speak again, this time after an introduction by Chauncey McCormick, vice president of the relief society.

The Friday morning meeting will have "War Relief's Responsibility in Victory and the Peace to Follow" as Mr. Grant's subject. Refreshments will be served on Saturday. Both meeetings will be held in the society's headquarters at 30 North Michigan, and any interested persons are invited to attend.

The making of toys, which is carried on daily at the headquarters, is under the supervision of the junior division of the society. Mrs. Ernest S. Ballard heads the division, and Miss Margaret Bell is production chairman.

Mrs. James A. Cathcart, head of the Red Cross Volunteer service; Mrs. B. J. Mix of the Polish Relief society, and Mrs. Philip W. Moore, head of Russian Relief, will judge the toys and award prizes. Members of the American Women's Volunteer services have been working in the shop all summer, supervising the children, in response to a plea for help to that organization by the society. Miss Bell designed the animals and dolls that the children have made.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY

Desks—The Adjustment Desk.

Repository of customers' woes,
China that's chipped and ill fitting hose,
Dresses too small and sandals too tight,
Pompadour hats in which mama's a fright,
Knicknacks and wedding gifts—vases too tall,
Pictures in frames that won't go on the wall;
Here is a test for the patience of saints
To handle adroitly a million complaints;
Would there were only adjustments to make
For every woe and each human mistake!

SALLY.

Letter to the Boss.

Dear Boss: If you want to know what's going on in our organization read White Collar Girl daily. From now on I'm going to be a regular contributor and join those with a "gripe a day."

What's the matter with our organization, you ask? Well, boss, what about our suggestion box system? You pay the employes for good sound suggestions and then our advice is filed away in the dead file. We'd be much happier if our suggestions were put into effect rather than to be paid for them when they are discarded. Honest, boss, money isn't everything!

GINNY THE GRUMP.

Beginners' Problems.

Speaking of problems for a beginner, here is one: With whom is she supposed to go to lunch? Many a new girl will flounder around, for even in company cafeterias there are grades of tables. Bookkeepers do not eat with the higher ups and so on. All this the beginner has to learn and it requires reserve and discretion at the start in order not to intrude or offend. HILDUR.

Dis and Data.

The People's Gas company has set a goal of 6,000 phonograph records to be collected and sent overseas. . . . It is estimated that there are between 15,000 and 20,000 classrooms closed this fall due to the teacher shortage. The teacher turnover rate has doubled since we entered the war, according to Benjamin W. Frazier in the September Survey Graphic. Contrary to the prevalent idea that the rural elementary school is hardest hit, Mr. Frazier says the loss of teachers is greatest in city and rural high schools in war related subjects, especially those taught formerly by men.

The girls and men at Todd ship yards in Houston have a new fad—washer pitching—and soon there is to be a world championship tournament. . . . Lil Oswald reports "the Clipper trip brought me much joy, the skipper was ideal, the pianist of the Clipper band had plenty of appeal." . . . A gracious letter written by an employe of the technical service department of a chemical company saved the firm $1,200 in making an adjustment. . . . Curves drawn from 50 years of weather reports from 6,000 weathermen indicate that the days are really getting warmer—and you can tell that to the elevator operator next time he asks: "Cool enough for you?"

Maternity Center Unit's Board to Meet Monday

The North Shore Service league of the Chicago Maternity center will hold its first board meeting of the year on Monday in the Wilmette home of Mrs. Benjamin Rangecroft, mother of the league's president, Mrs. Robert Little. The entire league will gather on Sept. 27 in the home of Mrs. Francis Horan of Evanston for its annual membership tea. Dr. Beatrice Tucker of the Maternity center will speak, following the league's tradition at its membership teas. Serving on the board this year with Mrs. Little will be Mrs. James Du Shane, Mrs. Stanley Coffey, Mrs. Chester C. Dilley, and Mrs. G. Russell Bent Jr.

Nation-Wide Study Begun to Facilitate Placing of Nurses

Local committees are preparing community studies of nursing needs and resources preparatory to determining the most effective placement of available nurses, Miss L. Louise Baker, Washington, assistant executive officer in charge of the nursing division of the war man power commission, said here yesterday. Miss Baker spoke following a two day conference in the auditorium of the American College of Surgeons, called to consider means of meeting war time nursing needs.

In their studies, the local committees will consider not only nurses actively employed in their profession but also inactive nurses, those working in non-nursing positions, nurse's aids, other volunteers, and paid auxiliary workers.

310 Get U. of C. Degrees; Many are in Service

President Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago conferred degrees on 310 candidates yesterday at the 214th convocation of the university. Sixty per cent of the men who received the bachelor's degree already were in uniform and another 20 per cent will be inducted soon after graduation. Of the 310 degrees conferred, 131 were awarded in absentia.

Dr. John A. Wilson, director of the University's Oriental institute, was the convocation speaker. He recently returned to the university after service with the state department's division of cultural relations, with which he still is affiliated.

"The United States already has received an embarrassing number of requests to assist struggling nations in technological, scientific, and intellectual advances," Dr. Wilson told the graduates. "We cannot and should not try to Americanize them all in one generation or one century. There are elements in those cultures which are of enduring value and which should therefore be preserved with preference."

The speaker urged that the University of Chicago, as well as other universities, break down divisions between academic subject matters and take a more active concern in world problems.

Phi Beta Kappa keys were awarded to the following students: Stanley E. Asplund, 2527 Ainslie street; Patricia Burt, 8022 Drexel boulevard; James R. McGrath, Grand Island, Mich.; Mrs. Josephine S. McLeod, 1410 East 58th street; George R. Price, 5558 Ellis avenue; Jane Reinheimer, Philadelphia, Pa.; Miss Margaret Ruby, 628 North Taylor avenue, Oak Park; Miss Ruth Russell, Montclair, N. J.; Judah L. Stampfer, Akron, O.; Miss Blanche Stein, 846 East 52d street, and Raymond C. Wanta, Milwaukee, Wis.

Gifts paid in to the University of Chicago during the last year totaled $1,094,441, President Hutchins revealed at the convocation. Among gifts were a $100,000 bequest and the residuary estate, valued at $450,000, from the late Miss Elsie K. White of New York, to establish the Alexander and Anna Reid White foundation; $100,000 from the Rockefeller foundation for research into industrial diseases, and $10,000 from Mrs. William Anderson of Morris, Ill., for a scholarship fund in memory of her husband.

Women in War Work

By Kate Massee

The women who work for the E. H. Scott Radio Laboratories, Inc., 4450 Ravenswood avenue, Chicago, will share tonight in a new honor, the maritime M. It is being conferred on the company for its war work, the designing and manufacture of low radiation broadcast receivers which protect merchant ships and warships by not revealing their positions to U-boats and enemy surface vessels.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Mrs. Shirlee Franklin soldering on assembly at E. H. Scott Radio Laboratories, Inc.

At a banquet at 7:30 o'clock in the Edgewater Beach hotel, Wolcott E. Spofford, veteran shipbuilder and naval architect and regional director of the Great Lakes district of the United States maritime commission, will present the M to the Scott firm for the excellence of the products it makes for the navy, the maritime commission, and the army signal corps. Scott thus becomes the second Illinois recipient of the M award, the first having been the Illinois Industries for the Blind, 1310 South Newberry street, Chicago. There have been only 130 M awards in the nation so far.

Sixty-five per cent of the Scott personnel now is feminine, whereas before taking war contracts the company's pay roll was only 20 per cent women. Scott employes have been making radios for the services since April, 1942, and women take part in all except one of the manufacturing processes, that of final testing, which involves a weight problem which women cannot handle.

Women do soldering, make coils, inspect sub-assembles, and test all parts which go into the delicately balanced instruments used aboard ship.

Scott company women have been honored previously, along with the firm's men for the excellence of their work. Last June the corporation received the army-navy "E" award and now it is the only Chicago company engaged exclusively in the manufacture of radio receiving sets to fly both the "E" and "M" flags.

Most of the women working for the Scott company had no previous experience and were trained on the job by foremen and engineers. The women's peace time jobs and professions were as numerous as the women themselves, and some of them plan to reënter other work when the war is won. One of them, pretty, red headed Miss Marilynn Leis, who operates a machine which strips and cuts wires, plans to be a professional model after she has completed her service as a war worker.

Almost without exception, the women in the laboratories and at the benches have been motivated in their choice of war work by the fact that men in their families are in service. Mrs. Jeannette Horan, whose son served on the Wasp, is one of them, and Miss Betty Soltaw is another. Mrs. Shirlee Franklin, whose husband, Wayne, is a petty officer, 2d class, in the navy, works at soldering sub-assemblies.

At tonight's banquet the Scott company's "Miss Maritime" will represent women employes when accepting the "M" badges from Mr. Spofford. She is Miss Vivian Huber, who handles the busy switchboard which coördinates the firm's three neighboring plants. She was elected by popular vote among the workers. Arthur Finnie, a Scott engineer, will accept the badges for men employes. He also was chosen by his fellow workers.

The presentation ceremonies will be held after the dinner, and dancing will be a feature of the evening's festivities. Among the prominent guests invited to the party are Lt. Comdr. A. J. Beckwith of the coast guard, and four technicians of the maritime commission, W. W. Hammond, chief of the scientific division; Paul Vance, senior electrical engineer; Henry Brown, assistant electrical engineer, and Albert Miller, radio engineer.

"Luck of the Devil"

By Elizabeth York Miller

Copyright: 1943: by Elizabeth York Miller

SYNOPSIS: On the beach at Dunkirk, Ronnie Banks leaves a wounded fellow soldier for dead, after robbing him of his note cases. Upon Ronnie's arrival in London he deserts, assumes the flat and identity of Alan Conyers, and engages in a romance with Maria de Santos, wealthy Argentine widow, who lives next door. On a visit to his mother, Ronnie learns the military police are after him, and that Goldie, the wife he has deserted, is repaying his mother the money borrowed for their child's funeral. June Merrill calls to make the acquaintance of her American cousin, Alan Conyers, and invites him for the week-end at Priory cottage. Ronnie is captivated. Maria creates a jealous scene. Ronnie bluffs his lance corporal into believing he is Alan Conyers, and withdraws Alan's money from the bank. At Merrills' he courts June. The real Alan Conyers appears at Priory cottage, his memory gone. The only clew to his identity is the name and address of John Merrill. Returning from Priory cottage, Ronnie sees Maria, who has arranged for their early marriage and sailing. Goldie, the new waitress, delivers breakfast to Ronnie and, knowing of his deception, demands 50 pounds. Ronnie leaves Emberley court and takes quarters at an inn near Merrills'. June visits the real Alan, who Ronnie claims is an absconding bank clerk from his home town. Ronnie visits Alan at the hospital, tells of his engagement to June, and conveys a false message of farewell from Alan to June. Ronnie acquires the engagement and wedding rings. June decides she won't marry Ronnie. Alan's memory returns and he exposes Ronnie, who escapes. Alan puts detectives on Ronnie's trail. Maria inserts a plea for Ronnie's return in the personal column. Ronnie visits his mother and learns Goldie has repaid her loan and is now interested in another man. Ronnie goes to Emberley court and sees Maria, who demands an explanation. Maria calls him an imposter and attempts to call the police, covering Ronnie with her revolver. In the scuffle, she is shot. After removing fingerprints, Ronnie leaves Maria's flat unseen. Alan is invited to make his home with Merrills. He tells June of his love. June has a premonition of some dreadful happening.

INSTALMENT XXX.

MURDER DISCOVERED.

Ronnie thought of how, when he was a small boy, his mother always made him say his prayers before she tucked him into bed and kissed him goodnight. He wished it could be that way now, and that he was a comparatively innocent little boy whose only sin, in Mum's sight, was his failure to wash behind his ears.

He had got as far as the Strand on what promised to be a long pilgrimage, when suddenly the siren note of an air raid warning smote the air.

After what he had gone thru in France, Ronnie Banks was hardly moved. He stepped for caution's sake into the shelter of a doorway.

* * *

About the same time that Ronnie started on his way again, an air raid warden strode importantly into the foyer of Emberley court.

"You've got a light showing in the front on the seventh floor," he said to the night porter, "and there's a warning on."

They went out into the street so that the porter could identify the offending window.

"O, I know who it is," he said.

Back they went into the foyer where he tried to get thru on the telephone to one-forty-one, but the house operator said there must be something wrong with the connection in Mrs. de Santos' flat.

So the warden and the porter went up to the seventh floor, and when there was no answer to their ring, the porter said: "The lady must be out and maybe the maid's left the light on."

He inserted his passkey into the lock and they entered.

The porter tapped at the half-opened door that led to the drawing-room and then pushed it open.

"Blimey," he cried, "what's this 'ere? O, look!"

The warden, more self-contained, pushed past him and knelt beside the still form on the floor.

"Dead, I'd say. But still warm. Done herself in, it looks like. Careful you don't touch nothing, porter. I must call the police." He glanced toward the telephone. "See that? Somebody's cut the connection."

They forgot all about the chink of light that was showing between the curtains.

"And me—" said the porter, "I'll have to get the manageress out of her bed—in case she ain't already up. Nothing like this has ever 'appened in the court before. She was a foreign lady—Spanish, or something like that."

"Probably accounts for it," said the warden.

So now it happened that Ronnie Banks could not be sure of a respite even until 8:30 in the morning.

By 5 a. m. the police had proved, to their own satisfaction at least, that Maria de Santos had not deliberately taken her own life, basing their belief on the severed telephone cord and an absence of finger-prints where finger-prints should have been; also upon clear evidence that some sort of a struggle or scuffle had taken place. The dead woman's fragile negligee had been torn and a bruise showed on the wrist of the hand from which the revolver had appeared to drop, and also on the right shoulder.

Yet at the same time, it was impossible that she had been shot inadvertently while attempting to defend herself. It was clear enough that Mrs. de Santos had been entertaining a visitor, altho the night porter, when questioned, could throw no light on this subject.

The night telephone operator was helpful. She said that just as the restaurant staff was going off duty Mrs. de Santos had telephoned down saying that she wanted to see one of the waitresses, a girl named Banks.

Goldie was not asleep when the porter came up and knocked at the door of the room she shared with another girl, but she was alone.

"You're wanted in the manageress' office," thee porter said, his voice very shaky.

Mystified and apprehensive, Goldie climbed out of bed and put on her clothes.

* * *

In the office, just off the foyer, were the manageress, also in slacks; the air raid warden, and three men in police uniforms, an inspector, a sergeant, and a constable.

Goldie's heart gave a sickening thud.

Her face must have mirrored her feelings, for the manageress, a kindly and competent young woman, said: "Don't be alarmed, Banks. Something—er—has happened, and the inspector wants to ask you a few questions. Perhaps you'd better sit down, you'll feel more comfortable."

The manageress, herself, looked a little green, and smiled wanly as she turned Goldie over to the officer in charge.

When he asked her what Mrs. de Santos had wanted when she summoned her to one-forty-one so late, Goldie knew at once that it had something to do with Ronnie.

And then, quick as lightning, she remembered that at lunch yesterday, when she had waited on Mrs. de Santos, the latter had said she was leaving Emberley court on the morrow and might not see her again, and had then slipped her a one-pound note.

So she made it seem that this was why Mrs. de Santos has sent for her.

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: I feel that the following deal, which came up recently in a rubber game, may interest you and your readers.

"The bidding:

North	East	South	West
Pass	1 club	1 heart	1 spade
Pass	2 spades	3 hearts	3 spades
Pass	Pass	4 spades	Pass
5 hearts	5 spades	6 hearts	Pass
Pass	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

"When my partner passed and East opened the bidding, I felt that the best strategy would be to conceal my freakish distribution as long as possible, altho I was resolved from the beginning to bid my hand up to the limit. I was quite sure that the opponents with their part score would not let me get by with a cheap contract, and when West entered the bidding and his suit was supported by East, my conviction was confirmed. However, when East passed West's three spade bid, I realized that some drastic action had to be taken. My unorthodox cue bid of four spades was motivated by my desire to avoid an opening lead of spades. I myself had fallen for the same ruse years ago and had always waited for a proper chance to set this trap for my opponents. On the other hand, if my partner held any values at all, they could be only in diamonds or in the not-repeated club suit.

"When I finally bid six hearts, East, holding three aces, thought I had monkeyed around enough and emphatically doubled. West, convinced that I had no spades, opened the highest card in his partner's originally bid suit, the jack of clubs. When my partner laid down his hand, I was certainly delighted to see my highest expectations surpassed by finding just what I needed.

"The rest was simple. I covered the jack, ruffed the ace, entered dummy with a trump and discarded on his high clubs the spade queen and one diamond. A lead of a diamond thru East set up my king, and all was over but my partner's rejoicing. East could not even berate his partner for having fallen into the trap.

"Thus, an anticipated sacrifice of 350 points turned into a nice profit of 1,060 points."

Ration Budget Menus to Feed Two for Week

TODAY'S $5 PRIZE RECIPE

Rum Butter Toast.
[Serves six.]

¼ cup butter or margarine, or a mixture
½ cup confectioners' sugar
1 tablespoon rum
6 slices toast

Cream butter and add sugar gradually. Stir in rum. Spread on toast slices and place in broiler for about 1 minute, or long enough to melt topping. Cut in triangles and serve.

With butter at 12 points a pound, the two-person family must be more careful than ever about red point expenditures. Use of margarine will allow more points for meat. A whole pound of margarine may be bought for fewer points than are required by ½ pound butter. This regular weekly menu plan for the family of two working persons allows them 6 points for butter, but they should probably consider margarine in its place.

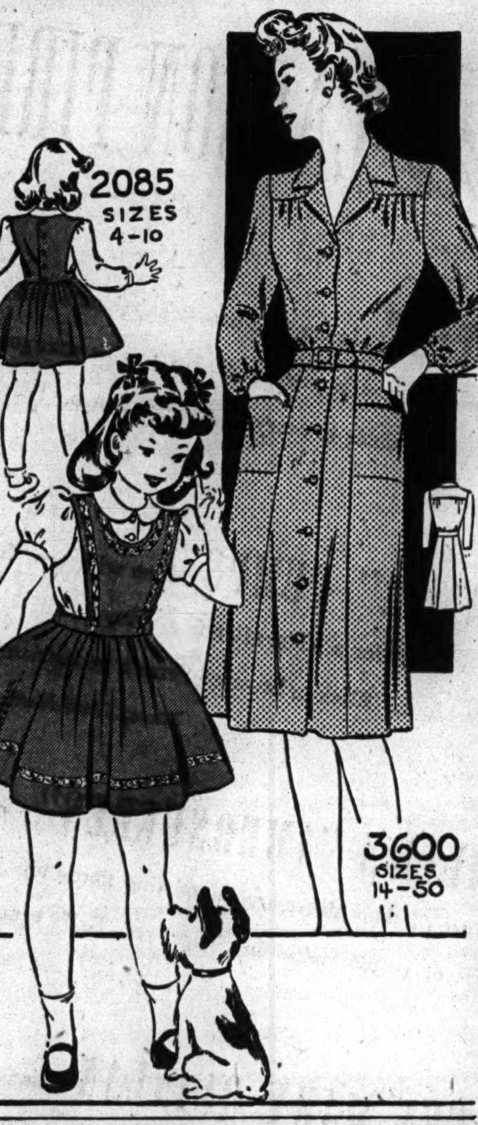
New Autumn Fashions



Mother and daughter both are remembered by the pattern selections illustrated today. The adult fashion is a front-buttoned model that is as versatile as any one could wish. Cissy will like the jumper dress for impression-making at classes.

Style No. 3600 is designed for sizes 14 to 50. Size 36 requires 2⅞ yards of 54 inch material.

Style No. 2085 is designed for sizes 4 to 10. Size 8 requires, for jumper, 1⅝ yards of 35 inch fabric; for blouse, 1⅛ yards of 35 inch, plus 3¼ yards of braid.

Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing.

Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing. The pattern book is 15 cents, 10 cents if ordered with pattern.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

Myrna Loy.

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 10.—Here's one of the most gratifying bits that I've been able to pass on to the customers for some time. When Louis B. Mayer was in New York recently he made a point of getting in touch with Myrna Loy. "We miss you at the studio," L. B. told her. "Wouldn't it be wonderful if you could make another 'Thin Man' picture with Bill Powell?" "There's been a lot of gossip—but nobody's asked me," said Myrna. "I'd love it." So, altho the studio isn't ready to announce the fact, it's in the bag. And isn't it a coincidence that the picture's titled "The Thin Man Comes Home?" Myrna's coming home, too, for the reuniting of perhaps the best loved [and hottest at the box office] adult pair on the screen. There's great excitement at Metro and the film's to start just as soon as Powell's free. Myrna's rest and the stimulus of New York have done wonders for her. She's looking a decade younger.

Wary Cary.

Two of our top male draws are Cary and Gary—Grant and Cooper. Cooper's $200,000 per picture plus percentages probably has been topped now by the astute Mr. Grant, whose "Mr. Lucky" is one of the biggest hits of this sizzling season. Looks like his take on a percentage basis alone will be $350,000 or more—he turned up his nose at accepting a salary. So Barbara Hutton isn't the only one in the family that cashes in on five-and-dime—except that the movies are hardly in the five-and-dime category any more.

Laraine Cashes In.

If Cary is "Mr. Lucky," Laraine Day is entitled to call herself "Miss Lucky." She did a bang up job in the film and the result is that every studio in town wants to borrow her from Metro. De Mille was lucky, too, for he saw the rushes of the Grant-Day opus and promptly grabbed her for his "Dr. Wassell." Understand the next inside track for Laraine's services leads to Charles R. Rogers, who'll give her the biggest stellar buildup yet in "Gaunt Woman" if he gets the chance.

Engaging Villain.

No glamor boy, Paul Lukas nevertheless does all right competing for service men's affection with the gals who go about selling their kisses. Paul tells 'em, "I'm just a plain guy who wants to talk to any one that wants to talk," and the boys love him. Warners thought so much of his acting in "Watch on the Rhine" that they threw him immediately into Errol Flynn's "Uncertain Glory." "Rhine" is one of the most potent screen documents yet, packing a breathless wallop that makes the stage version, devastating as it was, a bit pale. . . . I can't resist telling you about the new Flynn-Lukas picture — which also has Jean Sullivan, a Warner find, making her debut. A very unusual yarn full of twists, with Errol playing the worst kind of a low life a thief and murderer who's sapolioed in the end when he takes the rap for others and saves a hundred innocent Frenchmen from a Nazi firing squad. I'm not sure Errol's femmes are going to like him, but I do hand it to the guy for taking on a role with meat and sinew in it. Incidentally, a friend said to Errol, "How's your love life?" and Errol cracked, "Do you mean my uncertain glory?"

Lloyd Nolan Home.

Lloyd Nolan's another star who ventured into the camps with nothing but his friendly he-man self to sell and banged himself across big. Lloyd just came off "Guadalcanal Diary," where he worked with real leathernecks. . . . Kay Kyser's introducing all the new Harold Adamson-Jimmy McHugh numbers in RKO's "Around the World" on his radio program. . . . Gale Robbins tells me she'll wed Bob Olson the minute he gets out here from his Yale graduation. They've been engaged five years. . . . Twentieth Century-Fox claims the long eyelashes championship for Mary Anderson. . . . Jennifer Jones has become a nurses' aid and wants no kidding about it. . . . "Have you ever had your portrait done in oils for yourself?" Lynn Bari asked Edward G. Robinson. "I collect paintings, not gargoyles," Eddie flipped.

War and Morals.

Another proof that war time and churchgoing are affinities: Bonita Granville dashed off "My War Time Morals" for Photoplay magazine, a most conservative approach to modern living, and the response from boys in uniform has been enormous. I really do believe the old fashioned girl's coming into her own. . . Which reminds me that genuinely old-fashioned Gene Tierney is now established in Washington, D. C., awaiting the arrival of her and Oleg's baby, due next month, with both Mrs. Tierney and Madame Cassini, Oleg's mom, standing by. . . . You've heard about "The Spirit of 1776." This year it's the spirit of $18.75. Obey that impulse. . . Character Player Charles Dingle, with two sons overseas, made a personal appearance at a county fair back in Kentucky, whither he's wended with Twentieth-Fox's "Home in Indiana" troupe, and bought dollar for dollar of war bonds by matching every purchase made by a native. . . And the hedge that George Sanders planted when he built his new house a couple of years ago is high enough now that George teaches himself the concertina by his own swimming pool. . . David O. Selznick confirms our scoop anent John Cromwell to direct "Since You Went Away."

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

Good cast! Cole Porter music! A finale that pops the unexpected and gives the film a fine, Bob Hope-ian finishing touch. But O—in the main—such a dumb, complicated story!

Perhaps the screen version—"based on a musical play by Dorothy Fields, Herbert Fields, and Cole Porter and suggested by a play by Normal Mitchell and Russell G. Medcraft"—has had too many cooks for its broth. . . . Be that as may, I didn't like the taste—despite the rare seasoning provided by the Hope and the tang of Betty Hutton's speed and versatility.

What is this yarn that went down so badly with ye reviewer? Well, it's about three soldiers, three fading, jealous wives of three paunchy two-timing husbands, the soldiers' three fiancées, and the three tomatoes with whom the husbands plan to pass the time their wives have been told would be spent a-fishing. Then it goes something like this——

Wives hire reluctant but impecunious soldiers to help them make their husbands jealous. . . . Soldiers of necessity lie to fiancées—Jerry putting off his wedding for the nth time. . . . Fiancées become suspicious, trail soldiers to rendezvous—where in due time all the principals appear and mix. . . . And so and so and so. . . .

The action starts at a milk diet resort and ends atop a submarine, where Jerry, with the help of a mirror, renders great service to his Uncle Sam.

See you tomorrow.

U. S. Will Aid Jews of Europe, Hull Tells Zionist Convention

Columbus, O., Sept. 10 [Special].—Secretary of State Cordell Hull today assured the opening session of the 46th annual convention of the Zionist Organization of America that the United States government "will take every feasible step to ameliorate the wretched plight of the Jews in Europe."

In a message of greeting he said that "at this time of trial, I am sure that no gathering of persons of the Jewish faith can or will fail to express their reaction to the stupendous crime which the axis powers have perpetrated against the Jewish people."

Recalling his statement last year to a rabbinical delegation in Washington, D. C., in which he assured that after the victory of the allied nations the Jewish people will "enjoy equality and justice," Secretary Hull asserted in his message that "my own views in this regard have in no way altered since the issuance of my statement of Oct. 30, 1942."

Parents Told: Guard Health of Adolescent

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The world of a little child is quite simple. Even when our children get to be "inbetweens" they live in a comparatively simple world, altho one with an expanding horizon. In both age groups it is easier for us to understand motives and to deal with them than it is when adolescence sets in.

Today, when the war reaches out and takes our sons, and when girls feel the quicker approach of womanhood, life becomes more complex for teen age children. They are affected by the atmosphere in which we are living. Some get jobs when they would not have thought of such a thing before, and some do volunteer work. Altho more mature, they are still adolescent. The reasons why they act as they do are often subtle and intermingled. Neither child nor man, they are first one, then the other. They crave independence, yet are not ready for it.

This is not always a tempestuous time for them and their parents, but it frequently is a time when parents who desire so much a happy, right life for their young people that they are anxious at each sign of trouble that takes the form of conflict or discontent.

For the moment let's suppose that you and your husband have made what seems to you to be a normal, happy home for your son or daughter. You all love each other, and the children have always been treated in a friendly and affectionate way. You've tried to think things out intelligently and feel as if you can't have gone far wrong.

And yet your child isn't socially inclined, is self-conscious, seems discontented, and worries you a great deal. What can it be, you keep asking yourself over and over again?

Have you ever thought that some of this might have a physical origin? Adolescence is a period not only of rapid growth, but of uneven growth. Take the young person of 15 who has shot up to his full height. There is not necessarily a comparable increase in growth and development of bone tissues, muscle tissue, and vital organs. Such young persons must be guarded against over-exertion.

The prescribing of a proper diet, a proper routine of sleep and exercise, the discovery of some easily corrected physical difficulty, or a lack of glandular balance, may result in a change not only in your child's health or looks, but in a change in his or her behavior, personality, and attitude of mind. But of all those things listed the one I want to emphasize is rest. Parents too often relax their vigilance in this regard. Few adolescents get enough sleep. This in itself will account for a low physical tone—and a difficult disposition.

Thru the Looking Glass

Right now one of our beauty salons is conducting one of the most interesting attempts to take the guesswork out of permanent waving that we have ever seen. It's analysis, under a microscope, of the hair to be waved—quite a different operation than the casual analysis usually given by the operator who judges hair's receptivity to a new wave by sight and touch.

About thirty hair strands are cut off at the scalp. Then these, divided into the three sections of hair close to the scalp, the center portion and the ends, are examined minutely for porosity, texture, variations in the natural oil supply, and the condition of cuticle, or the outer coating of the shaft.

The hair close to the scalp is hair most nearly normal to the individual, since it is too newly grown to have been affected by previous applications of any substance. The hair in the center portion of the shaft is the part that is to be wound, and a knowledge of its characteristics is important. The condition of the hair at the very end of the shafts permits a study of past effects. It's at the hair ends, as most of us know, that hair trouble first reveals itself—and never so clearly as under the microscope.

The correlation of these findings is what helps the unhappy woman with "difficult" hair, or at least helps the permanent wave operator to help her. It may be that the ends, having been revealed under the microscope as badly damaged, should be trimmed away entirely before another wave is attempted. The amount of time the waving solution is left on the center portion of the hair as against that on the ends can be measured with exactness, because the characteristics of the hair, which determine its individual needs, are recognized.

This may not be the final answer to the problem of making every permanent perfect, but it's an intelligent step, and one that's been most satisfying to its proponents. Knowing what's right and what's wrong with the hair that's to be waved is proving invaluable in every step of the permanent. The proportion of unquestionably successful waves is bound to go up.

Shopper Finds Cheerful Note in Fall Fabrics

BY REA SEEGER.

Fall fabric showings hit a war time high for variety in colors, prints, textures, and weights. And the varieties are unexpectedly plentiful. Vivid shades of red vie with brilliant greens and a war time influence is evident in the numerous shades of beige and undyed natural shades of gray and off-white tones.

Dress woolens are soft, drapable, and thin, but warmer than the old time bulky woolens. Coat woolens also are comparatively thin, and light in weight, without sacrificing needed warmth. Dark brown, copper, cinnamon, and a cool tan shade reminiscent of a Balenciago brown lead the parade of colors; dull black is second.

The most complete color range of velveteen to date includes clear, high colors; neutrals and classic brown, black, and gray. Another fall favorite is corduroy, with both the narrow rib and very wide wale featured. Corduroy suits, short and long coats, extra jackets, hat and bag sets, waistcoats, and blouses are high fashion items for any shopper to check. So are the same extras made of wool jersey, and the fascinating array of printed jersey materials offer a lot of inspiration for the "make your own" crowd.

The well known Botany annuals have been unpacked, including matched thick and thin fabrics for dress and coat duets and the carefully dyed yardage to match materials bought last year and the year before. As for imports, there are surprisingly large assortments. They are costly but worth the price because they are so different and promise long and excellent wear.

Many War Workers Expected to Attend City's Night Schools

Several thousand war workers and others are expected to begin night school courses offered by the Chicago board of education Monday. Classes will be held in eight high schools and in Washburne Trade school and Jones Commercial High school. Registration opened this week and will continue into next week.

Evening high schools in eight high school buildings will give regular courses, with credit equivalent to that given in day courses. Junior college courses will be given in three schools.

High school courses will be given in the following high schools: Lake View, Ashland avenue and Irving Park road; Schurz, 3601 Milwaukee avenue; Wells, 936 North Ashland avenue; Englewood, 6201 Stewart avenue; Fenger, 11220 Wallace avenue; Phillips, 244 Pershing road; Austin, 231 North Pine avenue, and Crane, 2245 Jackson boulevard. Junior college courses will be given at Austin, Englewood, and Schurz High schools. Commercial work will be given at Jones school, 607 Plymouth court, and trade courses at Washburne school, 1225 Sedgwick street.

have returned from New York City, where they went to attend the marriage on Sept. 4 of Miss Ritchey Cheek Farrell to Mrs. Wilson's brother, Lt. Benjamin S. Warren Jr. The ceremony took place in St. Thomas' church, and Lt. Warren and his bride have gone to live in Boston, where he is stationed with the navy. The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Farrell of Nashville, Tenn., resumed her maiden name after her divorce from Robert V. Rasmussen. The Rasmussens lived in Chicago for a short time. Lt. Warren, who attended the Hotchkiss school, Yale university, and the University of Michigan law school, is the son of Mrs. Warren of Grosse Pointe, Mich., and of the late Mr. Warren.

On the Calendar.

Most of the hunters and jumpers to appear tomorrow in the Ginger Creek Horse show in Hinsdale will be "hacked" in to save precious gasoline. The show will start at 1 p. m. on the grounds of the Theodore Mohlmans' home, Spring road and 31st street, and cold drinks will be sold throut the afternoon. Special attention will be given to classes in horsemanship for children. The trophies to be presented, all of which are silver, have been donated by riding enthusiasts. After the show the L. F. Caufields, who planned the event with the Mohlmans, will give a small exhibitors' party in their home.

Mr. and Mrs. David W. Kimball [Mary Knox Winton] are celebrating their 20th wedding anniversary with an informal at home from 5 to 7 p. m. today. Their two children, Lina, who is 16, and David Jr., who is 7, will assist at the party.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 10.—The White Sox continued this evening to do nothing of consequence about their oft repeated threat to crowd in on some of that first division world series loot. They folded up as gently as you please before the seventh place Browns, who gave their bats such a robust workout that they fashioned a 6 to 2 victory before a vast turnout of many thousand empty seats and 1,914 cash customers.

The main difficulty in whatever the Sox may have thought they could do about approaching the league's upper class was Lee Ross' pitching. Due to a homer by Chet Laabs, who always is distressing James Dykes' boys, Ross was two runs down at the very start and at the end of the third, which was where he quit, he was five runs in arrears. Thereafter, Bill Swift and Jake Wade maintained order, but the improvement in Sox pitching didn't stir up a noticeable reaction in their hitting department.

Potter Yields Six Hits.

Nelson Potter, one of the many Connie Mack graduates staying around the league, gave Dykes' collection of talent so severe a dose of pitching that only six hits were recorded. One of these was Joe Kuhel's fifth homer. Two of them fell to Ralph Hodgin. The others were scattered singles, but Luke Appling snared one of them as nourishment for his pace setting average. Wally Moses, the base stealing specialist, didn't even survive once in five chances so had no opportunity to improve his total of 44 burglaries.

The two run operation performed on Ross in the first inning could have been avoided if Hodgin had been able to hang on after making a leaping grab for George McQuinn's arching drive close to the fence, but the ball dropped out of his glove. Instead of being the third out, the hit became a double, after which the annoying Mr. Laabs plastered his season's 16th homer into the left field benches.

Ross Contributes Wild Pitch.

Potter assumed responsibility for starting the three run fourth by singling to right, being forced a moment later by Don Gutteridge. Al Zarilla poked a single into center and Gutteridge went to third, going home from there on McQuinn's fly. Laabs singled to put Zarilla on third, whereupon Ross tossed a wild pitch into the debate. Zarilla scored and Laabs moved to second on the gift. Next came a pass to Vern Stephens and a single by Milton Byrnes on which Laabs scored. Ross ended the incident by fanning Mark Christman and then was ordered to bed by Boss Dykes.

The Sox worked into the run producing class on Kuhel's homer, the ball landing on the right field pavilion roof with one out in the fourth. The Browns apparently didn't approve of this maneuver so they took the run back in their half on doubles by Gutteridge and Zarilla off Swift. Then the Sox scored in the sixth on Appling's single and a one baser by Jim Webb, after which they merely went thru the motions.

Boss Dykes had plans for working Bill Dietrich in the second of the series tomorrow, but the bespectacled right hander is worried over the illness of his child so the burden will fall on Eddie Smith's broad shoulders.

BY ARCH WARD.

MORE than $1,000,000 was returned by the Chicago Cubs to fans they could not accommodate for world series tickets in 1929 against the Philadelphia Athletics. . . . In fact, all the tickets were gone before the first mail delivery had been frisked for checks, recalls George Doyle, Cub ticket manager. . . . This was the series of the 10 run Athletic eighth inning in Philadelphia and George says he's heard tell that many Cub fans, listening to the slaughter by radio, actually demolished the instruments. . . . George McAfee, former Chicago Bear star who is credited with being the first to wear low cut gridiron boots, has sold this idea to Bob Nussbaumer, Michigan sophomore half back from Oak Park. . . . The tip is out that two college elevens to watch this season are Southwestern Louisiana institute and Southwestern university in Texas, which are loaded with stars from major southwestern universities, who are in the navy program. . . . Joe McCarthy will mark up his 10th major league championship soon, nine with the Yankees, and one with the Cubs. . . . This will equal the late John McGraw's record. . . . Max Partin, his debt to Uncle Sam marked off the books, has joined the Philadelphia-Pittsburgh eleven in the National Football league. . . . Partin, from the University of Tennessee, was wounded in the North African invasion and was honorably discharged. . . . Ray Hamrick, Nashville shortstop recently purchased by the Phillies, still wears the only baseball belt he has ever used. . . . Thomas J. Hickey, retired president of the American association, and one of its founders, soon will be moving to California permanently. . . . For years he has spent his summers in Chicago and winters on the Pacific coast. . . .

Joe McCarthy.

When asked to name the greatest shortstop he had ever seen, Dizzy Dean voted for Martin Marion of the Cardinals. . . . But the next time he's asked, Diz, who is versatile that way, may think of another shortstop. . . . E. P. Moore of Chicago's Edgewater Golf club was a natural southpaw when he took up the sport 22 years ago, but his pro induced him to play right handed. . . . In 12 years' time, he reduced his handicap to 14 strokes. . . . Ten years ago he switched to the left side. . . . Now his handicap is nine. . . . After failing to use the squeeze play in 122 games this season the Tigers recently tried the maneuver in successive innings. . . . The net result was safe hits each time, which led to three runs. . . . That kind of stuff makes a manager look good.

Pressed Flower.

This one time crimson rose long pressed away
Is sere and musty with a fading scent
Of long repose in some book put away,
And only now I find it—wholly spent
Of all its lush and fragrant loveliness.
This rose at one time must have been a part
Of some bright memorable happiness
That radiated warmly thru my heart.
I do not recall the time or place
This rose once marked, significant, for me—
Enough for me to vainly seek to trace
The origin of what its meaning be.
And crumbling into dust it falls apart
And one more memory escapes my heart.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs' homecoming shoot the chutes goes on unabated. Yesterday the lads lost, 2 to 1, to a makeshift St. Louis Cardinal ensemble, to run their string of defeats since returning to Wrigley field to six straight. The loss was typical of the misadventures that have characterized the Cubs' surrender under the urge of their loyal followers that they battle on to a try for first division dough.

Claude Passeau, who lost last Sunday's game on his own shortcomings, then lost the second game Monday as a reliever thru an error and an infield-outfield mixup, was bearing down to conquer the riddled champions.

Claude had succeeded to the extent that the game had gone into the seventh a scoreless tie. The Cards had wasted two hits in the first inning, one in the second, and one in the sixth.

Musial Comes Thru.

At the start of the seventh Len Merullo threw out George Fallon and Max Lanier, the winning pitcher. Lou Klein then lifted a nice, easy fly pretty well out in left. Merullo went after it for a while, then apparently felt the earth shaking under Lou Novikoff's approach. Len withdrew to make a clear path for Lou. If you follow the Cubs you know what happened. The ball plunked to the turf, a spurious double. Debs Garms whopped one which caromed off Passeau's left shin to Stan Hack. Stan had no chance to get Garms at first, but Klein was obliged to stop at third. Stan Musial, the impending batting champion, then lined one to left. It hit on the line, stirred up a cloud of lime, and shot on for a double, Stan's second hit, Klein and Garms scoring the Cards' two runs.

Twelfth Victory for Lanier.

The Cubs scored their run after two were out in the ninth. In the first three innings they left seven runners on base. After that they didn't bother Lanier much until Merullo and Clyde McCullough, striking out for Passeau, had been eliminated. With the two down, Hack singled to center, his second hit, and went to third on Eddie Stanky's second single. Phil Cavarretta also singled, Hack scoring. The game ended on Bill Nicholson's long fly to Harry Walker, who played the ninth in a switch which was necessitated by an injury to Whitey Kurowski.

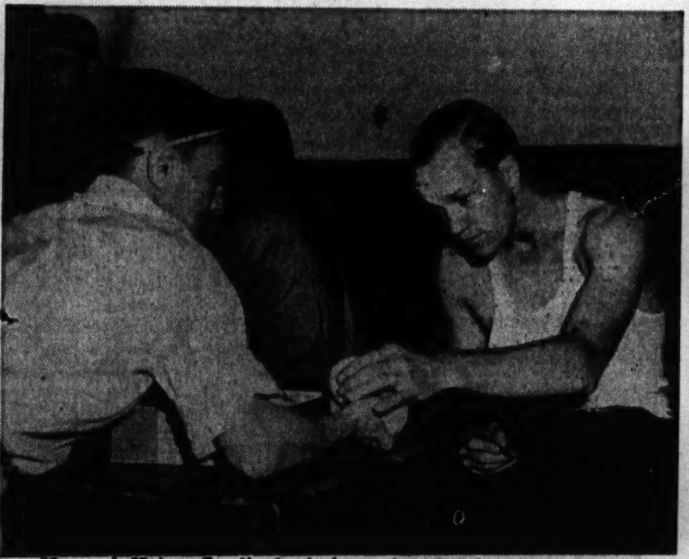
The victory was the 12th for Lanier; the loss was the 10th for Passeau.

The teams will hook up in a single game this afternoon in which Harry Brecheen or Al Brazle will pitch for the Cards, opposed by Eddie Hanyzewski.

ANOTHER FLAG IN SIGHT

It's just a tin whistle, but Ray Sanders says it's great for relaxation before taking his place at first base for the world champion St. Louis Cardinals who are opponents of the Cubs in Wrigley field the rest of the week. The Cardinals have such a formidable lead over the rest of the field that it's almost certain they'll be battling the New York Yankees in the world series again next month.

Here's Billy Southworth, who lays no claim to being a miracle man, yet since he's been manager of the Cardinals they have enjoyed phenomenal success.



Howard Krist, Cardinal pitcher whose right hand curves have meant a lot in the St. Louis cause this season. He's autographing baseballs as the Cards' clubhouse boy, Butch Yatkeman, keeps him supplied.

FRITZIE ZIVIC STOPS VINES IN FIRST ROUND

New York, Sept. 10 (AP).—Fritzie Zivic of Pittsburgh made quick work of Vinnie Vines in their scheduled 10 round bout in Madison Square Garden tonight, knocking out the former Schenectady, N. Y. youth in 2:04 of the first round.

Vines, 150¾, who had gained a reputation as a puncher, rushed the former welterweight champion in the first minute and actually drove the experienced Zivic, who weighed 151, into the ropes.

But his tactics cost him. In the second minute Zivic roughed him up in close, then he sneaked over a lightning right cross that caught Vines on the chin.

Sal Bartolo, Boston's leading featherweight contender, was much the better of New York's Aaron Seltzer in winning a 10-round decision in the co-feature. Bartolo gave Stelzer, a game but inexperienced opponent, a sound boxing lesson.

World Series Figures to Meet Today

Arrangements for the 1943 world series will be made at a meeting this morning in the office of Kenesaw M. Landis, baseball commissioner. Inasmuch as the New York Yankees in the American league and the St. Louis Cardinals in the National league have almost clinched the pennants, only representatives of those two clubs will meet with the commissioner. The conference is scheduled for 11 o'clock.

The Cardinals will be represented by Sam Breadon, their owner, and the Yankees' delegate probably will be Edward Barrow, club president.

New System Suggested.

The world series, best four of seven games as usual, will open this year in the American league park. Barrow has suggested the time honored system of dividing the games between the rival cities be changed to lessen the strain on railroad transportation. He proposes instead of the first two games being played in New York, it be increased to three, with the others going to St. Louis. This would eliminate the possibility of a return to New York.

The Cardinals are understood to oppose this plan because of the possibility of only one game being played in Sportsman's park. This would happen if either team won four straight.

Start May Be Advanced.

The season will close Sunday, Oct. 3, and under normal conditions the world series would start in New York on Wednesday, Oct. 6. The start may be advanced one day, it was said.

$326,558 IS GIVEN TO WAR FUNDS BY MAJOR LEAGUERS

New York, Sept. 10 (AP).—National League President Ford Frick, acting for Commissioner K. M. Landis, today turned over checks totaling $326,558.84 to representatives of the American Red Cross and the national war fund, the sum representing the receipts of the 16 special war games played in the American and National leagues.

The amount was divided equally between the two charities, each receiving $163,279.42.

Green Bay Packers to Meet Phil-Pitts Tonight

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 10 (AP).—Professional football makes its 1943 appearance here tomorrow night when the merged Philadelphia-Pittsburgh club clashes with Green Bay in an exhibition game before an expected crowd of between 15,000 and 20,000. Kick-off time is set for 8:30.

6 MARINES JOIN WILDCAT SQUAD

Minnesota, Nebraska Contribute Three Each.

Northwestern's football prospects took a surge upward yesterday when six marines in the navy V-12 unit reported for practice for the first time. The newcomers included three former Minnesota players, Herman Frickey, half back; Herb Hein and Larry Halenkamp, ends, and a trio of former Nebraska players, Joe Partington, center; Henry Reichel, half back, and Alvin Grubaugh, guard.

Frickey, who played right half for the Gophers during the last two seasons, probably will hold down the same assignment for the Wildcast, where he will pair with Otto Graham, Northwestern's brilliant left half back. Frickey scored two touchdowns against the Wildcats in Minnesota's 20 to 7 triumph over the Purple last year.

Nebraska Players Experienced.

Hein was also a regular end on the 1942 Gopher team and is almost certain to land a starting position on the Wildcat eleven this fall. Bob Wallis, a senior, is the only experienced end present. Halenkamp was ineligible last year at Minnesota, but is regarded as a promising prospect.

The three Nebraska players all saw action with the Cornhuskers last year. The presence of Partington will give the Wildcats five center candidates and it is likely Coach Lynn Waldorf will shift several to other positions. In addition to Partington, the centers are Len Golan, George App, and Hal Hudson, letter men from last year, and Chuck Tourek, husky freshman from Morton High of Cicero.

IOWA SQUAD GETS RESPITE.

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 10 [Special].—The University of Iowa Hawkeyes, who tomorrow will play a regulation intrasquad football game, were let off easy today by Coach Slip Madigan.

The squad spent most of the practice session reviewing plays. Madigan's chief criticism of yesterday's team scrimmage, first of the season, was that the men did not know their play assignments.

HARRIS PLEASES BROWN.

Columbus, O., Sept. 10 [Special].—Coach Paul Brown sent the Ohio State football team thru two hard workouts today, stressing offense during the earlier session and defense in the second.

Jasper Harris, former Canton McKinley High end now being used at left half back, showed up well in carrying the ball and forward passing, altho the latter was a new endeavor for him.

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 10.—Camp Grant's Warriors and the University of Illinois open the 1943 football campaign here tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in Memorial stadium. The Warriors, in charge of Lt. Col. Frank A. Bush and Lt. Bob Eiden, the coach, arrived early this evening from their base at Rockford, Ill., and thus were without benefit of practice performance on the stadium gridiron.

Tomorrow's game will answer as many questions as a quiz program, but most friends of the state university already are convinced that an Illini victory will be an upset in view of the Warriors' greater experience. All members of the Camp Grant starting eleven have had university experience, altho all are not graduates. However, the three players who were sophomores last season—Bill Huber and Cornie Clatt of Notre Dame and Jim Dewar of Indiana—are so extremely talented that their educational status at their respective universities should be disregarded.

Clatt Has a Reputation.

Clatt last season correctly was called one of the greatest sophomore full backs in Irish gridiron history, and while Huber was not as well known, since he did not have the opportunity afforded Clatt, he was good enough to win a starting assignment on the All-Star eleven which whipped the Washington Redskins last month in Dyche stadium, 27 to 7.

Dewar, who is the key to Camp Grant's attack, is another brilliant youngster who runs, kicks, and passes. Another Hoosier star is Bob Zimny, a member of the All-Stars this year, who would have been a senior tackle for coach Bo McMillin. Toss into this warrior lineup such players as Reino Nori, field general who once played with the Chicago Bears; Dick Bergner, Marquette guard; Tony Storti, Stout institute half back, and Sam Goldman, former member of the Washington Redskins, and the case for Warrior experience has been proved. Incidentally, Storti once was a freshman on this campus.

Illini Lack Experience.

Lack of experience because of their youth is the only charge which may be leveled against the Illinois varsity and this also is reported to be true of most of Camp Grant's squad with the exception of the first eleven. All of which may make an interesting game since there is no great disparity in weights. Observers even believe that if the present material can be retained, Illinois eventually may have a starting eleven far more proficient than anticipated earlier.

While there will be several unknown players on the gridiron tomorrow at 2 o'clock, the most familiar figure—indeed, the only sports publicist since the stadium press box was built—will be absent from his front row seat in the section reserved for newspapermen. He is L. M. [Mike] Tobin, who has written Illinois football releases since

SPEED HANDICAP DRAWS 13 TODAY AT HAWTHORNE

Sprinters Head Field in First Stake Event.

Hawthorne Field

THIRTEEN horses were named in the overnight entries for the $5,000 Hawthorne speed handicap, at six furlongs. The field in order of post position follows:

	Wgt.	Jockey.	Prob. Odds.
Martian	106	No boy	20-1
Bolus	110	No boy	15-1
Jols	103	No boy	20-1

Harvard Sq.	113	No boy	4-1
Sales Talk	114	W. Warren	4-1
Cabin Creek	110	G. Burns	4-1

BY HOWARD BARRY.

A band of swift sprinters will go to the post today in the first of Hawthorne's $5,000 stake events—the six furlong Speed handicap. The overnight field of 13 includes Overdrawn, Cabin Creek, and Harvard Square, all of which won their last previous starts in handy fashion.

These three will enjoy the major part of the betting support, with the possibility Sales Talk also will get some backing despite a very dull effort in a tuneup race on Thursday. On that occasion he finished fourth behind Just Beans at six and a half furlongs.

Whiting, Smith Have Mounts.

Lyle Whiting, who led the riders during the Lincoln Fields meeting at Hawthorne in the spring, and who has given indications that he will make a strong bid to repeat, will have the mount on Burgoo Maid. Freddie Smith, who is expected to be another strong contender for riding honors as the meeting progresses, will pilot Putitthere today.

Whiting continued his successful efforts yesterday by bringing in Arnel by a narrow margin in the fourth race, a dash of six and a half furlongs for 2 year olds. He had an easier time scoring aboard the favorite, Constant Aim, in the sixth. He rode his third winner of the day when he set Pajas down on top in the eighth. He brought this veteran in five lengths ahead of Gay Hour at a pay-off of $5.80.

Skoronski Wins Pair.

Previously, Tony Skoronski had brought in two in a row in the second and third races. King's Glory made up the second half of an $80 daily double and Tetragal was a 7 to 1 shot.

Walmac Farm's Fad, winner of the Arlington Lassie stakes last season, scored yesterday in the feature event, the My Dandy purse, after a succession of failures in six previous starts this year.

LIVELY LADY TO DEFEND YACHT RACING TROPHY

Lively Lady, Otto Dreher's South Shore Milwaukee Yacht club racing sloop, today and tomorrow will defend the Lutz trophy, Lake Michigan Q class title award, in the Jackson Park Yacht club's annual series off Jackson park harbor.

The opening race today will start at 3 p. m. Tomorrow the second race will start at 10 a. m. and the final event at 2 p. m.

Parichys, Tungstens Play 18 Innings; Deadlock, 1-1

After three hours and 26 minutes of battling, the Parichy Bloomer Girls and Tungsten Sparks called it quits last night with the score 1-1 after 18 innings in the Chicago Metropolitan Girls' Major softball league's fall tournament. In the other game, Gold Crowns shut out the Benda Coal Co-eds, 3 to 0. Tonight, Gold Crowns play Parichys and Tungstens meet Rock-Olas in Shewbridge field.

WYNN YIELDS 3 HITS; SENATORS BLANK A'S, 5 TO 0

Washington Scores Four Runs in Eighth.

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 10 (AP).—Early Wynn of the Washington Senators pitched a three hitter in shutting out the Philadelphia Athletics, 5 to 0, before 5,110 fans at Shibe park tonight.

Wynn held the A's hitless till the sixth. Roger Wolff, on the mound for the home team, duplicated the feat till the fifth, but the Senators put together two hits for a run in the seventh and four more for the other four counters in the eighth.

Pirates Beat Reds, 9 to 6; Lose 2d, 1-0

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 10 (AP).—The Cincinnati Reds lost the first twilight major league game ever played in this city tonight to the Pittsburgh Pirates, 9 to 6, when the Pirates scored five runs in the seventh inning in the first half of a twilight night double header. However, the Reds won the final game, 1 to 0, as Bucky Walters yielded five hits to the three given up to the Reds by Max Butcher.

PRO FOOTBALL LEAGUE ALTERS PLAYING DATES

The National Football league's season yesterday was prolonged one week, setting the championship playoff game back to Dec. 19 as the result of a decision by Elmer Layden, commissioner of the league, in ordering the game between the Washington Redskins and New York Giants at Washington, scheduled for Oct. 3, set back to Dec. 12.

The change was necessitated by the Redskins' inability to get Griffith stadium on Oct. 3 and the refusal of the navy to permit the Redskins and Giants to play in the Municipal stadium in Baltimore, where the Middies meet Cornell on Oct. 2.

Decatur Wins, 6-0, Over Aurora East High Eleven

Tom Krigbaum took Chuck Boyle's 10 yard pass on the goal line and Decatur of the Big Twelve conference defeated East High of Aurora, 6 to 0, last night in Aurora. The touchdown came in the closing minutes of play and climaxed a 72 yard march. It was the opening football game for both teams.

Ill in Ashland Hospital.

So far as any one knows, Mike never has missed an opening game until this fall when illness chained him to his bed in the Ashland, Wis., hospital. Chuck Flynn of the university's school of journalism had responsibility for details of tomorrow's game, but from most recent reports to Director Doug Mills from Ashland, Mike can be expected back before the end of the season.

Newspaper reporters and radio commentators at the pre-game smoker tonight at the Champaign Country club joined in sending best wishes for an early recovery to Tobin.

ST. PHILIP LOSES TO DE LA SALLE IN OPENER, 7 TO 6

De La Salle opened the 1943 high school football season last night by defeating St. Philip, 7 to 6, in a practice game in St. Philip stadium before 2,500 spectators. The teams are members of the Catholic league.

Both touchdowns came in the third quarter with St. Philip scoring first, when Nick McCormack grabbed Len Kasowski's fumble of Dick Forbes' punt and ran 35 yards for the score. De La Salle tied the score when Ed Fox climaxed a 65 yard drive by skirting right end for eight yards and a touchdown. Pat Ward then kicked the winning point.

LEE STOKES AND HARGROVE JOIN CARDINAL TEAM

The Chicago Cardinals, seeking to strengthen their line, have obtained two new players, Coach Phil Handler announced yesterday in Waukesha, Wis., where the team is training for the National Football league season.

Lee Stokes, who played center for the Detroit Lions a few seasons ago, was signed as a free agent. Thomas Hargrove, who played one season at Alabama, was purchased for an unannounced sum from the Brooklyn Dodgers. Hargrove, a guard, is five feet 11 inches tall and weighs 190 pounds.

Homer Sayre Wins Senior Golf with 78

Homer D. Sayre of Skokie won the 21st annual championship of the Illinois Seniors' Golf association at Exmoor yesterday with a score of 36—42—78. A record field of 225 competed in the event, which is limited to golfers who have attained 50 years of age.

T. Barbour Brown of Exmoor, who at 85 years was the oldest player in the field, turned in a 63—61—124. His handicap of 34 gave him a net score of 90. He won a special prize for the oldest entrant. Rear Adm. John Downes, commandant of the 9th naval district, won the guest prize with 92—15—77.

Evans Low Shooter.

Chick Evans of Edgewater, who became eligible for the association two years ago as a junior member, had the low score of the day with a 38—36—74. A. L. [Jimmy] Miller of Bob o' Link, another junior member, had a 39—38—77. Other leading low gross shooters were Carl Bock of New Orleans, twice winner of the event, 42—38—80; H. E. Edson, Exmoor, 40—40—80, and Harry Bishop, Glen View, 41—39—80.

At last night's business session, Roger Sherman of Indian Hill succeeded C. C. Hopkins of Woodstock, president. Other officers installed were Edward J. Hughes of Springfield, first vice president; Ross H. Kidston of La Grange, second vice president, and George W. Rossitter of Knollwood, third vice president. Fred A. Cuscaden of the home club was held over for another term as secretary-treasurer.

STEALY LISTED AS NO. 1 CENTER AT GREAT LAKES

Richard Stealy, former player and assistant coach at Ball State, Ind., Teachers' college, yesterday was listed as the No. 1 center on the Great Lakes football squad, which tomorrow will open its 12 game schedule against the Fort Riley, Kas., Centaurs at the naval training station before 22,000 recruits.

Lt. Paul D. [Tony] Hinkle, head coach of the sailors, advanced Stealy to the first team in the final workout before the game with the soldiers. Lt. Hinkle also indicated Mike Saban, Indiana sophomore, also will see considerable action against Fort Riley. Saban, 20 year old native of La Grange, played guard for the Hoosiers last year, but was shifted to center when he reported for practice at Great Lakes.

There are two other centers on the squad, Edward Shayotovich, 18 year old University of Nevada freshman, who is a graduate of Lew Wallace High school in Gary, Ind., and Edmund Durham of Texas Tech.

ONTARIO CREW LEADS BARTHEL TROPHY EVENTS

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 10.—Elmer Doyle and his resourceful crew from the Youngstown Yacht club [N. Y.] representing Lake Ontario, won the first two starts of the six race, three day series for the Barthel trophy today, emblematic of the Great Lakes eight meter sloop championship.

Joe Snay's Detroit crew, representing the Interlake Yatching association of Lake Erie, finished in the runnerup position both times out ahead of Ollie Karas, Lake Michigan outfit from the Chicago Yacht club, which trailed in both races.

PURDUE SEEKS TWO BACK FIELD COMBINATIONS

Dimancheff of Butler Is Tried at Right Half.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 10 [Special].—Boris [Babe] Dimancheff, transfer student from Butler, made a brief appearance at the right half back berth on Purdue's football squad this afternoon as Coach Elmer Burnham continued his effort to build two back field combinations for the Great Lakes opener on Sept. 18.

Other possibilities for the right half back post, weakened by the injury to Ed Cycenas, included Keith Parker, Ed Gerker, and Lewis Rose. Alternating at the other back field spots were Tony Butkovich and Leo Milla, full backs; Jim Darr and Sam Vacanti, quarter backs, and Stanley Dubicki and Bill Stuart, left half backs.

BADGERS DRILL ON DEFENSE.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 10 [Special].—Wisconsin's 1943 football squad got its first glimpse of Marquette's offense today as Coach Harry Stuhldreher sent the reserves against the Badger varsity in a lengthy session of defensive work. The Badgers meet Marquette here a week from tomorrow.

John McHugh, a naval trainee, and guard candidate of first class caliber, suffered a dislocated shoulder and probably is lost to the squad for at least three weeks.

GOPHER TEAM TAKES SHAPE.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 10 [Special].—The Minnesota football squad had its lightest drill of the week today in preparation for a scrimmage tomorrow. This workout, simulating a regulation contest, will help determine the makeup of the first team for the opening game with Missouri, two weeks hence.

The most effective lineup now includes Bill Garnaas, quarter back; Chuck Avery, right half; Hoyt Moncrief, full back; Red Williams, left half; Stu Scheer and Vern Gagne, ends; Paul Mitchell and Don Bunge, tackles; Hank Weber and Ed Lechner, guards, and John Kutscheid, center.

PASSING OCCUPIES HOOSIERS.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 10 [Special].—Forward passing offense and defense and general fundamentals occupied the two practice sessions of the Indiana university football squad today.

Robert Hoernschmeyer, half back from Cincinnati, O., was throwing most of the passes to Ed Scheinbein, from Southport High of Indianapolis and Jim Allerdice, quarter back, also of Indianapolis.

SEAHAWKS TO SCRIMMAGE.

Iowa City, Ia., Sept. 10 [Special].—Lt. Don Faurot, anxious to outline definitely his first two teams before the Iowa Navy Pre-Flight school swings into its final week of practice before the season opener, today ordered a regulation intrasquad game for tomorrow.

The Seahawk coach indicated he would use cadets to a great extent in the game since all starting lineups this season must be composed entirely of cadet personnel.

A brisk line scrimmage, devoted chiefly to pass offense and defense, was the major item on today's practice session.

NEGUS RETURNS TO MICHIGAN.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 10 (AP).—Fred Negus returned to strenuous action at the pivot position in Michigan's line today for the first time since he was injured in practice more than a week ago, and there was indication he might be ready to cut loose in a scrimmage under game conditions tomorrow.

Return of Negus relegated Jim Brieske to understudy, the role he played to Merv Pregulman last season.

The Madison Athletic club defeated the Gary boxing team, four bouts to one, last night in the Madison-Cicero Outdoor arena before 1,100. Sammy Saunders, local welterweight, beat Phil Rogers in the five round feature, and Tommy Lewis, Chicago, beat Wilbur Andrews in the five round semi-windup. Other results: Carleton Ayres, Gary, knocked out Leroy Rayner [2]; Jerry Stevens, M. A. C., beat John Grigsby [3], and Art Brown, M. A. C., knocked out Dave Johnson [1].

Adducis Beat Yankees, 5-4, to Even Windy City Series

The Representative Adducis defeated the Witt Hanley Yankees, 5 to 4, by scoring four runs in the ninth inning last night in Rheingold stadium. The victory evens the five game series for the Windy City softball league championship at one game apiece. Eddie's Service captured third place by beating Lill Coals, 9 to 5. The championship series will be resumed Monday night in Rheingold stadium.

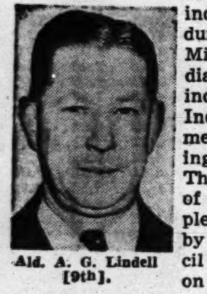
INDIANA WASTE POLLUTING LAKE, REPORT CHARGES

Asks Injunction Against Hoosier Towns, Plants.

The sources of pollution at south side water intakes are the raw sewage and the industrial wastes dumped into Lake Michigan by Indiana cities and industries, and Indiana has the means of remedying this situation. This is the gist of a report completed yesterday by the city council subcommittee on water pollution, whose chairman is Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th].



Ald. A. G. Lindell [9th].

This report, which will be submitted to the finance committee for submission to the city council, declared that Chicago sewage treatment is adequate and that little or no lake pollution can be ascribed to city wastes. It recommended that the city council order Barnet Hodes, corporation counsel, to start injunction proceedings against Indiana towns and industries to prevent further fouling of the lake.

Indiana Has Solution.

The report pointed out that Indiana can remedy the present condition by making use of the Grand Calumet, Little Calumet, and Sag channel drainage system. The shift would require only the construction of locks or gates in the Indiana Harbor ship canal and the Grand Calumet river, plus some added diversion of lake water and some dredging of the river.

The report included the statement that the coliform bacteria count in Lake Michigan increased steadily during the period 1939-'42, and that, altho the 1943 count is lower, this lower count can be ascribed only to the fact that the prevailing winds this summer have not been from the south.

In considering the problem of discharge of storm water into Lake Michigan the report said: "We are of the opinion that the decree of the Supreme court should be amended to provide for the free flow of storm water from the Calumet river drainage system into the Illinois basin."

[At present this is not allowed. Storm water, with its burden of pollution, flows into the lake.]

Report Criticizes Schricker.

The report criticized the action last month of Gov. Schricker of Indiana and the stream pollution control board of that state in brushing aside Mayor Kelly's suggestion for a temporary dike across the Indiana Harbor Ship canal as a means of reducing lake pollution. "Certainly if Indiana citizens were endangered by us, something would be done," the report said.

For permanent solution of the water pollution problem the report recommended completion of the south side filtration plant and emphasized that 100 per cent filtration of city water is the only satisfactory method. This is in line with a recommendation made this summer by the Chicago Medical society.

W. E. JEWELL, 73, VETERAN STEEL EXECUTIVE, DIES

William E. Jewell, retired superintendent of the Inland Steel company, died yesterday in St. Catherine's hospital, East Chicago, Ind., after a year's illness. He was 73 years old and lived at 3714 Fir street, East Chicago. Mr. Jewell had been in the steel business since boyhood, and with Inland for 33 years. He was past chairman of the Chicago chapter of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers. Mr. Jewell's father founded the old Chicago Rolling Mill company, and his brother, Tom, formerly was superintendent of the Wisconsin Steel company. Services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday in the chapel at 907 West Chicago avenue in East Chicago. Mr. Jewell leaves his widow, Elizabeth.

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 10 (AP).—Twin boys were born prematurely today to Jane Wyatt, 30 years old, film actress, in private life Mrs. Edgar W. Ward, wife of an investment manager. The babies were placed in an incubator. Attendants at Good Samaritan hospital said they and their mother are in satisfactory condition.

5 DIE IN PLANE CRASH; 4 FROM CHICAGO AREA

San Marcos, Tex., Sept. 10 (AP).—Two army officers and three aviation cadets were killed today in a training plane crash near Canadian, Tex.

Among those killed were: 2d Lt. C. D. Matsler, ground school instructor whose wife, Mrs. Ioa Matsler, lives in Randolph, Ill.; Aviation Cadet William J. Rowe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hartie J. Rowe, Painesdale, Mich.; Aviation Cadet William R. Rowland, son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Rowland, Fort Dodge, Ia., and Aviation Cadet Andrew O. Ruben, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Ruben, Fountain City, Wis.

The twin-engined plane was from the San Marcos army navigation school.

Officer Dies in Crash.

Vincennes, Ind., Sept. 10 (AP).—Lt. Charles E. Thompson of Duquesne, Pa., a recent graduate of the army air force pilot school at George Field, Ill., died in an airplane crash at that field early yesterday. His widow lives at Lawrenceville, Ill.

TIEUP IN MOVING EXPECTED OCT. 1 FOR MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 10 [Special].—Many Milwaukeeans who plan to move to new homes on Oct. 1, one of the busiest moving days of the year, are going to be disappointed, Irving A. Kirsch, secretary of the Milwaukee Furniture Movers' association, said today, because of equipment and man power shortages.

Crews of moving companies have been depleted by the war and some equipment has been worn down, Kirsch said. A number of the smaller companies have gone into war work. The situation is somewhat eased, he said, by renting agencies and landlords who have coöperated by having some rent periods expire on different dates.

The moving business has suffered little from the housing shortage, Kirsch said. One moving job leads to about a half dozen more until every one is finally settled, he said. Homes broken up by the induction of husbands and shifting of defense workers has increased the business. Altho no new housing is available, families are moving in with each other, creating work for the movers.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with queries.]

K. B. P. writes: "I meet all the requirements for women in the marine corps. I'm working in a factory now, but it isn't essential and I'd like to do something more important for my country. Could the marine corps use me? I can't do office work, but I'm pretty good on a power sewing machine and I've had several other kinds of factory jobs but none as long a time as this one."

ANSWER: There are several openings for machine operators to continue in the same or similar type of activity in the marine corps. With the background you describe, you might qualify as a parachute rigger or as a parachute repair worker. Persons who are tailors, dressmakers, awning and umbrella makers, furriers and upholsterers also do well and win good ratings as parachute riggers. Your power machine experience might also fit you to be trained for fabric or rope worker in aviation. Why not go to the Marine Procurement office, Room 300, Board of Trade, Chicago, and talk with one of the recruiting officers about a rating?

A. T. P. writes: "I am married but childless but I also entirely support two dependent crippled parents. My draft board tells me I cannot get a 3-D because I'm employed in a nondeferable job. Why?

ANSWER: Local board memorandum 181, section 9, states: "If he [the registrant] is qualified for such classification [III-D], he shall be so classified even tho he remains in a nondeferable activity or occupation."

U. O. E. asks: "Will those of us in service who are taking training in the navy V-12 and the army specialized training program in medicine be able to qualify for licenses after the war is over? Will those who complete pre-medical training be admitted to medical schools?"

ANSWER: So far as we have been able to determine, graduates of medical training under the accelerated programs of the army and navy, will have completed more than enough work to meet the requirements for licenses in every state in the union as well as for the territories and the District of Columbia. All medical schools have decided that the completion of the army and navy pre-medical courses of study will be more than adequate to meet their minimum admission requirements.

J. C. writes: "I am married and have a child 5 years old, and I am employed as a machinist in a war plant. This morning I received notice to take my first physical. I asked my board why because I am a father and employed in an essential industry and they told me they had orders from Washington to do this. If I'm reclassified 1-A, then what?"

ANSWER: If your employer has not filed a manning table, he would have filed forms 42-A and 42-B with your local board prior to your reclassification if you are to be deferred. Otherwise you are subject to induction by order number when your board finds it necessary to induct pre-Pearl Harbor fathers.

COUNCIL GROUP ASKS NEW DRIVE TO CUT SPEEDING

Midblock Accidents Increase Deaths.

Enforcement of parking regulations and a new campaign against speeders were suggested yesterday by the city council committee on traffic and public safety as the means of preventing a further rise in accidents and fatalities.

Ald. George D. Kells [28th], chairman of the committee, declared that a growing tendency to speed in violation of the war time 35 mile an hour limit probably is partly responsible for a toll of 28 lives in August, compared with 14 in the preceding month. Thus far in 1943 traffic deaths have totaled 211. In 1942, the toll on Sept. 7 stood at 330.

Injuries Show Big Drop.

The total of accidents and the number of persons injured also have declined, Kells said. Since Jan. 1 there have been 7,939 accidents in Chicago, 3,589 fewer than a year ago. The injured numbered 9,645, compared with 14,129.

Lewis E. Russell, traffic technician employed by the committee, said his survey showed that 18 of the 28 persons killed in August were pedestrians struck when crossing in midblock. A penalty for pedestrians who failed to cross at intersections was suggested but was dropped without much debate.

Opposes Painting Curbs.

Leslie Sorenson, city traffic engineer, said that painting curbs in nonparking zones probably would be a waste of time and money, because available paint, for all except critical work, will not stand up. The committee felt that enforcement of the rule of not parking within 25 feet of an intersection would reduce midblock crossing accidents.

Park district police were directed to list boulevard traffic control lights near schools which have been turned off to save tires and gas by eliminating stops. Parents and teachers have complained of an increase in hazards to children who have been taught to cross with the signals.

TWO DENY AIDING M. B. FLYNN TO CONCEAL ASSETS

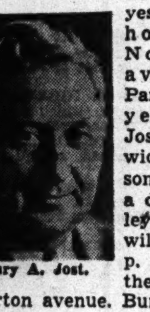
Frank De Young, operator of a coal company at 9019 Halsted street, and Charles J. Tressler, a lawyer living at 4756 Drexel boulevard, pleaded not guilty yesterday before Federal Judge Thomas W. Slick in South Bend, Ind., to charges of concealing assets in the bankruptcy case of Mortimer B. Flynn, former millionaire coal dealer.

Flynn, who was a candidate for mayor in the 1935 Republican primary, now lives in Knox, Ind. He is accused of concealing $70,000 in assets. His co-defendants are charged with concealing trust receipts given to them by Flynn as collateral for debts. Tressler said Flynn owed him $25,540.

In court yesterday Tressler and De Young waived a jury trial, but the government refused to consent to this. It is expected that they will go on trial with Flynn before a jury next month.

HENRY A. JOST, MANUFACTURER, IS DEAD AT 52

Henry A. Jost, vice president of International Cellucotton Products company, died yesterday in his home at 1226 North Edmer avenue, Oak Park. He was 52 years old. Mr. Jost leaves his widow, Meta, a son, Arthur, and a daughter, Shirley Mae. Services will be held at 2 p. m. Monday in the chapel at 3655 Fullerton avenue. Burial will be in Irving Park cemetery.



Henry A. Jost.

Boy on Bicycle Is Injured When Hit by Automobile

Clarence Rockstead, 9 years old, 7408 Addison street, suffered a possible fractured skull and a broken left leg when struck by an automobile as he rode his bicycle at Forest Preserve drive near Addison street yesterday. The driver, Herbert Moeller, 23, a carpenter, 4241 North Melvina avenue, told Irving Park police the boy rode in front of his car. The boy's identity was not established for several hours after he had been taken in an unconscious condition to Oak Park hospital.

'Fur' Sammons Granted Hearing on Freedom Plea

Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday set Sept. 24 for a hearing of a petition for a writ of habeas corpus on behalf of James [Fur] Sammons, 62 years old, now serving a life sentence in Stateville penitentiary for a 1903 murder and a one year to life sentence for armed robbery in the same year.

Charge Against Woman Swimmer Is Dismissed

A charge of disorderly conduct against Mrs. Marguerite Pelzman, 26 years old, 8114 Vincennes avenue, preferred by a policeman in a motorboat who said she disregarded his warning on Aug. 7 not to swim too far from shore at 53d street, was dismissed yesterday in Women's court by Judge Frank E. Donoghue.

OBITUARIES

Sidney Y. Ball.

Sidney Y. Ball, 63 years old, general time inspector of the Ball Railroad Time service and president of the Ball company, 58 East Washington street, died yesterday in his home, 25 Fox lane, Winnetka. Mr. Ball, who was born in Cleveland, O., was educated at Western Reserve university and Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He is survived by his widow, Clare, a son, Webb C. II., and two daughters, Mrs. Paisley Butler and Mrs. Adalaide Kirby. Services will be held in the home at 4 p. m. Monday.

Benjamin A. Wechsler

Services for Flight Officer Benjamin A. Wechsler, who was killed Tuesday in an airplane crash near Kissimmee, Fla., will be held at 2 p. m. Monday in the chapel at 3606 Roosevelt road. Flight Officer Wechsler, who was 24 years old, enlisted two years ago in the army air forces. He is survived by his wife, Sylvia; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wechsler, 1617 South Sawyer avenue, and a brother, William, a musician in the navy.

Monte H. Sadler.

Monte H. Sadler, who was affiliated with the legal firm of A. Louis Flynn & Co., died yesterday in his home, 5555 Everett avenue. He was 59 years old. Mr. Sadler was a member of the American, Illinois and Chicago Bar associations. He was a former president of the Young Men's Jewish council. Surviving is the widow, Mrs. Helen Rosenthal Sadler.

Mrs. Mae Comstock.

Services for Mrs. Mae Comstock, 42 years old, wife of Lawrence Comstock, advertising manager of the Waukegan News-Sun, will be held at 9 a. m. Monday in Immaculate Conception Catholic church. Mrs. Comstock, who had been ill several years, died Thursday night in her home, 230 South West street. She also is survived by a daughter, Janet, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Fendick of Waukegan.

Thomas G. Wheeler.

Thomas G. Wheeler, general manager of the Chicago office of the F. & S. Transit company, 3333 Iron street, died of a heart attack in his home at 6324 North Artesian avenue last night. He was 49 years old. Inhalator Squad 4, under Lt. William Lambrech, worked in vain to revive him. Mr. Wheeler's widow, Genevieve, and two sons survive.

Charles M. Andrews.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 10 (AP).—Charles McLean Andrews, 80 years old, Farnam professor emeritus of American history at Yale university, died last night in a hospital. He joined the Yale faculty in 1910 and retired in 1931.

TWO EXECUTIVES TO HEAD Y.W.C.A. CLUB FOR GIRLS

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 10 [Special].—Miss Alice Bartlett, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A. here, today announced the appointment of two new executives to head the Y. W. C. A. club department for girls in business, industry, the professions, and the home.

Mrs. Charles Juneau, former director of the club department of the Y. W. C. A., will again assume those duties when the club season opens next week. Formerly Dorothy Hoth, Mrs. Juneau resigned her position when she married Lt. Juneau, now overseas.

Mrs. Richard Bell, a staff member at the Y. W. C. A. Playhouse before her marriage to Pvt. Bell of the army, will be Mrs. Juneau's assistant. The club program will feature regular dances and parties for service men. The various clubs will alternate in planning the affairs, but all club members will be eligible to attend, Miss Bartlett said.

44 Degrees Record Low for Chicago on Sept. 10

A 44 degree temperature at 7 o'clock yesterday morning broke all weather bureau records for the day and the season, it was announced by Forecaster H. S. Kenny. The temperature was the lowest recorded so early in the season since the bureau started compiling records in 1871. The previous low for the season was the 46 degrees recorded on Sept. 8, 1883. Kenny predicted continued cool weather early today.

Chicago Flight Officer Dies in Kentucky Crash

INCREASED FOOT TROUBLE IS BIG WAR PROBLEM

Foot trouble, which was serious even in peace time, has now become an important war problem both in industry and in the army and navy, Dr. Emil D. W. Hauser, assistant professor of bone and joint surgery in Northwestern university medical school, said yesterday, during the third day of sessions of the 22d annual convention of the American Congress of Physical Therapy in the Palmer House.

Many people in industry are doing unaccustomed work and standing long hours on hard surfaces, he pointed out. In the army, feet which have been used to carrying only the weight of their owner are now asked to carry the burden of a full pack and gun as well.

Much of yesterday's session was devoted to a symposium on the rehabilitation of injured service men. The use of a convalescent ward, in which every effort is made to give the soldier the benefit of a warm, friendly atmosphere and to reaccustom him as quickly as possible to useful and satisfaction producing work, was described by Maj. Ora L. Huddleston of the army medical corps. Such a ward has been established at Fitzsimmons General hospital, Denver, where convalescent men are encouraged to work, play games, and enroll for educational courses as far as their degree of recovery permits.

REPORT 27 MORE POLIO CASES IN CITY, 3 IN COUNTY

Altho the polio outbreak is believed waning, figures for the 24 hour period ending yesterday morning showed 27 new cases, an increase of 10 over the 17 reported in the preceding 24 hours. In the same period there was one more fatality, a boy 7 years old who lived in the 2800 block on Lexington street.

Twelve boys and 15 girls are the new victims, bringing the total number of cases in the current outbreak to 557 in Chicago, Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the Chicago board of health, reported. The death toll is 56.

Dr. Edward A. Piszczek, county health officer, reported three new cases in the county outside Chicago—one each in Brookfield, Oak Park, and Evanston, for a new total of 147 in the area and a grand total of 704 cases in the city and county. No deaths have occurred in the county outside Chicago since Sunday, when the total was 14.

20 MILWAUKEE SOCIAL CENTERS TO OPEN SOON

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 10 [Special].—Twenty social centers thruout the city will be opened the latter part of September, Miss Dorothy Enderis, director of municipal recreation and adult education, reported today. Dancing, dramatics, music, club programs, and after school programs for children will be started this month and indoor sports and games late in October.

Practical courses will be a principal part of the program, with classes in sewing and dressmaking, applied arts, knitting, crocheting, and woodworking. Other proposed activities include interior decorating, needlecraft, photography, and sketching instructions.

Also included in the fall and winter recreation and adult education program will be classes in the preparation for citizenship, which involves courses in beginners', intermediate, and advanced English, preparation for naturalization papers, and courses in history and literature. Morning and afternoon classes have been scheduled to accommodate swing shift workers.

Buckingham Fountain's Night Hours Are Shifted

The Chicago park district announced yesterday that beginning last night Buckingham fountain in Grant park will be turned on from 8 to 8:30 o'clock, an hour ahead of the previous schedule, continuing thru Sept. 30.

CAPABLE MEN TERMED KEY TO FAIR REPRICING

Law Gets Support of Review Chief.

BY CHARLES GOTTHART.

Carman G. Blough.

Chicago area business men, many of them critical of government contract renegotiation procedure, were told in effect yesterday that their best assurance of a fair deal on allowable profit lay in prudent administration of the law and discretion of the administrators.

"Renegotiation can be made an impossible and unworkable job by poor administration," Carman G. Blough, chief of the contract review branch of the war production board in Washington, D. C., asserted at a meeting of 500 Chicago Association of Commerce members in the Palmer House.

"We believe it can be made an effective, fair procedure if it is administered by men who know the problems of business, who are capable of making business judgments, and who approach the matter on a fair basis."

Jolts "After Taxes" Theory.

Taking up the principal points of complaint against operation of renegotiation, he said the determination of allowable profits after taxes, rather than before taxes, "is inconsistent with the theory of renegotiation."

"Contract revision is a method of fixing prices to be paid by the government,' he said. "Renegotiation after taxes is a factor wholly aside from this. A company with a high excess profits tax basis [for the pre-war years] would have to pay much more than a corporation unfavorably situated. Waiting to clear up all the complexities of taxation would delay contract renegotiation indefinitely."

Blough answered the suggestion that companies operating under government ceiling prices should be exempt from renegotiation with the statement:

"Some of the companies in the most beautiful position to reap excessive profits are operating under price ceilings. Their profits mount as their volume mounts."

Contract renegotiation is necessary to eliminate the excess profits not absorbed in higher taxes, because mounting taxes destroy the incentive to economize thru cutting production costs, he said.

"Renegotiation offers a premium for efficiency, and no tax law ever has been able to do this," Blough remarked.

Discusses Reserve Failure.

On the law's failure to provide for contractors' post-war reserves, a point of further criticism, he said the boards were not in position to evaluate post-war business risks.

"Companies that have been renegotiated seldom have needed postwar reserves," he added. "Many without government contracts have ceased to exist."

After Blough's formal address, contractors attending the meeting asked a number of questions, which disclosed their continued dissatisfaction with renegotiation procedure.

Atty. Fletcher Lewis, representing a group of Chicago area business men holding government contracts, complained that one of his clients was permitted to retain only two-thirds of his pre-war profit margin, and that another company with an "exceptionally low" prewar profit ratio was not permitted even a moderate increase despite mounting production costs.

"Company executives too often are forced to deal with the young and inexperienced of the price board personnel, not being permitted to contact with the top officials," Lewis said. "The benefit of extensive preliminary negotiations often is nullified when we go before a board only to find that its personnel turnover necessitates starting all over again with a new official."

Blough said that determining factors in allowable profits included the contractor's efficiency, his contribution to success of the war program, his business risks in handling government orders, and the complexity of his operations.

War, Defense Profits Placed at 24 Billions

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—Randolph Paul, treasury general counsel, today estimated the three year war time and defense era profits of American corporations at 24 billion 200 million dollars after payment of taxes.

He and Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce, appeared before the house ways and means committee and jointly opposed revision of the war contracts renegotiation law so as to allow industries specified profits after tax payments. The price adjustment statute is not the place to provide industry with reserves for post-war reconversion and peace time production, they said.

Nearly 12 Billion Held.

Paul estimated American corporations still would hold 11 billion 600 million in cash or added investments after paying 12 billion 600 million in dividends on 1941, 1942, and 1943 profits on both government and private business. These figures were given during a discussion of industry's post-war "cushion," at the committee's public hearings on proposals for revision or repeal of the renegotiation law.

In an answer to Rep. Wesley E. Disney [D., Okla.] he estimated that stockholders would pay about 4 billion in taxes on the dividends they received in the three year period. To an inquiry by Rep. Harold Knutson [R., Minn.], Jones said taxes should not be considered a part of production costs, and that if contracts were renegotiated on that basis "the government, in effect, would be paying the taxes of these industries."

Urges Minimum Guarantee.

Jones testified that he believes the law should provide for renegotiation to guarantee minimum profits for efficient war production, as well as to recover "excessive profits." He said it was "much too early" to consider means of setting up special reserves for industry reconversion, and expressed the view that "reserves for conversion should come out of profits after taxes," with such reserves "as reasonable as the taxing authorities will allow."

The navy department recommended that contractors doing less than $500,000 of war business annually be exempt from renegotiation, but opposed proposals that price adjustments be made after taxes and in a manner to allow reserves for post-war reconversion and peace time production.

OPA STUDYING A 20 PCT. CUT IN VITAMIN PRICES

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—The OPA is considering an order to cut retail prices of packaged vitamins about one-fifth, against the objections of business that this would be an improper attempt at controlling profits. Joseph Coppack, head of OPA's chemicals and drug branch, is out of town, but one of his office staff said that a study of the proposed cut shows that the cost of raw materials has gone down approximately 75 per cent since 1939, while average retail prices have dropped but 5 per cent.

Recently the OPA called in industry representatives and recommended that they voluntarily reduce prices by 20 per cent. Disclosure that a mandatory cut order is contemplated came after Fred J. Griffiths, secretary of the National Association of Chain Drug Stores, said in New York that the move would amount to an attempt at "profit control" by the OPA. He contends OPA has legal authority only to restrict price increases.

COUNTY TO VOTE 10 MILLION BOND ISSUE MONDAY

The Cook county board will meet Monday to adopt an ordinance authorizing the sale of 10 million dollars of bonds, the proceeds to be used in the payment of debts contracted before Dec. 1, 1942.

County officials said yesterday the exact amount of the overdue bills and judgments would be ready for Monday and would approximate 10 millions.

WPB APPROVES TRUCK OUTPUT BOOST IN 1944

More Aid to Civilian Life Expected.

BY LAURENCE BURD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10.—The war production board today approved a program for increased production of trucks and trailers next year in a move to grant some relief to overburdened transportation facilities.

Production of at least 33,852 trucks and 14,067 trailers in 1944 was authorized, and officials of the WPB automotive division said additional output may be approved later if sufficient materials and facilities were found to be available. The truck authorizations included 22,859 medium and 10,993 heavy vehicles.

Altho the initial output approved by WPB was much less than that requested by the office of defense transportation, said ODT officials, it was far larger than the permitted truck output at any time since Pearl Harbor.

Production Ended in 1942.

A WPB order stopped truck production in 1942, and only 3,000 trucks have been produced so far this year, with an additional 7,500 output by Dec. 31 authorized. These figures contrast with a normal peace time replacement which ODT officials estimated at 450,000 commercial vehicles a year.

Authority from WPB to boost truck output next year was regarded as the forerunner of similar moves in other essential industries, where the wearing out of equipment has placed a serious strain on the civilian economy. WPB recently announced plans to permit expanded output of railroad locomotives and freight cars next year.

The trucking problem is regarded as one of the most acute on the home front because of the relatively short life of commercial vehicles and the difficulty of obtaining replacement parts.

Stocks to Be Gone by July 1.

WPB recently estimated that, if no new trucks were produced, the current stock pile of commercial vehicles, which are being parceled out thru rationing, would be exhausted on or before next July 1, and ODT officials have warned that used trucks may have to be rationed to meet essential transportation needs.

When truck rationing began early in 1942 only 185,188 trucks were in the rationing pool. Approximately 125,000 of these have been withdrawn, according to WPB, leaving only about 60,000. Some of those remaining are being held for the army and navy, however, leaving fewer than 50,000 for civilian uses.

MAN POWER SOUGHT

A labor-industry committee in the trucking industry yesterday held a meeting in the office of defense transportation headquarters, 209 South La Salle street, to enlist the coöperation of the unions in bringing about the transfer of seasonal workers to motor transport operations. A serious man power shortage was said to be impairing truck operation.

Frank T. Corcoran, district director of the ODT motor truck division, presided. The unions were asked to help bring about the transfer of men employed on the delivery of ice cream, in construction, and in other seasonal work to highway operation. Bernard Cushman of Cushman Motor Delivery company is chairman of the committee.

The for hire truck carriers advisory committee met in the ODT headquarters to develop a joint action program directed at conserving mileage thru joint use of trucks and man power. Phil A. Smith of the Smith Cartage company is chairman of the committee.

Peace Stocks Reach New Peaks

New York, Sept. 10 (AP).—A number of peace issues were able to edge into new high ground for the year or longer in today's mixed stock market. The war news from Italy became confusing, and many customers stood aside to await clarification of conflicting bulletins from allied and Nazi sources.

Victory minded buyers were plentiful, however, and served to keep the market fairly balanced. Trading had to compete with the big government bond drive and profit taking offerings by those who wished to have a clean slate over the weekend.

Some Arms Issues Improve.

Gold mines, department stores, rubbers, and rail specialties were among the stronger issues, but armament groups were never especially distressed and, here and there, a few managed to improve modestly. Steels and coppers were backward from the start and, altho advances running to 2 points or so were well distributed at the close, declines were plentiful.

The Associated Press 60 stock average was up 0.1 at 50. Of 814 individual issues traded, 372 were up, 235 declined, and 207 were unchanged. Transfers of 760,190 shares compared with 1,092,100 yesterday, which had the largest volume since Aug. 3.

Civilian Goods Assured.

Merchandising issues were aided by forecasts of exceptionally good Christmas shopping for the armed forces and a directive by the war production board to manufacturers assuring civilians of a comfortable share of 30 types of goods.

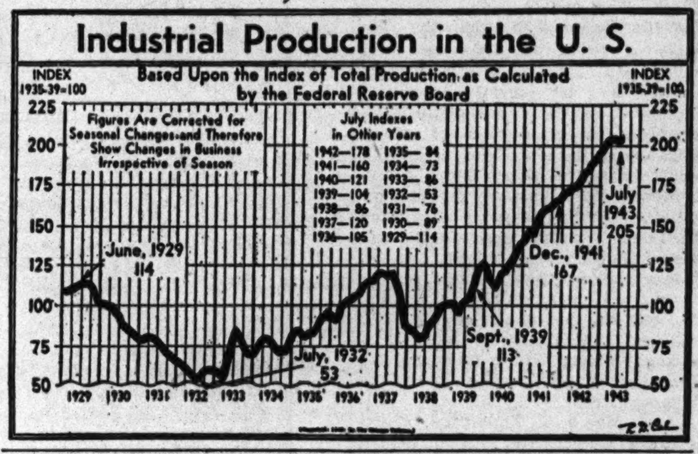
Among stocks at peaks for 1943 were Homestake Mining, Sears Roebuck, Goodrich, Allied Stores, Spiegel, Gimbel, and Kaufman. Both Alleghany preferreds jumped 2⅝ points each, and Chesapeake & Ohio was up 1½. Others given a lift included Marshall Field, Associated Dry Goods, International Paper, Chrysler, Southern Pacific, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, Pennsylvania Coal, Dome Mines, and Standard Oil [N. J.].

BOND TRADING LISTLESS.

New York, Sept. 10 (AP).—The bond market drifted today as the investment machinery concentrated again upon the third war loan drive. Minor advances and declines left most domestic corporate loans about at yesterday's levels. A few foreign issues attracted late support. There was a complete lack of activity in government bonds on the stock exchange.

CHICAGO STOCKS GAIN.

Prices were higher yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange on a turnover of 27,000 shares. Of the 97 issues traded, 41 advanced, 30 declined, and 26 closed unchanged. Middle West corporation, the volume leader, closed ⅛ higher, Mickelberry's Food Products was down ⅛, Chicago corporation up ⅝, and Butler Brothers up ¼.



Coal Experts Dispute Ickes' Dire Forecast

Despite the expected need for supplying Italy with coal, the United States should be able to fill its coal requirements during the coming season without too much difficulty, altho admittedly there will be areas in which some shortage will exist. This opinion was expressed yesterday by several leading Chicago coal authorities who disagreed with the predictions of a dire situation made by Fuel Administrator Harold L. Ickes.

The authorities based their opinion on the preent rate of production, the size of the national stock pile, and the fact that a large proportion of Americans heeded advice to "stock up early" and are now in a good position.

"On the basis of a wide survey which we have just completed, I would say that well over 50 per cent of home coal requirements have been filled," said A. J. Chouinard, Chicago area general sales manager of the Island Creek Coal Sales company.

Home Owners Buy Heavily.

"With all the talk of strikes in the coal fields last spring, home owners became forehanded and bought heavily. Deliveries were especially large in March, and retail deliveries from April 1 to Aug. 31 ran above a year ago, in some sections as much as 50 per cent.

"The national stockpile, including coal held by utilities, steel companies, and others, totaled 73,763,000 tons. Of this, 5,644,000 tons were in the hands of retailers. Coal consumption in July was 43,837,000 tons, 2½ per cent more than in June. This indicates that we have a good cushion in the stock pile and if production continues without interruption we shall get by."

Chouinard said that if coal were sent to Italy and other European nations it would be taken largely from the Appalachian fields of Virginia, West Virginia, and eastern Kentucky. This, however, would increase the demand on the middle western mines of Illinois and Indiana to fill the domestic gap. Italy was reported to be using about 15 million tons annually. Even if the United States had to supply the major part of this amount the drain should not be too heavy, it was said.

"May Have Tight Squeeze."

Will J. O'Brien, vice president of the Sterling-Midland Coal company, said the United States should get by if there were no further coal mining interruptions, if transportation remained as satisfactory as in the past, and if the weather was not abnormally cold.

Otherwise, there may be a tight squeeze, he said.

Meantime, some railroads were having difficulty in getting coal from their usual sources. Because of shipments of large amounts of coal to Canada, Illinois, and Indiana mine operators have made up pools to supply railroads which formerly got their coal from Appalachian areas. Most of the coal being shipped north to Canada from this area is in the nature of a trade under which Canada supplies coal to Washington and Oregon.

Coal in substantial amounts is being shipped by boat from the Calumet region, in South Chicago, near 100th street, to Canadian ports. The Southern Coal company has been shipping some 125 carloads daily to the Canadian Pacific railway.

GRAINS CLIMB, BUT LOSE MUCH OF EARLY GAINS

Grain prices were higher in early trading yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade, with September and December oats advancing about ¾ cent a bushel. Part of the gains were lost later, however. Cash oats sold at 81 cents, a new 23 year peak, before profit taking caused a reaction. Closing prices of wheat were ¼ cent higher to ¼ cent lower. Oats finished ¼ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower and rye was ⅛ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower.

Offerings of oats again were light, and some points in the middle west have asked for shipments of grain from Chicago.

Operations in rye were on a smaller scale and the market followed other grains to a large extent.

UNITED AIRLINES ASKS PERMIT TO ESTABLISH NEW ROUTE TO EAST

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—United Airlines announced today it had filed application with the civil aeronautics board for authority to operate a new air mail-passenger-express route from Chicago to Detroit and Newark-New York, by way of a number of intermediate points.

The proposed route would connect at Chicago with the line's existing services westward, and would be in addition to its present line from Chicago to Cleveland and New York.

The application proposed two operations—one providing stop flights from Chicago to Detroit and from Detroit to Newark-New York; the other, for nonstop flights from Chicago to Detroit and for flights eastward from there via Erie, Williamsport, Scranton, Wilkes-Barre, Allentown, and Philadelphia to Newark-New York.

Elapsed time for the one stop service between Chicago and New York would be approximately 4¾ hours.

Report Vinson Will Refuse to Hike Oil Price

BY ORVILLE DWYER.

Chicago petroleum men heard yesterday that Stabilization Director Fred. M. Vinson will refuse to advance the price of crude oil 35 cents a barrel before congress again convenes next Tuesday. The rise was requested by Petroleum Administrator Harold L. Ickes and the oil industry. If this report is true production will continue to be throttled, they said.

Ickes requested the price increase last April 7 and was refused twice by Price Administrator Prentiss Brown. The petroleum administrator then appeared in Chicago before a congressional committee and agreed he would appeal Brown's refusal to Vinson.

Early Decision Promised.

Vinson, after several delays, has promised a decision before congress reconvenes and local oil men said they understood his report will be "unfavorable."

Behind the whole national oil scene—the refusal during two years by OPA to lift the ceiling price of crude, averaging $1.17 a barrel for the country and frozen in 1941, two months before Pearl Harbor—there lies, according to State Sen. Earle B. Searcy [R., Springfield], a Washington burocratic-big business intrigue to choke crude oil production in this country so certain interests could import oil from South America and the near east.

Shortage Plan Reported.

Searcy said he was told the plan was to create such a serious war shortage in domestic crude that demands for tankers to bring the oil from South America and across the Pacific would be heeded. The companies owning the foreign oil could bring it here under bond, thus avoiding the 21 cents a barrel import duty, if they certified it would be refined only in this country and then exported, it was said.

"That part of it was easy, I am told," said Searcy. "All the big companies are exporting so much for the war anyway that once the oil is here they need only send the equivalent abroad again and whether it was refined from domestic oil or from foreign oil makes no difference. There is a difference, however. There is little aviation gasoline in the South American crude."

Curtiss Candy Permitted to Rescind Registration

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 10 (AP).—The securities and exchange commission today permitted the Curtis Candy company, Chicago, to withdraw its amended registration statement filed Dec. 30, 1942, under the securities act of 1925. At the same time the commission discontinued stop order proceedings against the company. The statement registered 3 million dollars cumulative participating preferred stock, $100 par value.

DROUTH CAUSES DECLINE IN 1943 CROP ESTIMATE

Bumper Corn Yield Is Expected.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—Drouths in several widely scattered sections caused this year's crop prospects to decline about 1 per cent in August, the department of agriculture said today in a report which forecast, however, a bumper output of corn and record yields of vegetable oil crops, dry beans, peas, potatoes, rice, and grapes.

Conditions prevailing on Sept. 1 indicated that the total crop production would be 7 per cent less than last year but higher than in any other year, the report said. A prospective record production of meats, dairy and poultry products however, would result in a total food output of nearly 5 per cent above last year's record, the department asserted.

Makes Big Improvement.

The vital corn crop—the war material for war essential meat, dairy and poultry products—showed a marked improvement during August despite unfavorable growing conditions in some parts of the corn belt. The department estimated production at 2,989,267,000 bushels, 111 million bushels more than a month ago. Altho smaller than last year's record harvest of 3,175,154,000 bushels, the indicated crop would be the second largest since 1921.

The department emphasized, however, that because much of the corn was planted late it would need good maturing weather and a late killing frost to prevent a sizable tonnage of low quality corn.

The department reported that drouth conditions damaged crops in a large, irregular area extending from southern New England to central North Carolina, from northern Georgia to central New Mexico, from central Illinois to southwestern Mississippi and from central South Dakota to the Rio Grande river.

Rains Far Below Normal.

In the two most adversely affected areas, one covering most of Arkansas and eastern Oklahoma and the other centering in Maryland and extending into surrounding states, the summer rainfall was less than half of normal.

Large crops of hay, oats, barley, and grain sorghums, and about average crops of wheat, rye, cotton, tobacco, sweet potatoes, and sugar cane and sugar beets were indicated. Compared with a month ago, production prospects for grain sorghums declined 18 per cent, sweet potatoes, 12, cotton and peanuts 6 to 7 per cent, and oats, barley, hay, sugar cane and tobacco, 2 to 4 per cent. Wheat production was indicated at 834,957,000 bushels, practically the same as a month ago. This is 15 per cent less than last year's crop but 13 per cent above the 10 year average.

Fruit Slump Predicted.

The aggregate production of major deciduous fruits—apples, peaches, pears, grapes, cherries, plums, prunes, and apricots—was indicated at 16 per cent below 1942 and 11 per cent below the 10 year average. The apple crop is expected to be 28 per cent smaller than last year. The department said the total tonnage of all citrus fruits from this year's bloom should about equal the large 1942 crop.

The combined production of all commercial truck crops for the fresh market this year was indicated at about 9 per cent less than last year, the department said. The production of vegetable crops for processing was said to be running about 6 per cent below last year.

U. S. Steel Subsidiaries' Shipments Rise in August

New York, Sept. 10 (AP).—Shipments of finished steel products by subsidiaries of the United States Steel corporation in August amounted to 1,704,289 net tons compared with 1,660,762 in July and 1,788,650 net tons in August, 1942.

Hog Market Up; Packers Top 'Ceiling'

One of the broadest price advances of the year swept the Chicago stock yards hog market yesterday when some of the packers paid above $14.75 a hundred pounds. Gains of 15 to 35 cents were general in all classes, with some of the lightest stock, below 180 pounds, as much as 40 to 50 cents higher.

The top rose 25 cents, to $15.25, equaling the highest sale since the middle of April. The average rose 30 cents, to $14.70, the highest since May 3. All "lard hogs" shared the full strength of the general advance.

Small Firms Break Line.

Spokesmen for one large packer who refused to restrict his bids to the $14.75 price which principal buyers have regarded as an "unofficial" ceiling for several weeks, explained that because many of the smaller firms had disregarded the price line the larger packers had suffered a volume cut. Some packer buyers paid up to $15, which was 25 cents below the top, but also 25 cents more than they have paid in several weeks.

Part of the decrease in Chicago hog receipts this week was attributed to the attempt packers made to hold the price line at $14.75. Only 61,600 head arrived the first five days of the week, including Monday holiday shipments.

Steady to strong prices were paid for most steers, yearlings, heifers, beef cows, canners, cutters, and bulls. Calves were weaker.

Lambs dipped 15 to 25 cents, with the best natives available at $13.85.

The war food administration yesterday ordered that 80 per cent of the heifer and steer beef being set aside by federally inspected slaughterers be in the form of frozen, boneless beef, available for shipment overseas.

PRICE POLICY ASSAILED

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—The National Independent Meat Packers association called upon the war meat board today for prompt revision of a "grotesquely unfair price policy" for both packers and producers. Asserting that it represents about 600 members, the association declared the government's policy of fixing prices on beef products but not on beef cattle has produced a price squeeze causing a loss of $10 to $30 on every steer slaughtered.

"There is plenty of beef available," George L. Hall Jr., St. Louis, association president, said, "but the public cannot get it because the government is blocking the channels of distribution by a grotesquely unfair price policy."

CONSIDER USE OF PRISONERS AS PULP WORKERS

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—Use of Italian prisoners in the Canadian wood pulp industry to increase the supply of newsprint is under consideration by United States and Canadian officials, it was learned today. Monteach Douglas, Washington representative of the dominion government on newsprint matters, said Canada wishes to obtain a "considerable number" of prisoners for work in the woods.

From WPB sources came word that the proposal was discussed by the newspaper industry advisory committee and WPB officials at a recent meeting here, and it was understood that WPB authorities have made a request to the war department for the transfer of prisoners to Canada. Douglas said a few prisoners have been employed in pulpwood cutting, but not on a large scale.

People and Events

Post-war planning will be discussed by John H. Van Deventer, president and editor of Iron Age, at a dinner of the Chicago Industrial Advertisers' association Monday in the La Salle hotel. Van Deventer, an engineering graduate of Cornell university, formerly edited the American Machinist.

Edward A. Grossfeld will become connected with the Kalom company, Chicago advertising agency, Sept. 15, as vice president and account executive. Grossfeld formerly was advertising manager of the Baskin Clothing company and assistant advertising manager of Hart Schaffner and Marx. Grossfeld is vice president of the Chicago Federated Advertising club and past president of the Advertising Managers' club.

Representatives of middle west packing companies, state railroad and commerce commissions, and chambers of commerce who object to present freight rates on fresh meats and packing house products to the west coast met yesterday in the Hotel Sherman to perfect plans for presentation of their case before the interstate commerce commission Oct. 12 in Denver, Colo.

FIRST NATIONAL VOTES SPECIAL STOCK DIVIDEND

Disposes of Control of Uptown Bank.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Edward E. Brown announces dividends.

Directors of the First National Bank of Chicago yesterday voted to distribute a special dividend to shareholders payable in stock of the Uptown National bank. The payment, to be made Oct. 1, is the equivalent of a cash payment of $1.60 a share on the First National stock. In addition to the special distribution First National directors also authorized payment Oct. 1 of the regular quarterly cash dividend of $2.50 and an extra of 50 cents. Similar cash dividends were paid April 1 and July 1 this year.

As a result of the action First National will divest itself of its controling interest in Uptown National. It owns 11,800 of the 12,000 shares of Uptown that are outstanding. The stock was acquired in 1929 by the First-Chicago corporation, a First National affiliate that was liquidated last December.

Part to Be Paid in Cash.

Only holders of 25 shares or more of First National will get the special dividend in stock. Others will be paid in cash at the rate of $1.60 for each share held. The cash payment was decided upon because of the impracticability of issuing fractional shares of Uptown. The owner of 25 shares of First will get 1 share of Uptown, at the rate of 1/25 share of Uptown for each share owned.

The special dividend as well as the cash distributions will be paid to stockholders of record Sept. 28.

To carry out the stock distribution First National has entered into a special arrangement with A. G. Becker & Co. Uptown stock that cannot be distributed to holders of less than 25 shares of First National will be sold to Becker at $40 a share. The proceeds of this sale, together with an additional $8,000, will be used to make cash distributions where the stock cannot be paid out.

Uptown Plans Dividends.

Becker, in turn, has agreed to resell the Uptown stock at $40 a share to First National holders who were entitled to get a fraction of a share of Uptown. Such First National holders must make application to purchase the Uptown shares within 30 days from Oct. 1 and each will be limited in his purchase to 1 share of Uptown.

In announcing the action of directors, Edward E. Brown, president of First National, said that Uptown National expected to begin paying dividends at the annual rate of $2 a share next January, with a semiannual payment of $1 at that time. No dividends have been paid since reorganization of the bank in 1929.

Uptown National, at Broadway and Lawrence avenue, serves a large north side area. On Aug. 31 it had a capital of $300,000, surplus of $300,000, and undivided profits of $83,902.

When First National acquired direct ownership of the Uptown stock last year it was done with an understanding with the controler of currency that the stock would be disposed of within a year. Uptown is the only outlying bank in which First National owned control. Minority interests are held in other outlying banks.

TREASURY READY TO SUBMIT TAX PLANS TO HOUSE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 10 (AP).—The treasury department informed the house ways and means committee today it would be ready to present the administration's tax program on Sept. 20, the day the committee opens hearings on a new general revenue law.

This development materially increased the possibility that congress can complete action on the new law this year carrying tax rates above the present record levies.

Randolph Paul, treasury general counsel, declined to disclose what new and revised taxes he will propose.

PREPARE TO FILL POST-WAR JOBS, HOFFMAN WARNS

Calls Production Remedy for Unemployment.

Chicago may become a ghost city, relatively speaking, unless it buckles down to provide post-war employment at a much higher level than existed in 1940, Paul G. Hoffman, president of the Studebaker corporation and chairman of the private committee for economic development, warned last night.

Private jobs are the only solution to the problem, Hoffman said at a dinner opening the annual meeting of the International City Managers association in the Edgewater Beach hotel.

Go to Washington for the solution and the result will be a loss by Americans of their freedom to the burocrats, he warned.

Tells Increase in Jobs.

"Employment in 1940 absorbed about 46 million persons," he said. "By the end of 1943, it will be between 61 and 63 millions, including those in the army and navy. After the war the employment level must be maintained at between 55 and 59 millions.

"That includes 2 millions who will have to remain in the army and navy," he predicted. "How many can be employed in useful public works? Only about 600,000 for federal and 2½ million for state and local—a total of about 3 million."

Higher living standards are the real goal, he said, so that proposals of a 20 or 30 hour week are "a blind alley."

Must Improve First.

"You can't shorten hours any more rapidly than you improve technology," Hoffman said. "There is no substitute for production if you want to increase the standard of living."

He recalled the opposition in recent years to steam shovels for road work. In some communities it was demanded that hand shovels be used. "Then why not teaspoons or even toothpicks?" he asked, branding that approach ridiculous.

Hundreds of employers already are realistically planning their post-war job programs, he said, but there are 2 million employers of one or more persons. All should start now to develop post-war products and markets, he said.

Calls It Local Problem.

"This task cannot be done on the national level," he said. "It can be solved only at the local level—by breaking it up into little pieces. The question of whether a city like Chicago becomes a ghost city depends upon how well it organizes to do this job."

But the economic climate must be favorable to expansion, he said. Government, business, and labor must change any policies that interfere with efficient production, he said, because these grew out of the economy of scarcity.

Mayor Wilson W. Wyatt of Louisville, Ky., president of the American Society of Planning Officials, told the assemblage that post-war planning should have a more constructive object than a new WPA.

Most city plans have been weakened by lack of sufficient public support, he said.

SUSPEND SCHOOL TO LET TEACHER HUNT FOR MAID

The one room school in Will county district No. 181, where 15 children found themselves locked out Wednesday morning when they reported for their first day of classes, remained closed yesterday while their teacher, Mrs. Mary Skaggs, continued to look for a new maid.

Mrs. Skaggs, who lives at 220 Comstock street in Joliet, is the mother of four children. Her maid left her suddenly last Saturday, Mrs. Skaggs said yesterday, and she has notified the school trustees of district 181 that she cannot return to teaching until she finds another.

The trustees, who have no substitute teacher, are trying to assist Mrs. Skaggs in finding new domestic help. The school is two miles southeast of the village of Beecher, in eastern Will county.

VICTIM TO HELP ACCUSED THIEF ENLIST IN WAR

The case of John Kohnke Jr., 17 years old, 3506 Diversey parkway, charged with tampering with an automobile, was continued to Sept. 17 yesterday in Auto court by Judge William V. Daly, after Joseph B. Tartak, the complainant, offered to pay Kohnke's dental bills so he can enlist in the army or navy.

Kohnke was arrested Aug. 29 after he and several juvenile companions had taken Tartak's automobile. When it was returned to Tartak, who lives at 4450 Magnolia avenue, approximately $80 of damages allegedly had been caused to the vehicle.

Kohnke said he had tried to enlist in the army and navy but had been refused because of faulty teeth. Warden Frank G. Sain of County jail said the jail's dentists will supply dental skill.

Lawyer Gets Continuance in $35,000 Larceny Case

Joseph T. Neilson, 37 years old, New York attorney, who was seized yesterday in his rooms at 2207 East 70th place on a New York fugitive warrant charging him with larceny of $35,000, was yesterday granted a continuance to Sept. 30 by Judge William V. Daly in Felony court. The continuance was granted at the request of Neilson's attorney, James M. Burke, on the ground that it would take three weeks or more for extradition efforts on the part of New York state to materialize. Neilson is at liberty on a $10,000 bond.

Bus Meets Light Pole; 13 Hurt

Bus wreckage at 83d street and Jeffery avenue.

Swerves from Car

Thirteen persons were injured yesterday afternoon when a Trailways bus, reaching Chicago from the east, swerved to avoid an automobile at 83d street and Jeffery avenue, and struck a trolley pole. Passengers in the bus were trapped for several minutes until one of them smashed a door. He was Edward O'Connor, 47 years old, of 5335 Princeton avenue.

The driver, Irving Mader, 31, of 6130 South Carpenter street, and a passenger, Charles Wilson, 63, of Cleveland, O., were reported to be the most seriously injured. Wilson was said to have internal injuries and a possibly fractured jaw. Mader's legs were cut and bruised.

The automobile was driven by V. Fredrickson, 37, of 5400 Maryland avenue, and was said by Policeman John Baer of the accident prevention bureau to have emerged from Jeffery avenue thru a red light. Fredrickson said the light was changing as he crossed the street.

The injured were taken to Jackson Park and South Chicago hospitals. Most of them were released after receiving treatment.

CITY RELIEF LOAD DROPS TO 23,130, NEAR MINIMUM

Employables Gone to Take War Jobs.

With 23,130 cases on the books in August, Chicago's relief load is approaching its absolute minimum, short of the day 40 years hence when old age insurance is expected to virtually eliminate public assistance, it was announced yesterday by G. J. Klupar, city welfare commissioner.

The case total dropped 1,054 in August, Klupar said in a general review of the relief trend. On the average, 1,841 cases have been closed each month since March. Case openings have dropped sharply, averaging 376 a month in 1943, compared with 937 in 1942; 2,135 in 1941; 7,382 in 1939, and a high of 9,327 in 1938.

Employables Take Jobs.

Practically every employable person on relief rolls has obtained work, Klupar said. Many are working in war jobs who in normal times would be considered unemployable. These have been placed with care to avoid health or other difficulties. Few of those not working now can be placed under any circumstances.

Of the present 23,130 cases, 6,200 are those of women whose children receive support from the aid to dependent children fund. The federal and state governments each contribute $9 a month to the support of the first child and $6 a month for each additional child.

2,500 Orphans Included.

Mothers, Klupar said, were not considered when this fund was set up, so many of them have become relief cases. The relief load Klupar said, also includes 2,500 orphaned children committed to foster homes by the Juvenile court.

The remainder of the cases are those of persons unable to work. They include 2,000 aliens over 65 years old who are ineligible for old age assistance; the feeble minded, and the lame, halt, blind, and sick.

DEATH OF GIRL, 15, FOUND SHOT, HELD SUICIDE

A Will county coroner's jury yesterday held that Catherine Hanuski, 15 years old, a freshman at the Joliet township High school, shot herself with "suicidal intent." Authorities believe she took her life because her friend, Harold Mattson, 17, was to enter the navy soon.

Catherine, her father's revolver clasped in one hand and a picture of Mattson in the other, was dead from a bullet wound in the head when her sister, Dorothy, 11, found her body Thursday night in the Hanuski home in Vine street, New Lenox, near Joliet. The parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Hanuski, were at a movie and the other children were at the home of a neighbor.

Hanuski, testifying at the inquest, said that because Catherine had stayed out until 11 p. m. Wednesday attending Mattson's 17th birthday party, he had reprimanded her, but he said she showed no resentment. He and Mattson both work in the same Rock Island railroad section gang.

SHERIFF, CUT 18 TIMES BY TOUGHS, OUT OF HOSPITAL

William A. Maier, 45 years old, sheriff of Kendall county, who was beaten severely and stabbed 18 times by a young tough on Sept. 1 when he tried to break from the county jail at Yorkville, returned home yesterday from the hospital.

The prisoner, Nelson Jeffries, 16 years old, and his brother, Joseph, 14, accused of stealing automobiles, still are held in the jail. Nelson threw pepper in the sheriff's eyes, then stabbed him until Maier seized the knife and threw it out a window. Joseph, in an adjoining cell, broke a chair and passed part of it to his brother to use as a club, but Maier fought him off until other officers came to his assistance.

After he got first aid, Sheriff Maier returned to the jail and thrashed each prisoner soundly, but the exertion opened his wounds and forced him into the hospital. The brothers will be held until Maier recovers sufficiently to appear in court.

Policemen Get Hearing Tuesday for Shooting

An indictment against Policemen Joseph Murray and William Hogan, accused of wounding Howard Darnell, 22 year old sailor, in a tavern at 2430 North Clark street on Aug. 31, was returned yesterday before Chief Justice Benjamin Epstein. The bill charges assault with intent to commit murder. Both will be arraigned Tuesday. Murray and Hogan, who were attached to the Sheffield avenue station, are under suspension. Murray has been at liberty on a $25,000 bond. Hogan made a bond of $15,000 yesterday.

23 FINED AFTER GAMING RAIDS ON CAFES, TAVERNS

Twenty-one Cicero tavern keepers and restaurateurs, and two Lyons tavern owners, who were seized on gambling charges Aug. 27 when state's attorney's policemen confiscated 40 slot machines in raids on their places, were each fined $25 and costs yesterday by Cicero Police Magistrate Henry J. Sandusky.

The amount of the fines was recommended by Henry Zadek, assistant state's attorney. Joseph Lustfield, Cicero attorney, represented all the defendants.

The raids were conducted simultaneously by policemen who had been posted in each establishment in which gambling devices were operated.

BURGLARS LOOT TAVERN.

George Gill, owner of the 212 club at 212 East 83d street, reported to police yesterday that burglars had stolen 12 cartons of cigarets, 12 cases of whisky, and $20 in currency.

DEFERS RULING IN LITIGATION OF 2 NEWS AGENCIES

Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe yesterday took under advisement the petition of Anthony Corica, operator of a sports news agency in Nevada. He seeks to enjoin the Continental Press of Cleveland, O., which also operates a sports news agency, and its officials, including James M. Ragen Jr., one of the owners, from taking away his customers.

The complainant also asks the court to compel the Western Union company to reinstate a contract whereby he had leased a wire from St. Louis to points west. Corica contends that he operated west of St. Louis and purchased news results from the Continental Press, serving the eastern part of the country. He charged that the other agency induced Western Union to cancel his leased wire and turn it over to Continental Press.

Atty. Floyd E. Thompson, representing Continental Press, denied Corica's claims and said Corica was hired by Continental to distribute its service. Judge Igoe ordered both attorneys to file briefs on the case.

Tavern Owner Robbed of $1,200 by Bandit Trio

Joseph Eringis, owner of a tavern at 5758 West 65th street, was robbed yesterday of $1,200 which he had just withdrawn from a bank, when three bandits halted his automobile in the 5700 block on West 64th place.

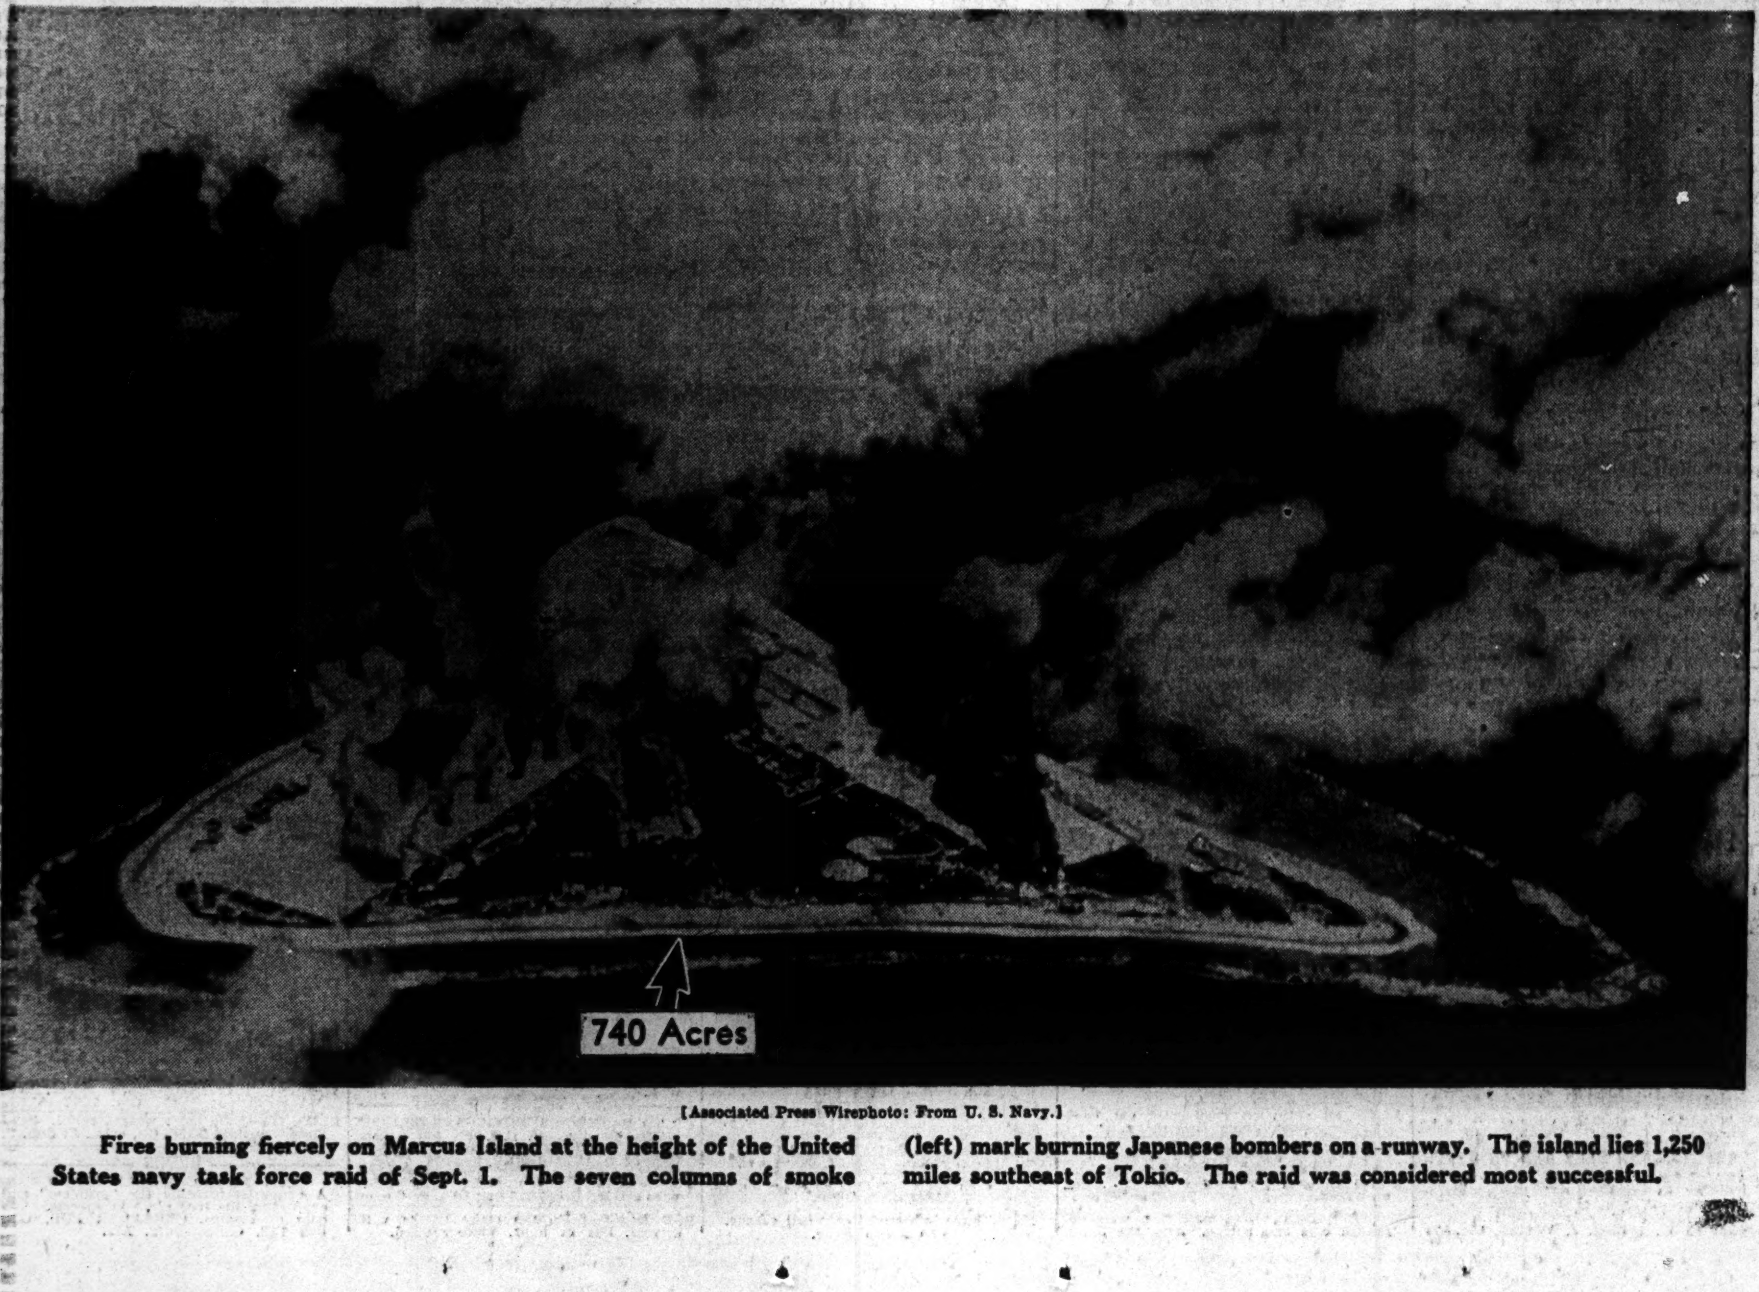
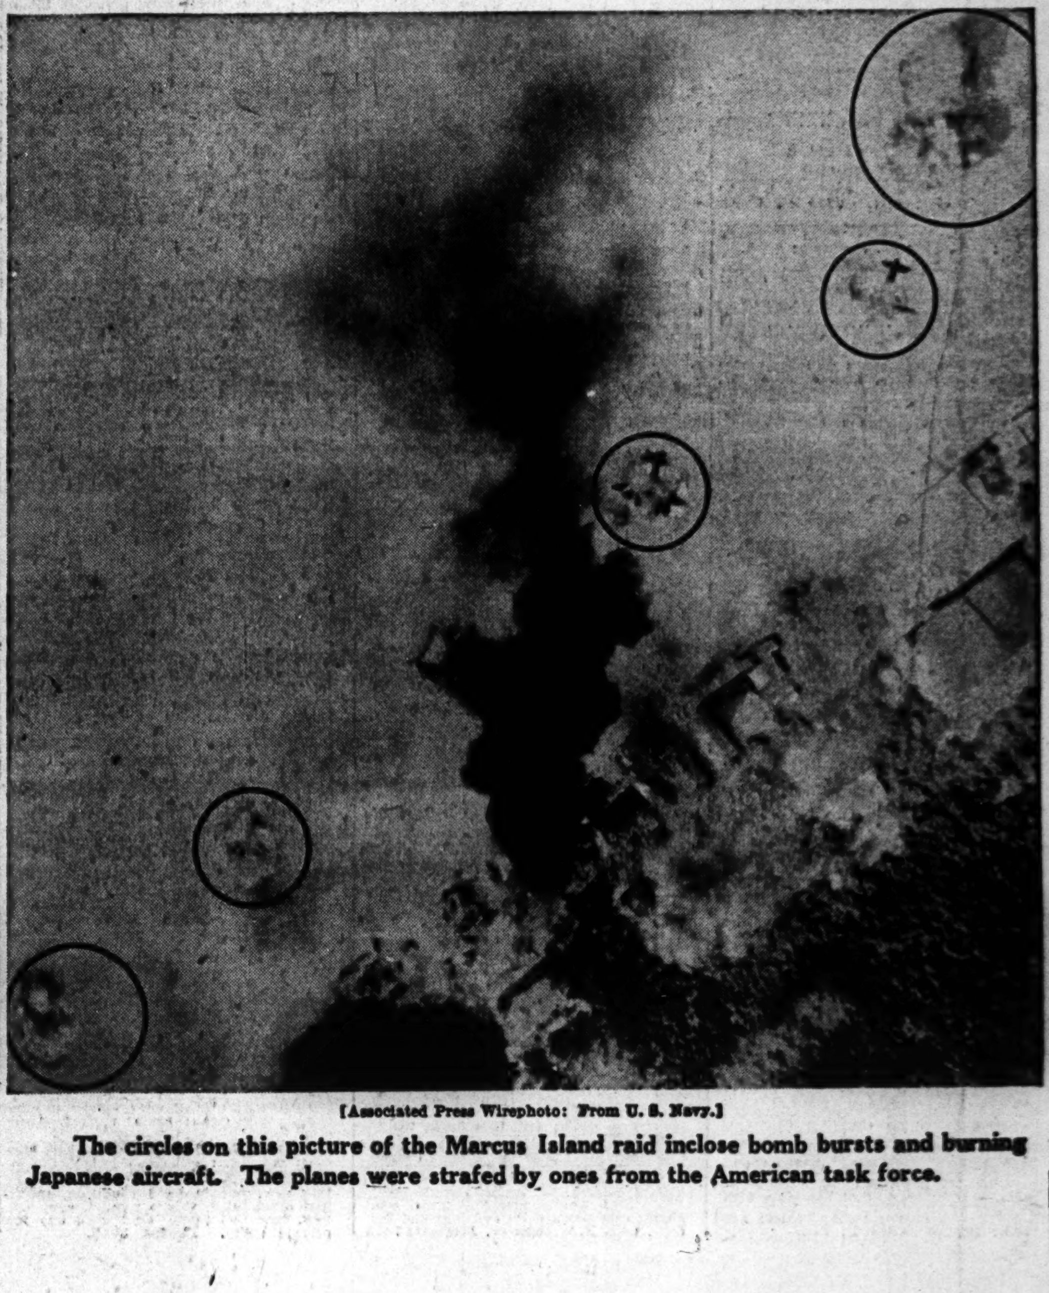
This Japanese trawler was bombed by planes of the United States naval task force that raided Marcus Island.



[Associated Press Wirephoto: From U. S. Navy.]

Fires burning fiercely on Marcus Island at the height of the United States navy task force raid of Sept. 1. The seven columns of smoke (left) mark burning Japanese bombers on a runway. The island lies 1,250 miles southeast of Tokio. The raid was considered most successful.



[Associated Press Wirephoto: From U. S. Navy.]

The circles on this picture of the Marcus Island raid inclose bomb bursts and burning Japanese aircraft. The planes were strafed by ones from the American task force.
